THE BOARD OF CONTROL.—This body met yesterday afternoon, President Fletcher in the Chair.

Communications as follows were received:

From Fifteenth section, stating that the school at Nineteenth and North streets has been closed, and a new primary school organized. The Girls' School, No. 10, on the second floor, with Misses Emelie Martin principal, Anna M. Heulings first, and Louisa B. Hoff second assistants. The Boys' Primary No. 13, on the third floor, with Misses Lydia A. Kirby principal, Mary J. Jackson first, and Lizzie C. Hudson second assistants.

From the First district was received a note reporting the appointment of Miss Augusta B. Castor as principal of Roland unclassified school, vice Miss Mary S. Hawley, resigned.

From the Twenty-fourth section, asking for a better building at the Falls of the Schuylkill.

From the Nineteenth section were submitted resolutions asking an appropriation of $2,000 to complete the Stephen A. Douglas school building, in process of erection in Huntingdon street. The contractor finds himself mistaken in his bid. Also, recommending the purchase of a lot of twenty feet front on Belmont street, in the rear of the above school, for additional yard room.

From the Eighteenth section, announcing certain appointments of teachers.

From the Twenty-first section, complaining of the condition of Oakdale school, a building leased by the city, but in very bad condition.

From the Ninth section, asking that the second story of No. 1742 Market street be leased, so as to remove to it the boys' secondary school, N. W. corner of Fifteenth and Market streets.

From the Thirteenth section, submitting a resolution saying that a lot of ground had been secured at the N. W. corner of Sixth and Coates, to build on it a grammar school.

These communications were referred.

A motion was made to elect an assistant secretary, resulting in the choice of the present incumbent.

A report was received from the Committee on Quarterly Reports. The committee found 70 schools below the average during the last quarter, some of which have since received a sufficient number of pupils to entitle them to the teachers employed. They call attention to the Carroll Consolidated School, Twenty-fifth section. The average for its last quarter was 90; for the month of May, 67; on the day the committee visited it the attendance was but 38 pupils, with two teachers drawing $1,040 per annum salary. The Megargee Secondary School last quarter had an average of 129 pupils, with 4 teachers; the average required is 200. On the day the committee visited it they found 177 pupils in attendance. None of the teachers of this school have been confirmed. The Franklin Secondary School, Nineteenth section, shows an average of 134 pupils, with 4 teachers. They are entitled to but 2.

The committee recommended the dropping of one teacher from the Franklin and Megargee Schools, in the Nineteenth section. Adopted.

D. M. LANE, Captain, Provost Marshal, and President of the Board.

C. D. Baker, Commissioner of the Board.

J. RALSTON WELLS, Surgeon of the Board.

There are no apprehensions of any attempt at interference with the conscription officers, but the preparations have been made to protect the peace of the city should evil-designing persons attempt to execute the New York scenes of yesterday.

THE UNION LEAGUE BRIGADE.—The 3d Regiment of the Union League Brigade received its flag yesterday morning, after receiving refreshments and their bounty at the Soldiers' Reading Room, in Twentieth street, proceeded to West Philadelphia to take the cars for Harrisburg. The regiment is commanded by Colonel G. P. McLean, an experienced officer, and his staff and company officers have generally seen service. It was a subject of remark, as the regiment marched through the streets, what a fine body of men composed it, showing how ample is the material still in this city for good soldiers after the tens of thousands who have left it. It is certainly to the credit of the League that it has, in so short a time, put three regiments in the field, having raised among its members, and through its influence, a large sum of money necessary for the purpose. The commands of the 1st, 2d, and 3d Regiments are, respectively, Lieutenant Colonel Wm. B. Whipple, of the regular army; Colonel Wm. A. Gray, of the volunteers, and Colonel G. P. McLean, of the volunteers.

