LICENSE WILL NOW BE GIVEN TO COURT

Miss Helene DeLong and Dewitt Tewksbury Are Wedded Without Its Assistance.

Miss Helene DeLong was married to Dewitt Tewksbury yesterday morning at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. McDonald, of 128 Bridge street, Brooklyn, N. Y., by Rev. William Hamilton, pastor of the York Street Methodist church of that city.

After the outcome of Tuesday's hearing in the injunction case, the young people determined to be married yesterday, the day they had fixed for the event, injunction or no injunction. With Miss DeLong's mother they went to the residence of her grandmother at East Market street and Dickson avenue, Green Ridge, after the hearing, where it was decided to go to Brooklyn and be married at the home of Mrs. DeLong's sister. The bride and groom and Mrs. DeLong stepped into a carriage and were driven to Pittston, where they got aboard a Lehigh Valley train and that night arrived in New York.

Yesterday morning, after the necessary preliminaries had been disposed of, the marriage ceremony was performed, and Mr. and Mrs. Tewksbury started on their wedding tour.

The further hearing in the injunction case will take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon, when Attorneys Harding and Balentine will surrender the license, over which there has been such controversy. Mr. DeLong is not resigned to the turn affairs have taken, and to one of his friends yesterday he expressed his intention of squaring up with Tewksbury.

STATION AGENT GONE.

M. A. Lyman, of Moscow, Disappeared Yesterday Taking $300 in Checks and $75 in Cash.

M. A. Lyman, aged 60 years, who for the last seven years has been the station agent for the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company at Moscow, disappeared early yesterday afternoon, taking with him about $300 in checks and $75 in cash belonging to the company, and leaving behind him the auditors of both the freight and passenger departments busily engaged, it is believed, in looking for alleged shortages.

The freight auditor arrived at 7.30 o'clock yesterday morning and began an examination of Lyman's books. The passenger auditor arrived about noon and made an appointment to meet the station agent after dinner. Lyman left for home about 12.30 o'clock and after dinner took off his blue uniform coat and replaced it with one of ordinary cut, announcing to his wife that he intended calling on friends.

The last seen of him he was walking past the Moscow school house, going in the direction of Scranton. When he did not put in an appearance at the station the auditors made inquiries, and thus the news of his disappearance was spread about. As soon as the gossip was spread around the town several young men announced that they had heard shots early in the afternoon in the woods near the school house.

This led many to believe that Lyman had committed suicide and a large searching party was organized last night to search for his body. The members of the party armed themselves with lanterns and searched about the woods, but no trace of Lyman could be discovered. The story that Lyman has shot himself is probably not true, because he took neither of his two revolvers with him, leaving one at the station and the other at his home.

The auditors finished their examination of Lyman's accounts at 5 o'clock, but refused to make public their findings. A rumor was afloat, however, to the effect that they had discovered a shortage of over $1,000.

RECEIVERS APPOINTED.

Nathan S. Beardslee, president of the National Salt company, and Frank P. McDermott were Tuesday appointed receivers of that company by Chancellor Magee, of New Jersey. The headquarters of the company are located in the Connell building, this city.

Chauncey H. Strickland, one of the New York stockholders, is the petitioner, and he alleges the company is insolvent, the liabilities being more than $1,000,000, and the assets $850,000. The company was organized in 1899 with a capital stock of $12,000,000, of which $7,000,000 is preferred and $5,000,000 common stock.

FOR THE COMING TERM.

During the first week of criminal court, which opens next Monday, Judge E. C. Newcomb will preside in the main court room, Judge H. M. Edwards in No. 2 and Judge George Ferris, of Luzerne, in No. 3. Judge John P. Kelly will be in the main court room during the first week, and Judge Newcomb in No. 2. The third judge has not yet been determined upon.

The Wladislaw Knostanowicz murder case heads the list for the second week, which has 339 cases on it, many of which are of great importance.

SOLDIERS HAVE AN EASY TIME

Another Day Devoid of Lawlessness in Both the Upper and Lower Valleys.

FEW CALLS MADE ON THE TROOPS

In No Instance Were They Required to Suppress Disorder—Cavalry Was Out Twice to Escort Non-Union Men and the Eighth Regiment Sent a Company to Austin Heights in Anticipation of an Outbreak. Mass Meeting of Strikers at Bellevue Is Addressed by National and District Officers of the United Mine Workers.

Peace again reigned in the Lackawanna region, yesterday. No serious lawlessness was reported from any point and the soldiers found nothing to do further than put in time on patrol or outpost duty.

Late Tuesday night fire was discovered at the home of a non-union man at Winton. A squad of soldiers under Lieutenant Davis, of Company L, who were on duty at Winton extinguished the blaze. The fire was probably of incendiary origin. Oil-soaked faggots were found piled against the building at the point where the flames started.

Four men from Company C were sent out from the detail at the Raymond colliery, Tuesday evening, to escort a company employe who was sent to inspect a dam on Sunrise creek which protects the mine from being flooded. On the way back a foreigner with a shot gun was met on the road. He protested that he was returning from a hunt for wild ducks, and as his statement seemed to be veracious the soldiers allowed him to go his way.

A little farther down the road the squad met a man who warned them that they had better keep their nerve screwed up if they continued along that road, as there was a crowd waiting for them at the railroad crossing. Not wishing to take the chances of an ambuscade the quartette of soldiers and the company employe, descended the Archbald pot hole dropped through the trap door which leads into the Raymond workings and walked two miles underground to the shaft, where they were hoisted to the surface. For most of the distance they waded through water nearly up to their knees.

The dam which they visited is inspected daily by the company. Some time ago there was a cave-in which extended across the bed of the creek. The company built the dam to change the course of the stream and prevent the water from reaching the workings through the cave-in. Last week the dam was blown up with dynamite. It was repaired before much water got into the mines, but as the stream has been greatly swollen by the rains, extra precaution must be taken to preserve the dam.

FEW CALLS MADE.

Only two calls were made on the Thirteenth yesterday for troops and both were responded to by the Sheridan cavalry. One was to escort some non-union men from Throop to the Storrs colliery, and the other was to escort some non-union men home from the Lackawanna colliery at Peckville.

Early this morning stones were thrown at a group of soldiers stationed at the Ontario and Western depot in Olyphant. One of the stones hit a soldier, but did not injure him. The soldiers hurried in the direction whence the stones came, but could not find anyone.

A crowd of strikers in a saloon at Jessup got into a fight among themselves at midnight and some shots were fired. This brought a detail of soldiers to the scene and a man with a revolver was arrested.

The councilmen of Winton borough waited on the borough solicitor, James J. O'Malley, yesterday, and directed him to enter a complaint with Colonel Watres regarding the conduct of the soldiers who are despatched to that locality. According to the councilmen, the soldiers drove men out of saloons at the point of the bayonet and compelled persons sitting on their front porches to go into their houses and stay there. As martial law has not been proclaimed, the borough fathers deem these actions as unwarranted. Attorney O'Malley laid the matter before Colonel Watres, and he said he would investigate it.

Brigade Commissary Cameron and a detail ran up from Shenandoah yester-
