THE 95TH REGIMENT PENNSYLVANIA VOLUNTEERS.—As those of this regiment who have re-enlisted again arrived in this city in squads, very little notice has been taken of them. We here subjoin a running sketch of the doings of this brave band of veterans:

The 95th Regiment of Pennsylvania volunteers was organized pursuant to authority of the War Department by the State Colonel John M. Oglesby, in this city, during the month of August, 1861, and as the companies were recruited they were sent to camp at Hestonville, and remained there until the 11th day of October following, when the regiment being filled to nearly its maximum number, was ordered to report to Washington, D. C. On the 12th, the regiment left this city, and arrived in Washington on the following morning, and encamped on Kendall Green, under orders from General Casey. Here they remained until the 29th, when, in obedience to orders from General Howard, they marched out to Bladensburg, as part of his brigade. The following day the regiment reported, under orders, to Brigadier General Franklin (now Major General), and was attached to General Newton's brigade, Division of Alexandria, under command of Brigadier General Wm. B. Franklin, and went into camp of instruction near Fairfax Court House, called Camp Pierpont.

After a thorough course of drill and discipline during the winter months, they participated in the forward movement upon Manassas, only to find that the enemy had evacuated that strongly-fortified position; they again returned to Camp Franklin, arriving on the 6th of April they were ordered to Bristoe Station, on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, remaining three days, and again returned to camp. On the 17th the regiment was embarked on transports, and sent to Shipping Point, Va., where they remained until after the evacuation of Yorktown, and then they were again embarked and sent up the York river to West Point, where they arrived May 5th. Here they took an active part in the battle of Brickhouse Point on the 7th, (called the battle of West Point), and sustained a loss of one line officer wounded, eight enlisted men killed, and six wounded. From that place they marched daily till they reached the Chickahominy, where they lay for some time, many of the men suffering from the swamp fever, and other diseases consequent to such swampy country.

On the 27th the monotony of camp life was broken by the rebel General Jackson trying to turn the right flank of the army, when the division, to which the regiment was attached, was ordered over the Chickahominy to reinforce General Porter, who was being hard pressed, and arrived just in time to check the rebels, who were beginning to overpower Gen. Porter's forces. After holding the ground till night, they returned to their old camp. This was called the battle of Gaines' Hill, and the 95th suffered the following loss: Killed—Col. John M. Gosline, Maj. Wm. B. Hubbs, 1st Lieutenant H. C. Donahue (Co. C.) and twenty-nine enlisted men. Wounded—Captain Edward Ellis, Lieutenant Geo. W. Roberts, Co. E, and sixty-one men. This was their first severe loss, and truly such it was. After passing through the memorable seven days' retreat, they regiment reached and encamped at Harrison's Landing until August 16th, 1862. On the evacuation of that place, they were detailed as rear guard, and marched to Newport News. From there they were sent to Alexandria in transports. At the close of that month they participated in the second battle of Bull Run and Centreville, where they lost but one man wounded.

On the 6th of September the regiment with the rest of the army, took up the line of march into Maryland, via Washington, on the occasion of the first invasion of that State by the rebels, and was engaged in the battles of Crampton Pass and Antietam Valley, September 14th, sustaining a loss of two men killed and twenty-two wounded. From this time to the end of October the regiment performed various marches, and were encamped at different places in Washington county, Maryland, doing picket duty on the Potomac. On the 20 of November they recrossed the river at Berlin, and arrived at Stafford Court House on the 18th, where they remained till December 4th, doing picket duty, when they moved with the division to the neighborhood of White Oak Church. On the 12th they crossed the Rappahannock below Fredericksburg, and took position in line of battle behind the artillery, and were engaged all night, with slight casualties, till the night of December 15th, when the army was ordered to the north bank of the river. The regiment remained there till the 20th January, 1863, the regiment was encamped at White Oak Church, and on the 20th the 1st grand division, to which the regiment was attached, marched some eight miles up the left bank of the Rappahannock, with the intention of surprising and attacking the enemy, but a severe storm of snow, sleet and rain storm set in which rendered the roads impassable and consequently the contemplated movement had to be abandoned. The division was ordered back and the 95th reached their old camp ground on the evening of the 25th. From this time until April 28th they did nothing but the ordinary routine of camp life and occasional picket duty. On the 28th they broke camp and marched to the banks of the Rappahannock, and at daylight on the 29th the 95th and the 119th P. V. in the advance, crossed the river in pontoons with slight loss, surprised the enemy's pickets and drove them from their rifle pits. Skirmishing was kept up till 10 o'clock, when the advance of the corps (6th) on the Chancellorville road an engagement took place resulting in the following heavy loss to the 95th: Killed, Col. Gosline, V. Town, Lieut. Col E. Hall, Adjutant E. D. Dunton, Capt. P. D. G. Chapman, Co. C.; Lieutenant D. Haller, Co. F, and eighteen privates. Wounded, Major Thomas Town, seven line officers, and one hundred and two men, also thirty-seven men in prisoners and missing, making a total loss of one hundred and sixty-nine men. Of the privates wounded thirty have since died from the effects of their wounds.

