RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The Young Men's Christian Association.

We call the attention of our readers to the Young Men's Christian Association of our city, whose object is the benefit of our young men of all classes, including those who have served their country. They have two fine rooms, Nos. 1009 and 1011 on Chestnut street, for which they pay a high rent. In these rooms may be found a library of over 2,000 valuable books, a great variety of pamphlets, daily and weekly newspapers, and other reading matter, together with a record of all the Pennsylvania soldiers who have been received into our hospitals, and a record of discharged soldiers and sailors desiring employment. In one of the rooms the noonday prayer meeting, continued for six years, is held. In this meeting our country and our brave soldiers and sailors are remembered daily. Every day soldiers resort to these rooms to write their letters, and to seek advice and aid from those in charge.

This important institution intend having an excursion to Atlantic City on the 8th of this month, and they desire to take with them five hundred of our disabled soldiers, and ask our citizens respectfully to pay for their tickets. Each ticket is $1.50 for the excursion. Some of our friends have subscribed for ten tickets for this object, and we trust many others will give their aid.

A SOLDIER OF THE CUMBERLAND.—This is the title of a book having for its subject the brief career of a brave young soldier of the West, who fell on the anniversary of Sumpter's fall. The book is written by the lad's father, a clergyman, and in a style which goes home at once to the reader's heart. It is a touching tribute to the memory of a pure and true young man of noble instincts, cultivated tastes, and deep religious convictions. The admirers of such characters as Capt. Vicars, Gen. Havelock, Adjutant Stearns, &c., will be glad to add to this worthy list the name of Sergeant Mead Holmes, Jr., soldier of the Cumberland. For sale by J. C. Garrigues & Co., publishers of the Sunday-school Times, 148 South Fourth street.

THE STATE.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—An attempt to rob two citizens of this borough was made on Saturday night. As they were passing in a carriage over one of the bridges between this place and Providence, two men, accompanied by a third, seized the head of their horse and tried to force them to "stand and deliver." They had no weapons—not even a whip—but striking their horse a smart blow with the lines, he sprang violently forward, freeing himself from the grasp of one of the men instantly, while the other, in attempting to stop the horse, was thrown to the ground, the carriage passing over him and injuring him internally. He was found, several hours later the occurrence, by Chief of Police Roesler, still on the ground where he had been thrown, too badly hurt to endeavor to escape the clutches of the law. Two of the assailants are under bonds to appear before the court, and the other is in jail for the want of bail.—Scranton Republican.

SINGULAR EFFECT OF SUDDEN ELECTRIC LIGHT.—During the thunder-shower of Monday evening of last week, Mr. Thomas Reece went to the door of his residence, on Washington street, just as the lightning struck a tree a few yards distant. Across a small alley a vine bearing a small flower runs up the side of the house of Mr. Kilpple. Mr. Reece was in his shirt sleeves, and, in the morning, branches of the vine were found to be distinctly traced in green on his right sleeve. On the wrist band is a twig and a flower. From the elbow to several branches and a leaf are very clearly to be seen. Mr. Reece came into our office on Wednesday last, when the color was still fresh on his sleeve. A young girl at the door fainted at the shock of the lightning, and he assisted to carry her into the house.—Wilkesbarre Times.

A CLERICAL HORSE THIEF.—On the 20th ult. a man giving his name as Philip H Eshleman hired a horse at George H. Hartman's livery stable, in this city, stating that he wished to go to Lititz, and would return in the evening of that day. Not coming back as agreed upon, Mr. Hartman, on the following day, went to Lititz, where he learned that no such person as he was in search of had been at that place. Bills giving a description of the missing animal were distributed, and in a few days after, a man named N. Wright, in Gettysburg, notified Mr. Hartman that he had purchased a horse answering the description of the one advertised. Mr. H. went to Gettysburg, proved the identity of the horse, and had the man brought to this city. At a hearing before Alderman Wiley his real name was ascertained, which, out of respect to his aged parents, we suppress for the present. It appears that this "fancy" dealer in horses graduated at Franklin and Marshall College a few years ago, studied for and entered the ministry. When arrested at Gettysburg he was in the act of preparing an introductory sermon for a charge to which he had been appointed. The unexpected appearance of Mr. H. somewhat disarranged his plans, and instead of entering upon the discharge of his ministerial duties he was consigned to close quarters in the county prison.—Lancaster Examiner.

CAPTURE OF AN ESCAPED DEBTOR.—The Meadville Republican says: "A deer was captured near Clarion, on the 2d inst., after a most exciting chase. It came into the streets of the town very much exhausted, and was soon run down. Its life was spared, and it will soon become a village pet."

