FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

THE MONEY MARKET.

PHILADELPHIA, August 1, 1863.

Gold opened very stiffly this morning at 129@129¼, with considerable demand up to the time of the departure of the steamer from New York, after which the market fell off. The disbursements of our State Treasurer also assisted the decline. The amount paid from his office was probably the larger half of a million dollars. At the close it was freely offered at 127½@127¾.

The five-twenty loan continues as popular as ever, and, despite the longings and croakings of over-anxious, doubtful patriots, the conversions proceed without cessation. Many point to the political horizon, and affect to see trouble clouding it. Shrewd operators are liable to the same error of vision, and, blinded by their interest, may endeavor to force the market, and until decisive events occur fluctuation will follow speculation and tribulation will be the certain result. Speculation is at all times difficult and inducive of trouble; if all goes well, quick profits are the result; if otherwise, the lesson is a good prompter for the future. Safety ought to be the first question when an investment is desired; the question of profit follows. The merits of Government securities have been extensively explained to the public; but the question of Government finance is one which every American should take to his heart, and in times of danger each should do what he can to help along the good work.

There is no change in the condition of the money market, rates ranging from 4 to 6 per cent.

The stock market exhibited considerable life, and bids were active. Reading was in large demand at an advance of 1, closing strong. City sixes were also active at 100½ for the old, and 106½ for the new. Pennsylvania sold at 63⅞; Elmira preferred at 52½; Camden and Amboy at 165; North Pennsylvania Railroad sixes at 52—an advance of 1; State fives at 101; Reading convertibles at 112. Delaware Division sold at 44. Canal stocks more dull. The market closed strong, with a tendency to more vigorous operations.

The New York Evening Post of to-day says:

The stock exchange is active this morning, and there are more buyers than sellers. Money is easy, and though we observe a considerable demand for loans, still it is exceeded by the supply of capital seeking temporary investment. Government securities are steady but inactive; Border State bonds are firm, railroad bonds strong, bank shares quiet, and miscellaneous shares buoyant.