DEPARTURE OF TROOPS.—Yesterday morning the 3d regiment raised under the auspices of the Union League, left their camp and paraded through the city, accompanied by Binghim's Brigade Band. The men were all uniformed and armed, and marched exceedingly well. In front of the League House, the regiment halted and received a beautiful stand of colors, a gift from the members of the League. Accompanying the regiment was the Dana Troop, which also attached to the brigade. The men were uniformed like the Anderson Cavalry, and were armed with carbines, but were not mounted. Both organizations left for Harrisburg. Company H, of the 23d Cross Exchange Regiment, Captain Jas. O'Dougherty commanding, left for Harrisburg on Monday evening. The company numbered 100 men, fully armed and equipped, and presented a fine appearance as they marched through the streets.

AN INFURIATED STEER AT LARGE—SEVERAL PERSONS INJURED.—An infuriated steer made his appearance in the Nineteenth ward, on Monday afternoon, and before he could be captured attacked several persons, injuring them severely. On Second street he rushed on a man and inflicted serious injuries. At Fifth and Chatham streets a German woman was struck in the left side and was tossed about three feet into the air. She fell upon her head and was considerably bruised. A lad named Thomas Kelly, about twelve years of age, was attacked on Little Poplar street, near Sixth. He was struck in the abdomen, but fortunately the horn of the animal did not enter the body. The skin was torn all the way up to the chin, however. The boy made a very narrow escape. As far as could be ascertained, no further damage was done by the infuriated beast.

RUNAWAY AND NARROW ESCAPE.—A lady and gentleman were driving up Brown street on Monday afternoon, and they had nearly got upon the track of the Germantown railroad, when a train came down Ninth street. The horse took fright at the locomotive, and turning about dashed down Brown street. The wagon was overturned, and the occupants were thrown from it without receiving any serious injury. The frightened animal, with the overturned carriage hanging to his heels, ran down Brown street to Fourth, before his course was arrested. The wagon was literally broken to pieces, and the horse sustained serious injuries in his efforts to rid himself of the wreck. The incident caused much excitement, as it was feared that persons in the street would be caught in the wreck of the carriage which the frightened horse was whirling along with frightful speed.

FATALITY AMONG AMBULANCE HORSES.—The ambulance horses of the various fire companies have all been overworked of late in consequence of the daily arrivals of sick and wounded soldiers, and a number of the company horses have, in this way, lost very fine animals. The West Philadelphia Hose lost two horses, both of which dropped dead, owing to the hard work and excessive heat. The Good Will lost one and the Humane one. The Philadelphia Fire Company also had one of their horses to drop down from over-exertion and the heat, but this animal is in a fair way of recovery. We understand that the fire companies are willing to use their ambulances, but wish the Government hereafter to furnish the horses.

The West Philadelphia Hose lost two horses, both of which dropped dead, owing to the hard work and excessive heat. The Good Will lost one and the Humane one. The Philadelphia Fire Company also had one of their horses to drop down from over-exertion and the heat, but this animal is in a fair way of recovery. We understand that the fire companies are willing to use their ambulances, but wish the Government hereafter to furnish the horses.

THE POLICE.

THE GREAT CONSPIRACY CASE

Further and Interesting Particulars.

THE TREASON PLOTTERS UNEASY.

The United States Grand Jury room was filled to almost suffocation, yesterday morning, on the occasion of the resumption of the investigation of the case of O'Neal, Benedict, and Moore. The proceedings were to have commenced at ten o'clock, but District Attorney Coffey not making his appearance until nearly eleven, all this time was lost. The case will be resumed at ten o'clock this morning, sharp time. The following additional evidence was elicited yesterday:

Lewis J. Sherman, recalled.—In regard to the conversation, on the 8th instant, in relation to the capture of the United States transport ship Star of Washington, and the project for fitting out the schooner Lady's Delight as a privateer, I asked Benedict what he had done in his trip to Richmond, and he said he captured; O'Neal spoke up, and said that if it was convenient, the transports could be taken ashore—if not, there would be a mutiny. I asked him what was to be done with the crews; he replied: "Sink them too, or take them to Richmond, if possible, or to some other place." I asked what became of the transports could he not carry them, the hulls and all, and could do any other thing to destroy the d—d vessels."

