PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

INTERFERENCE AND CRIME.—Judge Agnew, in his charge to the Grand Jury of Beaver county, takes strong ground on the subject of licensing drinking houses. After having placed lists of licenses granted last year, and of applications for license this year, before the Grand Jury, he invoked their co-operation in determining what houses should or should not be licensed. He says:

"I have as yet had no opportunity, of consulting my brethren, and may not speak for them by authority, but for myself, I will say, that I shall grant no license, but such, as in a faithful administration of the law I believe conducive to public good. I doubt not, however, that my brethren, whose high character and standing, as men and as judges, give assurance of their deep interest in the suppression of vice and crime, will join with me in an effort to administer the law, in the mode I have mentioned.

* * * * * *

"In a neighboring county, upwards of thirty indictments were found at a single term, and as handed to me by the foreman of the grand jury, they generally ran thus:—Tippling house, riot, assault and battery—Tippling house, assault and battery, assault and battery. Gentlemen, I could not help being struck with this concatenation, this linking together of cause and effect. Tippling house, assault and battery! How natural that one should thus follow the other, the effect, the cause. To a reflecting mind, the argument is logical, and forcible, because practical.

"I have spoken upon the bench for this district but a few months, and take it in this county, now for the first time, let me give you my own experience in this short period. I have tried three cases of murder, one of arson, two of assault with intent to kill, one of murder, (one with an axe the other with a rifle,) dismissing from view a large array of minor offences; and I say to you that every one of these high crimes proceeded, not indirectly, but immediately, from drunkenness."

NEW YORK ADVERTISEMENTS.

HENRY WATERMAN'S PATENT HAMMERED SAWS.—The subscriber would call the attention of mechanics and others, to this superior article. By his patent process of hammering, the saw is more thoroughly tempered than it can be by any other method. It is well known to machinists that the surface of steel is the hardest part. There saws are temper ed after the usual method, and hammered by power according to the patent, they are grinding off hard, it is necessary to polish them, thereby grinding off the most serviceable part of the saw. These saws are not polished, and only require a trial to be appreciated. They have already been put to the severest test in some of the largest Saw Mills in this vicinity, and pronounced unequalled. We are now prepared to execute orders for all sizes of Mill, Pit and Circular saws.
