PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 22, 1853.

Victor Considerant, one of the most prominent among the disciples of Charles Fourier, is on his his way to Cincinnati, in company with Albert Brisbane. After remaining there some time these gentlemen intend to proceed on a tour up the Missouri river in quest of a desirable site for a grand Phanlanstery. This movement differs from that of Cabet and his Icarians at Nauvoo, in that the latter hold to a community of property, while the former are simply Associationists, and believe in a modified form of partnership.

RATTING.—The rise in the creeks last week enabled a few of the lumbermen to get a portion of their timber and boards to the mouth of Redbank. The water was not in a very good 'rafting stage' to run large rafts. All were awake, however, and made all the exertions they could to get their lumber out. We have heard it estimated that some two hundred rafts reached the river.—Jefferson Star.

The opinion is unanimous among those who claim to know, that the prospect for an abundant supply of fruit in Central Ohio was never better that at present. The backward season has kept the peaches, &c., away from the frosts, and is is hoped that we shall have no weather to injure them. For two years past we have had no peaches here, but the prospect for a good yield is now very flattering.—Ohio State Journal

THE GARRARD COUNTY FEUD.—Another man has been shot in Garrard county, Ky., in the miserable feud between the Hills and Evans. The law does not seem to have reached that benighted region.

The Chicago papers charge that the Directors of the Railroad from Cincinnati to St. Louis have expended $70,000 to $80,000, in lobbying, at the Illinois Legislature, to defeat the chartering of a road from Terre Haute to St Louis.

The New York Daily Times has enlarged the area of its reading matter, to the extent of four columns, which is a good sign of health and energy.

The Stowell Ever Green Sweet Corn.

FROM Seed raised by Prof. J. J. Mapes. This is beyond all doubt the best and most delicious of sweet Corn ever grown. No farmer should be without it. One of the advantages claimed for this Corn by Prof. Mapes is, that it may be kept green and fresh all the year round. Prof. Mapes in the Working Farmer, Dec. 1851, gives the following directions for preserving the Stowell Evergreen Sweet Corn.

"The ears should be gathered when fully ripe and the husk should be tied at the nose, at the silk end, to prevent drying; when the Corn will keep sound, full and plump for more than a year. If in a dry and cool place. At the dinner of the Managers, after the Fair of the American Institute, last year, we presented them with this Corn of two successive years' growth boiled, and there was no perceptible difference between the two—This year we sent to the Fair one stalk containing eight full and fair ears, and could have sent many hundred stalks of six ears each."

A limited supply of this celebrated Corn just received and for sale by R. SELLERS, 87 Wood street.