AT HOME.—Ung Hoong Neok, the young Chinaman, who resided for many years in this city, and served his apprenticeship in the Examiner office, and who left for his native country a few months ago, has safely arrived in China. His brother Ignoo will be glad to learn that he is at work at his old business in Shanghae, receiving $75 per month wages.—Lancaster Examiner.

A BOY KILLED BY HIS MOTHER.—Mrs. Snyder, wife of Abram Snyder, near Reynoldsville, Jefferson county, Pa., a few days since, took a rifle and attempted to discharge it at a hawk. Resting the gun on the fence, she snapped the lock, when it failed to explode the cap. She then turned to go into the house, and while going examined the cap. As it looked black and smashed, she concluded it must have been discharged previously. She then pulled the cap off the tube and threw it away, letting the hammer fall on the tube; unfortunately, the percussion powder remained and discharged the gun. The ball passed through the head of her little son aged three years, producing instant death. Mr. Snyder was not at home at the time. The agony of the parents can only be imagined.

A WONDERFUL DOG.—We had the pleasure of attending on Saturday a private levee of a remarkably intelligent canine, who goes by the name of Jerry, and who was born, bred, educated and resides in Bushwick. Jerry's education has been carried to a pitch hardly ever attained by his species. He knows his alphabet perfectly, and can spell a little; arithmetic has not been neglected; he knows his figures, and can do a small sum in addition. He is perfectly familiar with playing cards, and can pick out any one in the pack that is called for. But it must not be inferred from this that Jerry's morals are open to suspicion; he can walk on two legs as upright as a church member, and do the various calisthenic exercises taught in the gymnasium, his physique as well as his intellect having been trained. Jerry belongs to the Spanish branch of the poodle family, and is perfectly white, what the ladies would call a "love of a dog." His owner, Mr. Barnes, feeling a pride in Jerry's accomplishments, proposed to introduce him to the public. The time and place of his debut will shortly be announced. We prophesy that he will become a dogtax of the first magnitude.—Pittsburg Post.

SUICIDE TO AVOID DYING FROM CANCER.—Mrs. Sarah P. Douglass, of Hamilton, Madison county, New York, committed suicide last week. She had long suffered from cancer, and the dread of dying in such a manner seemed to have affected her mind. At 6 o'clock Monday morning she was discovered in the attempt to bleed herself to death, having severed the veins in the left arm. A second attempt at a fatal result succeeded better. The Utica Herald gives the following particulars: "About 3 o'clock in the morning she sent her nurse to the gate to tell the doctor that she did not want to see him for she was not able to stand the treatment. On returning to her room she was missing, and after a fruitless search in every room in the house, her body was found in a well in the cellar, lifeless. The indications were that she had gone into the well head first, and broke her neck in the fall, as but very a few minutes had elapsed before her body was found set above."

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE PRIMARY ELECTIONS.

The Union League, mindful of the great importance of the primary elections, has sent the following circular to each of its members. Every loyal man should accept the suggestion:

BOARD OF PUBLICATION ROOMS,
UNION LEAGUE HOUSE, Chestnut street,
PHILADELPHIA, August 12, 1864.

SIR: I am instructed to remind each member of the Union League of Philadelphia that the primary meetings of those who intend to sustain the candidates of the National Union party, at the ensuing fall elections, will be held at the headquarters in the different wards in this city on Tuesday evening next, 16th inst., at eight o'clock, for the purpose of choosing officers to conduct the delegate election and of making general nominations for delegates to the Conventions which will frame the local and State tickets.

The election of delegates from those in nomination will take place at the respective precinct polls on Tuesday evening, 23d inst., between 6 and 8 o'clock. The importance of attending to these primary meetings and elections must be apparent to all, as the selection of men of integrity and ability as candidates depends on them. It is hoped that this respectful reminder will insure your presence, and that you will use your influence with your friends to go likewise. Respectfully,

C. IZARD MACKIEM, Ass't Sec'y.

COMMERCIAL LIFE AND TELEGRAPHING.

Messrs. Bryant, Stratton, & Bannister have made another forward step in these important branches of a young man's education. They give notice in another column that they have leased the entire third story of the Assembly Buildings, corner of Tenth and Chestnut streets, besides another large room adjoining those which they now occupy at the S. E. corner of Chestnut and Seventh streets, in order to accommodate their large increase of business. It is proposed to have a telegraph wire from their main or primary college to the Assembly Rooms. Instruments will be placed in the different stories of the two buildings, designated respectively Washington, New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore. By these means a student will be enabled to obtain a practical and thorough knowledge of the business. Messages can be transmitted from one point to another by the students when necessary. This institution is now one of the most complete and extensive institutions of the kind in the country. Their system of instruction and the facilities used by them make it a favorite resort for a vast number of our young men. Since the present resident principal took charge of the institution, about a year ago, its patronage has more than quadrupled, in fact, nearly as many young men have become members since that time as did in the previous six years of its existence.

