PEACE COMMISSIONERS FROM RICHMOND.—It is authoritatively stated that peace commissioners are on their way from Richmond, and they have sent to Mr. Lincoln the points which they desire to consider. First, a recognition of the Confederacy; second, the assumption by the North of the war debt of the South; third, the ordering to immediate execution of Generals Grant, Sherman, and Sheridan; the hanging of Commodore Porter at the yard-arm, and finally annual tribute to the principal rebs in the shape of a new suit each to be made at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, below Sixth. It is not likely that Mr. Lincoln will see it.

EXTRACT FROM THE "LOG BOOK" OF THE DREWRY.—"The blowing up of the Drewry has placed in our possession a good portion of its logbook, containing the reports of the commander and general orders of the squadron. In it occurs the remarkable passage: "During the early part of the day a piece of shell struck me on the rib-ter but two feet from the water-line without doing damage."

These rebs must be a hard set. If a piece of shell should strike us on the rib-ter about two feet below the water-line, it would be very apt to knock us off our pins, if it did not wholly demolish our pantaloons. Speaking of pantaloons brings to mind the elegant stock we saw the other day at J. E. Stokes & Co.'s "one price," under the Continental.

ALTING BY MOONLIGHT—On the Philadelphia Racing Park, Thirty-first and Walnut streets. Race is in splendid condition, equal to a fresh-day. Sulkies, by means of Wharton's patent plane. Day's full band, day and evening.

Look brilliantly illuminated, and open until ten o'clock, while the ice lasts.

Sooner or later, a neglected cold will develop a cough, shortness of breath, falling strength, wasting of flesh—the usual couriers of consumption. In some instances the same cause will give bronchitis, a disease of the branches of the lungs. In all affections of the pulmonary organs as well as in bronchial complaints, Jayne's Expectorant is both a palliative and curative, as testimony of thousands and its world-wide reputation attests; while in coughs and colds it acts quickly, and, when taken according to directions, promptly removes them.
