$1.50 Kid Gloves, 75c

A Tale Without a Parallel.

The sale of them begins this morning. They are genuine $1.50 Kid gloves. We offer them at 75 cents the pair. Why? We will tell you.

When imported goods are loaded for shipment it is the rule that perishable freight or goods apt to become damaged on shipboard, be repacked into tin cases, before the vessels sail.

This shipment of gloves straggled in late; there was no time to repack them. They were needed for the holiday trade—so over they came.

On their arrival in America some of the gloves were affected with little spots, hardly discernible except to an expert, but it placed them in the category of "soiled gloves"—and the Marine Insurance Company, with whom they were insured, had to stand a loss of 75 cents a pair on them.

They come in red and tans—have three patent fasteners on wrist and are positively worth $1.50 a pair. Six hundred pairs of them to be sold today. You may be sure it's the glove chance of the year.

IN THE PLAY HOUSES.

"What Happened to Jones."

At the Lyceum last night "What Happened to Jones" was given its first presentation in this city. It is a three act farce of abundant complications and was written by George H. Broadhurst.

There is plenty of action and plenty of humor spread through the three acts and the audience that saw the farce last night heartily enjoyed it. There is one actor in the company who made a decided hit last night. He is Charles Greene, cast for the humble role of a police officer. He is none of your make believe coppers but the real article, rotund of figure and face, and with a complexion that was not obtained out of a grease paint box. His walk and manner of handling his club were as natural as his makeup. Assuredly Greene at some stage of his existence was "one of the finest." The dramatic school has not yet been founded that could teach him to reproduce the policeman as he did last night.

Bert C. Grover as Jones, who had things happen to him, was decidely clever and the same is true of Barney McDonough in the role of Rev. Anthony Goodly, Bishop of Ballarat. A member of the company whose work was received with great favor was Frank Hope, who was cast for the role of Richard Heatherly. He is a graceful young man with an expressive face and clear enunciation and gives promise of achieving prominence in his chosen profession. Mr. Hope is a Philadelphian who has many friends in this city. He is a relative of Mrs. T. C. Melvin and has many times been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin.

Other members of the company worthy of mention are E. Soldene Powell, Cora Williams, Blanche Johnson, Lois Frances Clarke, Helen Harcourt and Katherine Weston. The farce will be reproduced this afternoon and evening at the Lyceum.

"Rupert of Hentzau."

Some of the members of James K. Hackett's company which has been booked to appear at the Lyceum Wednesday, Dec. 7, are Katharine Grey, Charles B. Pope, Arthur Hoops, Brigham Royce, Duncan Preston, George Alison, E. W. Thomas, John Lambert, Longley Taylor, Sydney Price, Harry Chapin, George W. Lynch, William Eville, Edward Donnelly, Albert Howson, Gertrude Rivers, Mabel Amber and Evelyn Carter. Mr. Hackett is to produce "Rupert of Hentzau" here. The play is a sequel to "The Prisoner of Zenda" and is by the same author, Anthony Hope. It is in four acts and six scenes. Daniel Frohman, Mr. Hackett's manager, has provided expensive and beautiful costumes and gorgeous scenery for the production which promises to be one of the finest which has been seen in this city for several seasons.

Aborn Opera Company.

Last night the Aborn Opera company sang the ever-popular "Bohemian Girl" at the Academy of Music, and this afternoon "The Fencing Master" will be heard. "The Circus Clown" is billed for tonight.

"The New Fire Patrol."

In "The New Fire Patrol," J. W. Harding, jr., has written, and the Shea-McAuliffe Stock company has staged one of the strongest melodramas of the last decade. On Monday evening at the Academy of Music "The New Fire Patrol" will be given with elaborate scenic effects, by a company that includes Jere McAuliffe, as Lushington Staggeract, an actor gone wrong; the powerful emotional actress and beautiful woman, Miss Grace Hamilton, as Nellie Lattimer and Alice Norcross, two persons, but the same girl; and Maude Scott, one of the brightest performers of soubrette parts. The tickets for this company are selling the best that any repertoire company has ever done in this city. Monday and Tuesday a great many people will not be able to secure seats, if they wait until the last minute. The ladies have availed themselves of the opportunity to secure available seats at half-price, by exchanging the coupon which has appeared in this paper. The tickets are on sale for every performance, both afternoon and evening during the week.

Bowery Burlesquers.

Truly Shattuck, who is known far and wide as the handsomest and most shapely woman on the stage, will appear with the Bowery Burlesquers at the Gaiety theatre next week. Andy Lewis and Maude Elliott will introduce a character study of the wayside tough with the Burlesquers. Gladys Van, pocket edition of Lillian Russell, is also with the company. The Indian princess, Yutamee, who has been creating a sensation all over the country, and is said to possess the finest soprano voice of any woman on the American stage, is a feature of the company.

THE MARKETS.

Wall Street Review.

New York, Dec. 2.—The stock market in New York refused to respond to the sanguine view manifested on the London exchange as to the future value of American securities. Total sales were 325,500 shares. The bond market was active and prices were better sustained than in stocks. Total sales 4,955,000.