On the 4th of May they recrossed the river and encamped at White Oak Church. On the 11th the regiment was transferred to the second brigade, third division (formerly General Newton's) to that of General J. J. Bartlett. On the 7th of June the regiment again crossed the river, skirmished with the enemy, and threw up earthworks, returning on the 19th, when they took up the line of march with the army and crossed the Potomac river at Edward's Ferry; thence they marched through Maryland and arrived at Gettysburg, Pa., on July 2d, and went into action after marching thirty-two miles since the night before. On that day they sustained a loss of one man killed and six wounded. On the 3d they lay under cover in line of battle, and on the 4th, with the brigade, was pushed forward on a reconnoissance of the enemy's position. July 5th they took up the line of march and came upon the rear of the enemy, with whom they skirmished till the 10th, when the enemy retreated across the Potomac. On the 19th the regiment crossed the river at Berlin, and marched every day until the 26th, when they halted at Warrenton, Va., and encamped till the 31st, and then, with the brigade, they were ordered to New Baltimore. On the night of September 4th the headquarters of General Bartlett was attacked by guerillas, when the regiment was turned out under arms and the enemy was repulsed. From that time till October 20th the regiment was marching almost daily from one place to another, and were frequently drawn up in line of battle, but no engagements took place. Then they encamped at Warrenton, where they went into winter quarters.

On the arrival of this regiment at Washington, in October, 1861, the total number of men of its duty was 958, since which time they have received over 150 new recruits. At present the regiment numbers but 350 active men, of whom 270 have re-enlisted again for three years or the war, and are now in this city, on a furlough of thirty-five days, seeing their friends and making ready for active campaigning.

The present head of the regiment is Lieutenant Colonel Ed. Carroll, who was an officer in the Mexican war, and came out as captain in Co. C, was wounded at the battle of Gaines' Hill, and has since been promoted to his present position. Theo. H. McGelis is the senior major of the regiment, he has been on recruiting duty in this city for some time past.

GETTYSBURG BATTLE-FIELD MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION.—Hon. Joseph R. Ingersoll, chairman of Provisional Committee of the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Association, has issued a circular to the people of Pennsylvania, setting forth the importance of preserving the sacred grounds where was fought the greatest battle of the present war, and calling upon them to contribute towards their purchase. The object of the association is to preserve the battle-field, with its natural and artificial defences, in the form and condition it presented during the battle-days of July. Mr. D. McConaughy, who is the author of the project, has secured the purchase of the most striking and interesting portions, including the heights of Cemetery Hill, the granite spur of Round Top, with the wonderful stone defences constructed by the Pennsylvania Reserves; the timber beat works on the right, extending for a mile along Wolf Hill, and other important points.

Messrs. Henry C. Carey, Edmond A. Souder, and Henry C. Baird are the officers of the Philadelphia Local Committee of the Provisional Association. An incorporation similar to that of a Monument Association is contemplated. To accomplish the design of its founders, a fund is to be created by the voluntary subscription of citizens of sums of money, to be divided into shares of $10, and for which suitable certificates will be issued. The fund thus created will be faithfully devoted to the object, under a management composed of gentlemen of well-known business character and of public and private worth. What monumental shaft, what column, what Mausoleum could furnish a more noble device, or more fit, expressive, or sacred memorial, than these scenes of immortal strife, which have become historic, and have taken their just position among the great places and events of the world's history, and are destined to a like immortality of fame?

