HARVARD WAS FAR THE BETTER TEAM

DEFEATED YALE BY A SCORE OF 17 TO 0.

Second Time in Foot Ball History That the Crimson Trumphed Over the Blue—Harvard Men Showed Themselves Superior at Every Point but Particularly in the Kicking Department—Game Was Played Before 18,000 People in a Drenching Rain—Other Games.

For the second time in twenty-three years Harvard yesterday defeated Yale at foot ball. The score was most surprising, 17 to 0. Despite a drenching rain 18,000 witnessed the game.

Harvard showed up superior at every point, but was particularly excellent in punting. Haughton never kicked so well and probably no full back ever kicked better, while McBride, who won such great fame last year, was very weak on account of a bad knee and Townsend, who preceded him in the game, was outclassed. Yale also was handicapped by the absence of the great De Saulles and no doubt was disheartened by its defeat of last Saturday. Harvard's victory, unlike that of Princeton, was not won on a fluke, but by steady, hard, straight a way foot ball. Yale's line proved a veritable sieve to the Harvard backs, while the crimson line, which was looked upon as rather shaky, gave a noble account of itself.

The line up was as follows:

THE LINE-UP.

Yale.		Harvard.
Stillman	left tackle	Donald
Brown	left guard	Boal
Cutten	center	Jaffray (Burnett)
Marshall	right guard	Burden
Chamberlain	right tackle	Haughton
Eddy (Schweippe)	right end	Haloiwell
Ely	quarter back	Daly
Dudley (Eddy)	right half back	Warren
Townsend (McBride)	full back	Reid

Umpire—Dashiel, of Lehigh. Referee—McClung, of Lehigh. Linesmen—Francis, of Yale; Smith, of Harvard. Touchdowns—Reid, 2; Dibblee. Goals—Haughton, 2. Total score—Harvard, 17; Yale, 0. Time—35 minute halves.

The play started on Yale's 50-yard line with Yale in possession of the ball. Harvard got it on downs, but lost it on the first line-up for off side play. Yale again failed to gain and Chamberlain kicked. Daly taking it to the twenty-yard line. Haughton kicked at the first down, sending the ball to Yale's fifty-yard line. Once more Yale failed to make her distance and had to kick. Haughton returned it on the first line-up and sent it across Yale's line for a touchback.

The ball was taken out to the twenty-five-yard line and Chamberlain kicked. Reid made a pretty catch and recovered twenty yards before Ely tackled him. With the ball on Yale's forty-five-yard line, Harvard began hammering the Yale guards and tackles, and with the assistance of a few end runs carried the ball over the intervening space for a touchdown. Cochrane missed the goal. The touchdown was made in twelve and one-half minutes play.

ANOTHER TOUCHDOWN.

Sixteen minutes later another touchdown was made in practically the same manner, Yale doing nothing when in possession of the ball and Harvard carrying it steadily and surely on hard, straight rushes from midfield to goal line. Haughton kicked the goal.

At the opening of the second half Yale took a brace and succeeded in forcing Harvard back half the distance of the field. They lost it on downs, however, and the Crimson kicked it out of danger.

The kick was fumbled and Farley got the ball on Yale's thirty-yard line. Yale made a stand at her twelve yard line and recovered the ball. McBride kicked and Haughton quickly returned it. Yale fumbled and a Harvard man fell on it at Yale's twenty-yard line. Harvard began her pounding tactics and sent the ball over. Haughton kicked the goal, making the score 17 to 0.

Chamberlain's attempt at a goal from field was the only feature of the remaining few minutes of play.

REPORT OF STERNBERG

country would have been greatly exceeded.

It is needless at this time to refer to the complaints of starvation which appeared almost daily in the newspapers during the occupation of Camp Wikoff.

It is now generally understood that the weakness, prostration, anaemia and emaciation of so many of the troops were the results of malarial, typhoid and yellow fever, from which the army suffered as a consequence of its exposure to the climatic influences and local infections of Santiago and its neighborhood pending and subsequent to the surrender of the city.

Troops in the home camps—the method of hospital organization in these camps was practically the same; and there was much similarity in the conditions affecting them and correspondingly in their history. Regiments reported in but few instances with the material and supplies for their medical care; but they brought sick men with them and these required immediate care. Provision had to be made for division hospitals in view of future field service and for regimental hospitals in view of the immediate necessity.

As a rule the hospitals were kept in campaigning condition, that is, the tents were neither framed nor floored until the increased prevalence of typhoid fever attracted attention to their crowded condition, when the object of their existence became suddenly changed from a school for field service to a hospital for the treatment of a local outbreak of disease.

GENERAL HOSPITALS.

General hospitals—Up to September 30. Eleven general hospitals were established and fully manned and equipped. Those had a capacity of nearly 7,000 beds. At the same time certain post hospitals having good accommodations were used for the treatment of army cases generally without alteration of their official status as post hospitals. Of 1,715 deaths from May to September 640 were occasioned by typhoid fever; 97 by malarial fevers and 592 were diarrhoea and dysentery. The death rates for May and June, .46 and .70, were not in excess of those of the army in time of peace. In July the rate became somewhat higher for cities, 2.15 for the month, or the equivalent of an annual rate of 25.80 per thousand living. In August it became excessive, 4.08 for themonth equal to an annua rate of 48.96 per thousand than that of the most well cared to an annual rate of 48.96 per thousand. In September the influence of the energetic measures taken in July and August to improve the health of the army becomes manifest in the falling off of the death to rate to 2.45, or the equivalent of an annual rate of 29.40. The exposures of the regular troops during the Santiago campaign gave them from June to September a higher death rate than the volunteers and that the rate of the latter during August, the month of maximum mortality, was 3.42 as compared with 5.88 among the regular troops.

