FROM NEW YORK.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10, 1851.

The new penny paper of Mr. Speaker Raymond, has made its appearance and has the true vigor and independence about it that must give it wide circulation, and an influence hardly second to that of the Tribune, the school where Mr. Raymond was taught the rudiments of newspaper education. Mr. Raymond is a rising young man, and politically of the Conservative Whig School out of town and all who favor solid reforms will find in the "Times" a man of information that will keep them posted up on all political and social affairs.

Business matters are much the same as some weeks past. The money market is still too tight for comfort, and merchants of undoubted credit, having funds to raise have trouble to do it. The recent failures cause no new alarm, as the weakness of the insolvents has long been known. It may be remarked here that were all the houses that are now kiting to keep themselves afloat at ruinous sacrifices, to suspend at once, it would be better for themselves and their solvent neighbors. The banks show a little more disposition to make loans, as do the various insurance companies who have funds accumulating, but the price of money remains as high as ever. The California news received this morning adds not a little to public confidence assuring borrowers as it does, that the present remittance will supply the European drain and that enough is coming to keep the future secure.

Politically affairs are getting a little more active, and the coming election promises to be one of the most active for a long period. The canal system now being projected so vigorously, thanks to whig determination, needs whig officers to carry it out, or we shall have reflected the old locofoco plan of stopping and taxing, a system that cost half enough to enlarge the canals, when they tried it. The whigs are fully satisfied also as to the necessity of making a demonstration of strength prior to the national election next year, when the work of all the whigs will be hardly adequate to the maintenance of a whig administration.

The execution of two murderers set down for to-day has not taken place, one of the cases has been arrested by an appeal, and in the other the Sheriff has consented to wait until three o'clock to see whether a telegraphic despatch will not come reprieving him farther.—Hanging is bad enough, but it is made still more hideous by this parade of scaffolds, reprieves, and worse than all movement of deferring the mission of the law from hour to hour on the hope of a reprieve, after positive denial has been uttered.

Opera goers have now a rare treat at Niblo's in the charming vocalisation of Madam Anna Thillon in the Crown Diamonds written originally for her by Auber. It was first brought to the notice of a New York audience by Mad. Calvi, a sweet French songstress, who persuaded people the music would not be so well given again. The new singer quite equals the famous old one, and we have now a French opera company equal to Paris. All the shows and all the theatres are coining fortunes, but Niblo's, must come down, so the insurance people say, or the new hotel must go uninsured, a risk no one will run. However the ground can be used to enlarge the hotel.

The owners of the America yacht are expected to arrive here soon, when a public reception will be given to Commodore Stevens, who has so well and modestly whipped 'the meteor flag' upon a course of its own choice. If John Bull understands any other art better than that of building ships or steamers he had better propose a trial for he is clear out of sight in this dominion of the seas.

Speaking of salt water reminds me of the fact that the dry weather of the past month promises to produce a disastrous effect upon all the vegetable and fruit crops now maturing. Our wheat and hay escaped, but just now the feed is in such a state that milk is scarce, butter dearer and the supply of water so low that some of the railroads are seriously troubled to get enough to water the locomotives with, and the trains are delayed. As there is no prospect of a foreign demand for breadstuffs at a high rate, any advance the drouth may cause will be a domestic loss, not to the profit of the farmer, whose crops have already passed into the hands of middlemen or traders.

The war steamer Mogadore, lately repaired at the navy yard, Brooklyn, has returned to France leaving our French population quite disconsolate and depriving them of a set of officers to whom they have extended an amount of courtesies scarcely credible, extending as far as that one is accustomed to show the nearest friends.

Upon the rocks in Hell Gate and Diamond Reef, Mon Maillefort continues his labor with great success. Soon our harbor will be as easy of navigation as the calmest lake, and you can have the French engines at work cleaning out the Ohio river so as to get a ship to Pittsburgh.

OLD BERKS IN TROUBLE.

There are some 'big screws loose' among the democracy of old Mother Berks, which argues anything but favorably for the prospects of the opposition in that quarter this fall. The county ticket settled by the Locofoco convention, or rather by the clique of leaders who assume the prerogative of legislating for the democracy there, has aroused a good deal of opposition, and one of the Locofoco papers, the Berks County Democratic Press, is out flat-footed in denunciation of the Convention and its nominees. The Press of last week has a long article on the subject, in which occurs the following passages:

"In the name of the Democratic party we repudiate their ticket as corrupt, and those who support it as enemies to the democratic cause, and slaves to men who have trampled the rights of freemen into the dust.