Question. Did he mention particularly what vessels?

Answer. Those going to Washington, District of Columbia; it was also said that if we captured a vessel and could not take her, we could, perhaps, could destroy her and take the better one, then proceed to the Delaware Breakwater, and sink such merchant vessels as might be there; this could be done on some favorable night; Captain Benedict said he did not care what became of him; all he wanted was to show the Confederate Government that he was a good Southern man; all he wanted was to build up his reputation; this is about all I recollect.

The witness underwent a long and tiresome cross-examination, but there was nothing elicited calculated in the least to impair his voluminous testimony in chief. In answer to a question put by Mr. Vandyke, the counsel for the defence, the witness replied: I made no proposition to the parties to fit out a privateer; I made no proposition to purchase a steamer as a privateer, because I had a rich uncle who would supply the funds; I did say that I had a rich uncle in Johnson County, Iowa, who lived in Wilmington, North Carolina; I do say, under the oath that I have taken, that I never made any proposition to any one to fit out a privateer, the proposition came from the parties; all the proposition I made to them was to take my goods; of course my business was to detect the parties, and I adopted the most effectual way to do it; five boxes were sent to me from Philadelphia by my brother, Wm. H. Sherman; can't say that I know exactly what he brought in them; I know they came to Jersey City; I was to place the Lady's Delight at a mock sale for $2,500; the schooner Lady's Delight is now in the harbor of Jersey City; have seen vessels like her fitted out as privateers; the parties were arrested on the order of the War Department; the arrest of the rebel mail were handed to District Attorney Coffey before the arrests were made; in consequence of the important papers having been brought to Philadelphia, it was thought proper to bring the prisoners here; I did not arrest the prisoners; Mr. Moore told me that he had a vessel captured, which at the proper time will be proven.

The District Attorney now offered in evidence certain letters found in the possession of Mrs. Moore. They were written from Capt. Benedict to Moore on the subject of purchasing vessels. These letters do not possess sufficient interest for publication. There are rebel letters that will be offered in evidence. One of them is from Mr. Andrews, of Virginia, and urged on the rioters in New York. The publication of all the important letters in the mailbound be gratifying to every loyal person in the country. Any effort will be made to-day to read them in public. Mr. Vandyke will resist the offer.

[Before Mr. Alderman Ogle.]

Further Items of Burglaries.

Aaron Hill, colored, lives at Seventh and Joseph Monk, the three lads arrested a few days since by Officer Rice on the charge of attempted housebreaking, in the vicinity of Locust and Eighth streets, were brought before the Alderman this morning, sharp time. The first hearing the detectives had succeeded in recovering a considerable quantity of stolen goods. The following places, according to the confession of the parties, were robbed:

On the 26th of June, the dwelling of W. C. Logan, No. 629 North Nineteenth street, of clothing, to the value of $70.

On the 30th of June, the dwelling of Mahlon B. Leidersdorf, No. 945 North Twelfth street, of clothing, valued at $80.

On June 27th, the store and dwelling of Solomon K. Elkin, No. 1037 Callowhill street, of gold chain and clothing, taken from $40 in money. At this place, the fire-proof safe was blown open by means of gunpowder.

On the first of July the dwelling of J. M. Megarge, No. 656 North Eleventh street, was robbed of coats, pants, and other clothing, to the value of $150. A quantity of oyster-knives, powder flask, and an opera glass, were also stolen.

The prisoners were committed, in default of $3,000 bail each, to answer at the next term of the court.

We are informed that Aaron Hill, alias J. Jones, is between eighteen and nineteen years of age, and a deserter from the army. The police have been informed that he is so utterly worthless that the military authorities will have nothing to do with him. He never was in a battle, but always skulked when an engagement was about to take place. Thieves in the army generally skulk, like cowards, and finally desert; at least this opinion is entertained by the authorities.
