here fresh water could be procured. General Grant told Senator Wade that just as soon as a sufficient quantity of rain fell to insure a supply of water, and lay the intolerable dust in the roads, that he would make a movement which would fully satisfy the fullest expectations of the country. It will be remarked that rains have just fallen in the vicinity of Richmond, and General Grant, true to his promise to Senator Wade, is now on the march for the rebel capital—this time on the north bank of the James river. Notwithstanding the withdrawal of the 18th Corps, very large reinforcements have been sent to General Grant's army from various quarters, including the 19th Army Corps, which recently came up from the Mississippi river. Officials here have the utmost confidence that General Grant will achieve brilliant success.

LATER FROM DEAD BOTTOM.

FORTRESS MONROE, July 29.—Four hundred prisoners, who were captured by the 2d Corps, opposite Jones' Point, on the James river, on Wednesday morning, have arrived here.

It is reported that our advancing forces have since captured three rebel brigades, with arms, equipage, &c.

We also captured several guns.

The 18th Army Corps and Sheridan's cavalry are operating.

OPERATIONS BEFORE PETERSBURG.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Passengers by the mail-boat report that on Thursday afternoon, in front of Petersburg, the rebels opened upon our forces from their batteries.

The batteries on our side replied, and soon silenced those of the enemy.

Our mortars also opened upon Petersburg, and continued to throw shells into the town until a late hour in the night.

ASSAULT ON PETERSBURG—A REBEL BATTERY OF 16 GUNS BLOWN UP—EARTHWORKS CARRIED.

CITY POINT, Saturday, July 30.—The siege of Petersburg was opened in earnest this morning, and daylight we blew up one of the principal rebel batteries of sixteen guns, and had carried three lines of the enemy's earthworks.

FORTRESS MONROE, July 30.—The officers of the rebel steamer, which left City Point this morning, confirm the above report, which is undoubtedly reliable.

THE ENTIRE LINE OF ENTRENCHMENTS CARRIED.

BALTIMORE, July 31.—A later despatch, from the Associated Press correspondent at City Point, states that the assault on Petersburg commenced at 4 o'clock on Saturday morning by a terrible explosion, which completely destroyed one of the enemy's principal forts in front of Petersburg, containing sixteen guns.

This was reduced to a mass of ruins. Immediately on this explosion our artillery opened with one simultaneous and continuous roar along the entire line of Gen. Grant's army.

Up to the leaving of the mail-boat at 10 o'clock we had captured two other earthworks, and also the entire line of entrenchments. The battle was progressing with great fury.

THE EXPLOSION OF THE MINE—FURIOUS BATTLE IN PROGRESS—THE CAPTURE OF PETERSBURG HOURLY EXPECTED.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Information from the headquarters of the Army of the Potomac, dated July 30th, says:

"The great event so long anticipated, viz: the explosion of the mine under the enemy's fort in front of the 9th Corps, came off this morning at 4.40. The ball firing was kept up all night, and, in fact, at the time the mine was applied the skirmishers were all engaged on both sides.

"The volume of dirt thrown up was immense, and rose every three hundred feet in the air, resembling an immense fountain of dirt or a crater more than anything else.

"The 9th Corps at once charged the works, driving the enemy to their second line, and taking a number of prisoners, some of whom were dug out of the dirt badly bruised. They state that only one out a dozen remain out of their regiment, a South Carolina one.

"As soon as the explosion took place one hundred and twenty guns opened along our front, while the rebel works blazed in one continuous line of fire along front of the 9th and parts of the 5th and 18th Corps.

"The scene was one long to be remembered by all who witnessed it. But the smoke from the guns prevented the view, and the above particulars of our success were obtained from those who came in with the prisoners.

"The prisoners say they were completely surprised, most of them being asleep at the time. They state that there were four guns in the fortification, which, of course, were buried out of sight. One prisoner represented that they were busy mining under our works, and that in two days more they would have been ready to blow us up. But we got the start of them, and it is hoped that long ere this inches you Petersburg will be in our possession."

[STILL LATER.]

A despatch dated 7 A. M., says:

"Reports just in state that we have possession of the entire first line of the rebel works, with a large number of prisoners. Our loss in the charge was severe, as our men had to cross an open field to reach the rebels. The pontoon engineers were the 9th Corps, with the 18th supporting them, the 2d and 5th being in reserve.

"The fighting is still going on, consisting principally of musketry.

"Generals Grant and Meade, with all the corps generals, are at the front, watching the progress of affairs."

THE WAR IN THE SOUTHWEST.

REVOLT OF THE REBELS BY SHERMAN'S FORCES.

NEW YORK, July 31.—A Nashville despatch says that Gen. Sherman, on the 28th, put the army in motion to accomplish an important operation, when the enemy attempted to intercept it by an attack on the 15th Corps. They were severely repulsed.

THE REBELS AFRAID OF SHERMAN'S ARTILLERY.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Information from General Sherman's army represents affairs to be in the highest degree satisfactory.

Our movements, for the past day or so, have met with no opposition from the enemy, but they crouch behind their fortifications, thus evidently showing that they are afraid of the artillery of General Sherman.

The weather has been intensely warm for the past two days, the thermometer being ninety-five in the shade.

RETALIATION IN KENTUCKY.

CINCINNATI, July 30.—General Paine, commanding this district, has sent a noted rebel of Paducah into the country to inform the people that for every outrage on Union men's lives and property, the rebel sympathizers will be treated in the same manner.

In addition to the order already reported, General Paine has directed that none but loyalists shall trade in the district, and that no banks, except at Cairo, shall pay out money or receive deposits without special permits.

He has also taxed the wealthy Secessionists $100,000 for the benefit of soldiers' families living in West Kentucky.