Let no democrat be deterred from doing his duty by the threats and denunciations of the clique and their organs. There is honesty enough, independence enough, and nerve enough to face them, and hurl back to their teeth every accusation. They have dissolved the democratic party—they have corrupted its principles—they have made it a disgrace to vote for its nominations, and they alone are responsible for the consequences."

The Reading papers also announce the following list of volunteer candidates:

President Judge—Henry W. Smith, Esq.
Prothonotary—George W. Yeager.
Register—Andrew M. Sallade.
Clerk of the Sessions—Samuel Myers, Esq.
County Treasurer—George M. Kline.

These gentlemen, say the Reading Journal, are all attached to the dominant party, possess considerable strength in their own ranks, and will doubtless poll a strong vote, if they are not really elected. From what we can learn there seems to be a general and wide spread disaffection among the democracy of the rural districts in regard to the shapings and wireworkings of the clique in this city, who control the action of the Convention and regulate the affairs of the party to suit their ends.—Gettysburgh Star.

A GREAT CURIOSITY.—We saw yesterday one of the greatest curiosities ever exhibited in this city. It was a negro boy about five years old, born in Shelby county, from jet black parents, and while about one-half of his body was as black as the skin of his parents, the other half is as white and fair as the skin of any white person. On the white portion there are numerous small black spots, and on the black portion several white spots. Take him all in all, he is about as odd looking a specimen of humanity as we have ever seen. He belongs to Mr. Joseph H. Oliver.—Louisville Courier.

THE LARGEST VESSEL AFLOAT.—The Cincinnati Enquirer, of Monday last, contains the following description of a marine monster about to be constructed in that city:

Dr. Spalding, the circus king, has been in town for several days, closeted with architects and ship-builders, projecting an enterprise compared with which all other show projects are literally nothing. He has the drawing and working plans for a monster floating palace, for the construction of which he is getting estimates, 400 feet long and 60 feet beam, with luxurious accommodations for 4000 spectators. The interior is to be an amphitheatre, much more capacious and costly than any theatre in the country, with cushioned and armed chairs, dress circle, parquette and gallery, saloons, promenades and withdrawing rooms, stage, drops and scenery; well ventilated and lighted, with facilities for speedy ingress and egress, lighted with gas and Bengal lights and every modern and elegant improvement. The exterior of this leviathan of the deep is to be like nothing in the earth beneath, or the waters under the earth. An agent proceeded to Europe in the last steamer to procure rare novelties for this sumptuous place of entertainment—from Asia and Africa, wild animals from their native wilds; from France equestrians and ballet girls; from England acrobats and actors; and from home some of those indigenous artistes that would acquire additional lustre from transatlantic endorsement. The Water Mountain is to be towed by two steam tenders to the various towns upon the Mississippi and its tributaries in summer, and be moored at the levee in New Orleans in the winter. It is estimated to cost $40,000, and will be completed next spring, although Dr. S. has offered a large bonus to have it completed in time for this winter's campaign.

PUBLIC SINGERS.—The Buffalo Commercial Advertiser after a very respectful notice of the two celebrated singers, Jenny Lind and Catherine Hays, makes the following just remarks respecting the extravagant amount of money and adulation which have been and is likely to be showered upon them.

Now here are too females—public singers—exemplary and excellent persons, worthy of all encouragement and approbation, if you please—aiming at nothing more than the transient gratification of the sense of hearing—woman who sing in public for hire—who receive larger sums for the exercise of their vocal powers, ten times over, than can be commanded by the loftiest intellectual endowments, combined with the largest acquirements and the most laborious application in statesmanship, diplomacy, or any of the learned professions. A man who should unite in himself the mental qualities of Clay and Webster, and have all the knowledge of John Quincy Adams, could not in the same space of time, earn a tithe of the money that persons rush to throw into the lap of one of these prima donnas. Jenny Lind has received as much for singing half a dozen pieces, not one of them occupying over ten minutes, all in one evening, as the yearly salary of one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. She can make more in a fortnight than we pay the President for a year's service—and Kate Hayes, being her peer in professional skill and power, we take it for granted that she is to do the same thing. It can only be necessary that to draw attention to these facts for people to see how preposterous the whole thing is—how disgraceful to our character as an enlightened nation, and the vicious consequence that must flow from such proceedings.

We had intended to wind up with some comments upon the servile adulation with which singing and dancing women, and all sorts of celebrities are greeted in New York and other eastern cities, and by persons too who profess to give tone to society; but those who have no more pride or self-respect than to participate in such follies would of course be insensible to a less delicate admonition than a blow on the head with a poker.

