CITY ITEMS.

FURTHER DEPRECIATION IN GOLD.—Yesterday marked another decline in gold, notwithstanding which there was a perceptible impetus apparent in business circles along all our leading avenues. The well-known coal yard of Mr. W. W. Alter, Ninth street, above Poplar, was especially active, the orders at the office having amounted to nearly a thousand tons between eight in the morning and six in the evening. It is no longer questioned by any well-informed persons that the best place in Philadelphia to buy coal to advantage, is at Alter's, Ninth street, above Poplar. Orders may also be sent to his office at Sixth and Spring Garden streets.

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF CLOTHING.—Having heard much praise bestowed upon the great clothing emporium of Messrs. C. Somers & Son, No. 625 Chestnut street, under Jayne's Hall, we yesterday paid a visit of inspection. Their spring garments embrace every variety of style and taste, adapted to the wants of all. And in addition to their superb assortment of ready-made clothing, they have now also a very rich and extensive stock of fabrics, of all shades, textures, and designs, for gentlemen to select from, who prefer having suits made up to order. Their trade has set in with unusual activity, and it should be borne in mind also that their prices are as low as the lowest.

FINE CONFECTIONS AND CHOICE FRUITS.—Mr. A. L. Vansant's popular Confectionery establishment, Ninth and Chestnut streets, has been literally besieged with customers during the past few days, for their delicious new Spring Confections—French Bonbons, fine French and American Mixtures, Sweet Jordan Roasted Almonds—creamed and plain, chocolate preparations, et cetera; also, for his luscious Bananas, Sweet Havana Oranges, and other fine Fruits.

"DRAKE'S PLANTATION BITTERS."—It is seldom that any medicinal article wins its way into such universal favor with the public in so short a period as "Drake's Plantation Bitters." Likewise other desirable article of real merit in this line, it can be had at the old grocery stand of C. H. Mattson, Arch and Tenth streets. The proprietors have just received a large lot of it, direct, and are prepared to furnish it to the trade and at retail. Their price for it, at retail, is seventy-five cents per bottle.

NOVELTIES IN BONNETS.—Messrs. Wood & Cary, No. 725 Chestnut street, are now daily opening new styles of Crape, Silk, Lace, fine Chip, and fancy Bonnets, of various kinds; also, Bonnets for Travelling. Ladies of taste do not think of purchasing a fashionable hat without visiting this famous old establishment.

"THE PRIZE MEDAL," is the name of the best-fitting Shirt of the age. It is cut by the well-known cutter, Mr. John F. Taggart, and sold at the Gentlemen's Furnishing Store of Mr. George Grant, No. 610 Chestnut street.

MILITARY GOODS, of the finest description and in every variety, suitable for the outfit of Army and Navy officers, can be found at Oakford & Sons', under the Continental Hotel.

MESSRS. WOOD & CARY, 725 Chestnut street, have now open a superior assortment of Misses and Children's Hats, of every grade and description.

SPRING HATS FOR GENTLEMEN; also, Hats and Caps for Boys, are now ready at Oakford & Sons', under the Continental Hotel.

ONE OF THE LATEST, and by far the most beautiful accomplishment of the modern Sewing Machine, is that of executing the most elaborate and elegant embroidery. No machine will hereafter be considered fit for family use except it embroiders as well as sews, and no machine but the Grover & Baker pretends to attain to this perfection.

IT IS SAID, on very good authority, somewhere, we believe, that to return good for evil to your enemy, you "heap coals of fire upon his head." This may hold good as a rule, but like all good rules has its exceptions. Our old enemy, hypocritical and aristocratic England, proves the exception. Our Griswold we sent in exchange for their Alabama has the effect of, instead of pouring "hot coals on their head," the pouring of "hot shot" on our heads, as is exemplified continually in our conflicts with our rebellious slaveholders. The time will come, we hope, when we will give old England fits. Speaking of fits reminds us of those elegant ones furnished by the "one-price" clothing store of Charles Stokes & Co., under the Continental.

THE REAL AND FANCIFUL YANKEE.—When a caricaturist desires to produce a Northern man, he sketches a tall, slight, lank-jawed, high-collared, hatchet-faced man, with a long-tailed coat, descending to his heels; striped pantaloons, some inches too short in the leg, but elongated by stupendous straps, connecting the individual with a pair of New England Wellingtons. A particularly fuzzy hat completes his attire. The Yankee of real life, upon the other hand, is quite as good looking, generally, as any other race of men; while, in respect to dress, he is the peer of the most elegant gentleman the world can produce. This remark applies particularly to those who procure their suits at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above Sixth.

SPRING AND SUMMER CLOTHING—REDUCED PRICES.—Great inducements are offered to those in quest of spring and summer garments, at the mammoth "one-price" Clothing Emporium of Granville Stokes, No. 609 Chestnut street. The choicest variety of goods have just been received, and will be made to order, for purchasers, at prices twenty-five per cent. lower than any other establishment in the city. The most expert cutters and workmen are employed, and every garment sold is warranted, in fit, fabric, and fashion.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

APRIL.

BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL.

Yes! April, like a maiden fair,
Is changing every hour;
Sometimes she has a cheerful air,
Sometimes she weeps a shower.
Her smile can cancel, warm my heart,
Before it d sappears;
Oh! must a smile so soon depart,
And merge itself in tears?

Our life is like an April day,
Uncertain at the best;
One moment all is bright and gay,
And rapture fills the breast;
But chilling gales begin to rise,
A gloom pervades the air,
A murky cloud o'erspreads the skies,
And earth no more looks fair.

Like April's evanescent smile,
Life's sunshine glides away,
Beaming a moment to beguile,
Enchanting to betray.
But they who come to Bennett's Mart,
Spring Clothing to procure,
Are not beguiled ere they depart,
But find their comfort sure.

Our assortment of seasonable Ready-made Clothing is the largest and most complete in Philadelphia—our prices much below present market rates.