THE LOWER MISSISSIPPI—A STEAMER BURNED BY THE REBELS—THE LATE FIGHT NEAR ATLANTA.

CAIRO, July 31.—New Orleans papers of the 23d contain no news. There was a fair inquiry for cotton, but holders decline to sell, and quotations are nominal at 165 for low middlings.

The steamer Clara Bell was fired into at Carrollton Landing, on the 24th, by a rebel battery. Three shots penetrating her hull, below the line, wounded seven persons. She was run on ahead, and had nearly repaired the damages when she was again attacked, the battery having been moved up. Four bells struck the boat, setting her on fire, and she burnt to the water's edge. All on board escaped except one wounded man, who is supposed to have perished. A tin-clad boat was sent to protect the Clara Bell, but failing to drive away the battery the steamer Louisville was sent, but before she reached the place the battery had been moved towards Columbia.

The steamer Leviathan, with the Pauline Carrollton in tow, darkened their lights and passed the battery without molestation. The rebel force in that vicinity is said to consist of four hundred Texas cavalry, with four pieces of artillery. The Leviathan passed four miles south of the White river, afraid to venture up that stream.

The bodies of Colonel Crooks and other officers killed in the late fight, twelve miles from Helena, were brought up on the Leviathan. Thirty-seven privates are reported killed in the same fight.

One of our caissons was captured by the enemy, who numbered 1,500, while our force was not one-third of that number.

"The Republic of Jones."

The Natchez Courier, of the 12th ult. gives an account of a curious "Republic" which was organized in Jones county, Mississippi, a year or so ago. It appears that numbers of rebel deserters having concreated in the swamps of that county, determined to form a government for themselves. A rebel Colonel Mowry, with a considerable force, went to disband them, and it was supposed had succeeded, but it now appears that the malcontents offered a desperate resistance, dispersing the assailants, killing and wounding and capturing a considerable proportion of them. At last accounts, the "Republic" was still in the enjoyment of health and strength, and determined to persist to the death the encroachments of the Confederacy. It is not likely, however, that the "Republic" will long survive. The Confederates, unless speedily driven from Mississippi, will absorb it, and if they do not another authority will.

A correspondent of the Courier gives the following amusing account of recent occurrences in this "Republic":

The Confederacy, after claiming the right of secession, not being willing to extend the same right to said Republic, has declared war against it and sent an army, under Colonel Mowry, of Mobile, to crush the rebellion. The Republic immediately prepared to act on the defensive, raising an army under the command of Major Robinson, commander-in-chief of the armies of the Republic of Jones. The belligerents met; a desperate battle ensued, in which the armies of the new republic were victorious, having killed, wounded and captured many of the Confederates, the remainder, under their gallant commander, retreating gloriously fled."

The following is a copy of a despatch sent by the commander-in-chief of the forces to his honor, the Secretary of War for the Confederate States of America:

HEADQ'RS FORCES OF REPUBLIC, IN THE FIELD, JANUARY 27th, 1864.

To Hon. A. C. Williams, Secretary of War.

SIR: We met the forces of the invader on the evening of the 26th inst., at Cross Roads. After an engagement of eight hours the enemy broke his column, when he fled in confusion; on the field we captured many prisoners and several pieces of artillery. Our loss was very slight.

I have the honor to be, respectfully,

R. ROBINSON.

After this hard-fought battle an armistice was made. Ministers were appointed to confer with the so-called Confederate States." Propositions for peace were entered into, but declined by the Confederate States. A cartel for exchange of prisoners was offered by the Republic, which was also declined. All prospect of an amicable adjustment being ceased, the Ministers of the Republic returned to their capital fully convinced that the Republic must prepare for the worst.

Congress having met, a lengthy debate took place, the question in debate, "Propositions to form an alliance with the United States," which was opposed by Mr. Billing on the ground that the position of the United States in regard to the question of secession had been clearly defined in her war with the "so-called Confederate States" Congress at once declared that it would be a useless expenditure of time. An act was unanimously passed ordering all persons, male and female, who evinced the inalienable right of Secession, to leave the Republic at once on pain of being punished as a spy.

No provisions having been made for the exchange of prisoners, they were paroled. The following is a true copy of a parole:

HEADQUARTERS FORCES OF THE REPUBLIC,
February 2, 1864.

I, Ben Johnson, do solemnly swear that I will not aid or assist the enemies of said Republic any way whatsoever during the war, unless sooner discharged. So help me God. BEN. JOHNSON.

Sworn and subscribed before me this second day of February, 1864.

W. A. ARMSTRONG, Capt. and A. A. G.

To many this may seem highly wrought, but nevertheless it is true.

GETTYSBURG BATTLE-GROUND.—A good, we might say the only reliable, map of "The Battle-field of Gettysburg" is that made by S. G. Elliott, of California, who, while visiting this State, was induced, by many personal friends, to make an accurate survey of the ground by transit and chain. It is tented all through, so that any one can track the combatants, day after day, with the utmost ease. The scale is seven inches to the mile. This admirable map is on sale by J. J. Kromer, 403 Chestnut street.

ENGLISH NEWSPAPERS.—From J. J. Kromer, 403 Chestnut street, we have several English journals. The News of the World, a popular London weekly, the Illustrated News of the World, with steel engraving of Queen Adelaide, and the Illustrated London News, a double number, with colored supplement, representing a rifle-shooting contest, near London, this year.

ON THE RISE.—Everything is on the rise, and those who purchase their fall and winter goods at this time will find their advantage when the seasons named come around, and prices have gone up, up, up. But, under any circumstances, the judicious citizen could scarcely go astray by laying in a stock of wearing apparel at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above Sixth. Verbum sap., etc.

THE CALL FOR TROOPS.—
