NEW YORK CITY.

[Special correspondence of The Press.]

NEW YORK, February 2, 1863.

THE SENATORIAL CANVASS

at Albany reveals no change this afternoon from what I wrote you on Saturday, though the stock of the Hon. David S. Dickinson has taken a slight rise in the Republican caucus, and the numerous outside supporters of the Hon. Henry J. Raymond claim for that gentleman an equal chance. But ex-Governor Morgan is still at the top of the heap, and the impression that he would suit the present popular majority of the State better than a stricter party man, more than counterbalances the evil effects of the malign insinuations that "he is rich enough to buy the nomination." Although a Republican, Mr. Morgan is so extremely amiable in his general political aspect, that even Gov. Seymour endorses him as a "good man." There are many Democrats in this city who would be delighted to have the venerable Thurlow Weed nominated by their men, as they now very reasonably esteem my Lord Thurlow to be a thorough convert to modern Democracy, and a worthy compeer for Brooks and the two Woods in the next Congress. Probably the Albany Democrats would fully answer the desire of their New York compatriots, but for a shrewd suspicion that Mr. Weed is too old a rat to accept such a nomination thus soon after his recent change of base.

SECESSIONISTS IN TOWN

are very exultant to-day over the capture of the Federal gunboat by the Charleston rebels, and the reported sortie from Galveston of the new pirate Harriet Lane. The release of the martyred Boileau is quite overshadowed by these greater crumbs of rebel comfort, and they are discussed with more gusto than even the ridiculous rumor that Mr. Horace Greeley is to be arrested for intriguing for French mediation! In short, the Secessionists of this city—not the crafty Democracy, but the out-and-out "Secesh"—are growing bolder every day. They have a regular organization up town, with agents at the different hotels to watch for the arrival of Confederate messengers on secret service from Norfolk and New Orleans, and guide them to the right quarters. Yesterday afternoon one of these agents at the Metropolitan "approached" an individual who had registered himself as just coming from New Orleans; and after learning in the course of an artful conversation that he, the said individual, had been imprisoned for seven weeks on a charge of disloyalty, by order of General Butler, at once threw off all reserve, and gave his new acquaintance the password by which he could make himself known to, and be known by, the secret order of "Secesh" in town.

A SUICIDE

occurred at the St. Nicholas Hotel on Saturday, the self-murderer being a wealthy banker from Wisconsin, named John Fitzgerald, a son-in-law of Senator Doolittle. Deceased had come to this city to seek medical aid for an insidious disease, and it is supposed that the little hope the New York doctors could give him had something to do with his hasty rash act. Previous to shooting himself through the head, he wrote and directed explanatory letters to his family and to the hotel proprietor, placed sufficient money in sight to pay his funeral expenses, and made other preparations with equally deliberate care.

THE REBEL POSTMAN,

Major Reid Sanders, was hospitably conveyed to the shelter of Fort Lafayette yesterday morning, though he would have preferred the accommodations and society of the New York Hotel. Now that the adventurous youth finds himself fairly understood, he laughs heartily over his prefence to be a native of "full Kingland" when first arrested, and freely acknowledges himself to be the scion of the ridiculous George N. STUYVESANT.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

THE MONEY MARKET.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3, 1863.

The gold market was in a panic to-day, and a general rush to sell took place. Opening at 156, it rapidly fell until 155¾ was the best figure named. Toward the close the market became stronger under the influence of new buyers, and gold rose to 154½@154¾, with a tendency still upward. The market was strong at the close. Old demands fell to 150—rising to 151¼, and closing at that figure.

The great banking plan of Secretary Chase is rapidly approaching completion, added and amended, as it is and will be, by all the wisdom of individual financiers, and the intellect of incorporated institutions, which we are glad to learn are generally in favor of it. But it is vitally important that action be taken upon it soon, the pressing wants of the country, the critical moment of the adjournment of Congress will perhaps soon be upon us, and we hope for the sake of the now waverring confidence of the people that the important question of finance will soon be set at rest, to bring to the disturbed minds of business men, a satisfactory termination of these violent fluctuations and exciting investments. Our country and city banks are already viewing the plan with favor, and no difficulty will be found among them, however much parties may think and speak of State Government opposition. The loan committee of the clearing house have sent in their report to the Secretary, favoring his views, and recommending certain changes, which we are sure will receive the careful attention of Mr. Chase, who has been laboring hard to perfect a system of national currency, once as acceptable on the Rocky Mountains as on the bleak shores of Maine. In viewing the means brought to bear upon this great financial scheme, we cannot but expect something that will be eminently satisfactory to the people, being no less, perhaps, than the entire safety of the l great institutions under which we live and move. When legislators pause let constituents take up the battle-axe of dominion. Let the people at home urge upon their representatives in Congress the necessity of immediate action in this matter by letters, petitions, or committees appointed. Whatever the means, let the voice of the people be heard urgently demanding a settlement of this vexed question.

Money looks a little tight, but without change in rates. Government stocks fell off ¼ per cent., the panic in gold somewhat affecting them.

Prices at the Stock market were down, with some few exceptions. State fives sold as high as 106, an advance of ½. City fives were steady. Pennsylvania Railroad mortgages rose ¾. Reading rises 1859 fell off ¼. Philadelphia and Erie sixes sold at 110; Sunbury and Erie sevens at 113¼, an advance of ¼. Elmira sevens fell off ¼. Schuylkill Navigation sixes sold at 70¼.

Reading Railroad shares were rather pressed for sale, opening at 45, declining ¼, but recovering to 44¾ before the close, when the market was stronger. Catawissa preferred fell off ¼; the common ¼. Little Schuylkill rose ¼; North Pennsylvania ¼. Pennsylvania fell off ¼; Minehill ¼; Camden and Amboy ½. Elmira was steady. Philadelphia and Erie sold down to 34. Camden and Atlantic sold at 13. Passenger railways were active; Green and Coates sold at 44¾, an advance of 1; Second and Third at 78; Seventeenth and Nineteenth at 11¼; Spruce and Pine at 16¾; West Philadelphia at 66; Race and Vine at 14¾; Thirteenth and Fifteenth at 26¼; Ridge Avenue at 17¾; Arch-street at 27¼; Fifth and Sixth at 67½.

Morris Canal sold at 56—the Preferred was steady; Schuylkill Navigation was inactive; Penn Mining sold at 2¾. Lehigh Creek at ¾.

The only transactions in bank stock was in Union Bank of Tennessee at 35. 4,900 shares and $105,000 in bonds changed hands, the market closing firm.

MARINE DISASTERS FOR JANUARY.

The number of American mercantile sea-going vessels lost or missing, reported during the last month, is comparatively light for January, namely, 26, which is the lowest number for any single month since August, and would have been still lower but for the depredations of the Confederate privateers. The list comprises 8 ships, 5 barks, 4 brigs, and 9 schooners. Of these 15 were wrecked, 2 abandoned, 2 foundered, 5 burnt, and 4 are missing.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A CHANGE OF SCENE.

BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL.

Old chroniclers relate.
That in seventeen twenty-eight,
When this city, now so great,
Looked but mean;
In its undeveloped state
Being seen—
At that time, on Market street,
Shone a lake, a silvery sheet
Of water, fresh and sweet,
Whose extent,
Half a mile of shore complete,
Did present.
And the gunners thither came,
In pursuit of various game,
And they carried off the game
By the score.
Now, that lake, except in fame,
Lives no more.
On the ground where once it lay,
Buildings rise in grand array,
And the one that makes display
more than all,
Is that wonder of our day,
Tower Hall.