James Lines was William E. Cooper. This was an action to recover damages for an alleged malicious prosecution for perjury. It appeared that a year or two ago, Lucas being desirous of obtaining possession of certain books of account appertaining to a business of which he claimed to be the owner, though it was being conducted in the name of Cooper, and had after refusing to give them up, preferred a charge of larceny against Cooper, and, proceeding to his house, had him arrested, and took possession of the books. Cooper, on the oath of Lucas, was bound over to answer the charge of larceny, but after hearing on habeas corpus was discharged, and the books ordered to be returned to him as being his property. Cooper then, in turn, preferred a charge of perjury against Lucas, in having falsely sworn the books were his. Upon this charge he was tried and acquitted. He then brought this action for damages for malicious prosecution. After hearing plaintiff's evidence, the court directed a non-suit. H. Hubbell for plaintiff; Ernst for defendant.

Thos. Osborne and Theodoraia, his wife, to her use, vs. John Miller. An action to recover damages for assault and battery committed on the wife, and plaintiff's wife by defendant. The difficulty grew out of a question as to right of way to an alley. Jury out. Adjourned.

District Court—Judge Hare.

Thos. Symington vs. George S. Pepper. An action of replevin. Verdict for plaintiff.

District Court—Judge Sharswood.

W. C. Witters & Co. vs. G. B. Rowley. Before reported. Verdict for plaintiff, $118 61.

John G. White & Son vs. Prosser & Lubberman. Verdict for plaintiff, $111.63.

Both District Courts adjourned for the week.

Court of Quarter-Sessions—Judge Allison.

The two or three cases disposed of in this court yesterday were very trifling. John O'Byrne, Esq., acted as district attorney.

SAMUEL P. GODWIN.

The undersigned, as General Subscription Agent, is authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury to continue the sale of this popular Loan, and TEN DAYS public notice will be given of discontinuance.

ABOUT TWO HUNDRED MILLIONS remain unsold, and this amount is scarcely sufficient to furnish a basis for the circulation of the National Banking Associations now being formed in every part of the Country. But a short time must elapse before this loan is wholly absorbed, the demand from Europe, Germany especially, being quite active.

As it is well known that the Secretary of the Treasury has ample and unfailing resources in the duties on imports, internal revenue, and in the proceeds of the Treasury Bonds, bearing Legal Tender Treasury Notes, it is nearly certain that it will not be necessary for him for a long time to come to issue further permanent Loans, the interest and principal of which are payable in Gold.

These considerations must lead to the prompt conclusion that the time is not far distant when these "Five-Twenties" will sell at a handsome premium, as was the recult with the "Seven-thirty" Loan, when it was all sold, and could no longer be subscribed for at par.

This is a

SIX PER CENT. LOAN, the interest and principal being payable in gold, thus yielding about seven per cent. per annum at the present premium on gold.

It is called "Five-Twenty," from the fact that while the Bonds may run for twenty years, yet the Government has the right to pay them off in gold at par, at any time after five years.

The interest is paid half yearly on the first days of November and May.

Subscribers can have Coupon Bonds which are payable to bearer and issued for $50, $100, $500, and $1,000, or Registered Bonds of similar denominations, and in addition $5,000 and $10,000.

These "Five-Twenties" cannot be taxed by States, cities, towns, or counties, and the Government tax on them is only one-half of a half per cent. on the amount of income, when the income exceeds one hundred dollars per annum. Income from all other investments, such as mortgages, railroad stocks, bonds, &c., must pay from three to five per cent. tax on the income.

Banks and Bankers throughout the country will continue to dispose of the Bonds, and all orders by mail or otherwise properly attended to.

The Treasury Department having perfected arrangements for the prompt delivery of Bonds, Subscribers will be enabled to receive them at the time of subscribing, or at farthest in FOUR days. This arrangement will be gratifying to parties who want the Bonds on payment of the money, and will greatly increase the sales.