UNRIVALLED PIANOFORTE PLAYER.—We find the following extraordinary statement in the National: "Count Orloff has just presented to the Emperor of Russia an extraordinary musical phenomenon, in the person of a young Wallachian called Frederick Rolitz. This man has been born with four hands, each having ten fingers. He was brought up by a clergyman, who taught him to play on the organ, but the young man in the course of time, made a pianoforte for himself, of considerably greater power than of ordinary instruments. He enjoys excellent health, and, with the exception of the hands, presents nothing strange in his person. It is only from the elbow that the malformation commences. The arm there divides into two limbs, each ending in a hand with a double supply of fingers. These additional arms are regularly made, and the only remarkable point observed by medical men is the immense developement of the deltoid muscle at the summit of the shoulder. The clergyman who had brought up Rolitz, at his death left him his small property, and the young man immediately purchased diamond rings, with which he loaded his twenty fingers. It was with them so adorned that he performed before the Emperor of Russia, who expressed his surprise at the musical powers of the young man. Rolitz, it is said, is shortly to visit Paris."

ENCOURAGING RESULTS.—The following extracts show how efficient the Sunday-school Missionary effort is awakening a religious interest among the destitute. An Episcopal clergyman, laboring in Georgia, writes as follows:—"Here, Sunday-schools are entirely new. Those who have attained the age of twenty-four or five, have never, until now, been in a Sunday-school.—They know nothing about the commencement and carrying on a Sunday-school. They do not know what books to obtain. But when thus ignorant and necessitous, the Sunday-school Union comes in and is enabled, through gifts, to furnish proper books for destitute regions of country, like those around me.

I have been enabled, with my other work as rector of a summer church, to found several Sunday-schools around this village. They are all in a prosperous condition. The interest in no one seems to have abated. The scholars attend regularly and learn rapidly. Many of them have no school to attend during the week.—Their parents are, for the most part, quite ignorant. But they are beginning to prize the Sunday-schools, and are oftentimes themselves willing to receive instruction. A great work has begun, the results of which will be seen in the day of Jesus Christ." This same clergyman states, in a previous letter, that in two of his schools about one half of the pupils are grown people—many of them married and with families. What a blessing are Sunday-schools to such neighborhoods as those described above.—What could better prepare the way for churches and week-day schools, than such a simple instrumentality?

A clergyman of the Episcopal Church, living in Ohio and engaged in the work, states that, within the last two months, he has organized and visited Sunday-schools in nine different neighborhoods. These schools embrace over four hundred scholars, and more than sixty teachers. Among them he distributed many hundred volumes of religious books, besides some eighty Bibles and Testaments.

These neighborhoods are represented by the Missionary as being very destitute of religious privileges. Now who does not see that if these schools go on for a year or two they must result in great good. The children will be instructed, the books will be read, an interest will be enlisted, and the people will not rest satisfied till they have their own churches and ministers.—Such has ever been the history of Sunday-school efforts in new and destitute regions.

The American Sunday-school Union would be glad to send its Missionaries and its libraries of religious books to every neglected neighborhood in our country. It would be glad thus to prepare the way for the coming of the Redeemer's Kingdom all over the land. Are there not those, for whom the Saviour died, who would consider it a privilege to be permitted to aid such a cause? If ten men would commit to the Society $150 each, they would enable it to plant new Sunday-schools in more than two hundred neighborhoods. And in what other way could the same amount of funds accomplish more good? The seed thus sown would produce a rich harvest of precious souls.

TERRIBLE RAIL ROAD ACCIDENT.—About ten o'clock yesterday morning as the Iron Train was passing around Savage Mountain, about 50 yards from Everett's Tunnel the flange of the wheel of the foremost car broke, and the car with 8 tons of railroad iron was immediately precipitated over the embankment, making several complete somersets and falling a distance of 60 feet. Unfortunately about 15 persons were on the car at the time, mostly all natives of Ireland proceeding to different points of the road west. Three men were killed outright, another had his skull dreadfully fractured and is not expected to survive, another had a leg broken, another had his collar bone broken, a woman had her finger cut off, while five or six others were more or less injured. Dr. Gerstell was immediately summoned to the spot and rendered all the assistance to the wounded in his power. One of the three men killed was a German named Messaman, well known at this place. The names of the rest could not be ascertained as they were strangers.—Cumberland (Md) Journal Sep. 12.