OUR DOMESTIC MARKETS.

Some of the quotations of prices this week are singular. Peaches have been bought lately as low as from ten to twenty-five cents a basket, yet the venders in the market ask from 25 to 50 cents per half peck. Tomatoes, too, which are selling by the bushel for a mere song, are quoted at 12 cents per half peck. The low prices of these two articles is caused by the attention in the railroads, and is not likely to be of long duration. Most other articles remain about the same as last week. In some there is a slight rise; in others a fall:

DEATHS FROM THE HEAT.

A man named Daniel Black was overcome with the heat yesterday at Eleventh and Carpenter streets, and while being conveyed to his home he died. He was about 50 years of age.

Francis Straler and John Myers died on Thursday night from the effects of the heat. They resided at Twenty-fifth and Coates streets.

James Love, aged 30, suffered from a coup de soleil yesterday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, at the Falls of the Schuylkill, and soon died from its effects.

An unknown man died in the street yesterday, and was taken to the Eighth-ward station house. The coroner was sent for.

A man named John Hardman died suddenly, from the effects of the heat, at Front street, below Washington, yesterday afternoon.

THE EXPRESS TRAIN.

Those of our citizens who desire to escape the intense heat of this sweltering city by a trip to the broad beach of Atlantic City, should remember that the fast train leaves at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The cool sea breeze at Atlantic City sets in about noon. At four o'clock yesterday afternoon the breeze attained the speed of about thirty miles per hour. It was not only very agreeable but decidedly invigorating to humanity.

DROWNED.

James Barbar, aged seven, was drowned at Hanover street wharf yesterday. He was taken to his residence at 1224 Cresse street, above Girard avenue, and the coroner was sent for.

KILLED.

A man named Robert Forrest was killed yesterday near the Girard avenue and Reading Railroad crossing by the falling of a bank of earth. He resided at Twenty-first, below Wood street.

METEORS.

On Wednesday, about three o'clock in the morning, a large meteor passed through the sky in a northerly direction. It left behind it a fiery tail extending from the horizon behind which it disappeared. Its appearance was singular and beautiful, and the caudal appendage with which it bore behind it was a vast hawser of fire, so densely vivid was it. Yesterday morning about the same hour a similar "messenger" appeared in the heavens, and took the same course.

FIRES.

The fire between one and two o'clock yesterday afternoon, which drew off some of the fire companies from the parades, was at Gerker's paint works, at the corner of Fifth street and Columbia avenue. The loss was inconsiderable.

A frame building owned by Hugh Michael, on the Chestnut Hill Railroad, above Mermaid lane, known as the Railroad House, caught fire and was totally destroyed with all its contents.

INCREASE IN THE PRICE OF GAS.

At a special meeting of the Trustees of the Philadelphia Gas Works it was decided that, on and after the first of September next, the price of gas shall be three dollars per thousand feet. The Trustees are now preparing a statement to prove the necessity for this change.

SUNSTRUCK.

Garrit Casey, a member of the Good Will Engine, was overcome by the heat in the procession, and was taken to Taylor's drug store, at the corner of Ninth and Race streets. The proper remedies were administered, and after remaining a few hours he was sent home.

THE POLICE.

[Before Mr. Mayor Henry.]

A REBEL CAPTAIN.

On Sunday last a fine-looking young man arrived at the Continental Hotel, and registered his name as Herman Von Achenbach, Richmond, Va. He said very boldly that he had just come from the South, and acknowledged that he was a captain in the rebel army, and was going to stay here a week or two and then return. When asked how he got here, he said that he got through our pickets very nicely, dressed as a farmer. On Monday he went out and purchased some clothes of a rough appearance.

On Tuesday evening Chief Franklin had him arrested. A revolver was found in his possession. When arrested he gave substantially the same story as is given above, but stated that since his arrival in the North he had taken the oath of allegiance. On being asked, however, for his parole, he said he had lost it. He said that he had been through the lines once before. On his person was found a letter from his father at St. Louis. It implored him not to come near that city, for the detectives were watching for him. Von Achenbach was taken before the Mayor, yesterday, who held him in default of $1,000 bail for carrying concealed deadly weapons, and $1,500 bail on a charge of being connected with the rebel army.