Volunteer relief work.—My guiding principle throughout the war has been that relief when needed should be promptly accepted without references to the course from which it came. The relief afforded by the National Red Cross at Siboney was promptly accepted by the surgeons on the spot, but it was evident that it was entirely inadequate to meet the emergency. Other organizations which have rendered very valuable service are the National Relief commission, having headquarters at Philadelphia, and the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid association.

The medical corps—Before concluding my report on the operations of the medical department, I feel it my duty to call special attention to the efficient services rendered by the medical officers of the army in the various responsible positions which the exigencies of the service have made it necessary for them to fill.

LAMB IS IN JAIL.

He Was Charged with Cruelty to His Wife and Children.

Patrick Lamb, of Bellevue, was committed to the county jail Saturday night, in default of $500 bail, on charges of assault and battery and desertion, preferred by Poor Director Paine, acting for Mrs. Lamb and her two children. It will be remembered that one of the young daughters of Lamb, accompanied by a neighbor, appeared before the meeting of the poor board last Friday and told a heartrending tale of the cruel treatment which Lamb had inflicted upon his family.

The directors instructed Dr. Paine and the board's attorney, John F. Scragg, to prosecute Lamb to the fullest extent of the law. They went before Alderman John, of the Fourth ward, Saturday and gave the information for the arrest. When arraigned for a hearing he waived that privilege and was committed as noted.

IN THE PLAY HOUSES.

The Spooners This Week.

A week of repertoire at popular prices begins this evening at the Academy of Music, when the Misses Cecil and Edna Spooner open their engagement; matinees and evening performances will be given each day, popular prices prevailing, 10, 20 and 30 cents in the evening, and 10 cents in the afternoon. In addition to the play proper a number of bright vaudeville specialties will be introduced. Miss Cecil showing her spectacular and character dances, and Miss Edna singing the latest illustrated songs; there will also be introduced a series of new motion pictures by the magniscope, including the latest war views; Harry G. Bates will introduce a monologue of story and chat. The specialties are so arranged in their order that the performance is continuous, there being no breaks or waits either during or between acts. The play of the evening will be the famous military drama, "A Fair Rebel."

The Geisha Thursday.

The press comments which have announced the near approach of "The Geisha," have not only caused a stir of excitement among the ladies, but the gentlemen are also taking a wide interest in the same. It will be one of the comic opera events of the season. The story of "The Geisha" is simplicity itself, the music tuneful and the costumes a perfect blend of harmony. The cast contains the names of some good comedians and comediennes. Every voice has been carefully selected, and a bevy of bright, young ladies, that cannot be equalled will assist in the evening's merriment. The local manager of the Lyceum takes great pleasure in announcing the date of the performance in this city on next Thursday.

At the Gaiety.

Commencing at today's matinee at the Gaiety theater the Gawloofer Burlettists will begin a three-days' engagement presenting an entertainment of unusual merit with an operatic extravaganza composed of many more novelties than is usually seen in burlesque. In response to many requests the management of the Gaiety will again introduce the novelty of which the Gaiety was the originator, a midnight performance. There is so much interest being manifest in the Corbett-Sharkey boxing contest which is to take place at the Lennox Lyceum, New York city, tomorrow night that arrangements have been made with the Western Union company whereby a special wire will be in direct service between the ringside, New York city, and the stage of the Gaiety theater. The Corbett-Sharkey contest is to begin at 11 p. m., and during the first performance at the Gaiety the preliminary boxing matches, which begins at 9 o'clock, will be announced. The second show will be given exclusively for the Corbett-Sharkey affair. The doors will open at 10.30 and the performance will begin at 10.45. Tickets will be placed on sale today at the box office of the Gaiety theater for both of tomorrow's performances.

Universal Temperance Sunday.

By request of the local superintendent of the Women's Christian Temperance Union The Tribune publishes the following: Pastors take notice of Universal Temperance Sunday, November 27. Pastors of all churches are earnestly requested to preach a temperance sermon on that Sunday and all Sunday school superintendents will please see that the temperance lesson is taught in their respective schools on that day.

APOPLEXY.—Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is equally effective in apoplectic symptoms. If you have unpleasant dizziness, lightness or sudden rush of blood to the head, take precautions against a recurrence. This great remedy will remove the cause. The press of the land has daily a long list of sudden deaths which would not be chronicled if Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart were used. For sale by Matthews Bros. and W. T. Clark.—61.

THE MARKETS.

Wall Street Review.

New York, Nov. 19.—The market had the burden of several unfavorable factors to carry at the opening this morning. The advance in the rate of discount by the Berlin bank from 5½ to 6 per cent. had unsettled foreign markets and depressed the internationaly listed stocks here. Union Pacific leading the decline with a drop of a point. The Pacifics also suffered from the specific reports of a rupture between Northern Pacific and Oregon Navigation. There was further sudden collapse of 1 to 4 points in the Federal Steel stocks on the reported failure of steel rail interests to pool. Opening prices were, however, the lowest for strength quickly developed at points which served to sustain the weak spots and finally lift the weak stocks themselves. Total sales were 237,200 shares.
