THE WHIG NOMINATION.—A general feeling of regret pervades the city at the defeat of Gen. Larimer in the State Convention. His nomination had been confidently calculated on, and no expectations of a contrary result had been entertained, except among those who were intently watching the progress of the canvass. The prevalent feeling, therefore, is one in which a little mortification mingles, and it will require a little time for this to wear off. When it is remembered what a deep hold Gen. Larimer had upon the affections of all who knew him, and how deep was the enthusiasm which was ready to burst forth in the event of his nomination, a little manifestation of vexation may well be excused. We speak by the card, however, when we say, that the Whig friends of Gen. Larimer will accord to Judge Pollock a cheerful and vigorous support.

It is not to be disguised, nevertheless, that we shall not be able in this part of the State to rally for Judge Pollock anything like the vote that would have concentrated upon our friend Larimer. He will receive the entire Whig vote, a portion of the Freesoil vote, and such Democratic votes as will be driven off by the policy of that party and the unpopularity of its nominees; but we do not look for that general concentration upon him of the votes of men of all parties which Gen. Larimer would certainly have experienced. We deem this explanation necessary to our eastern and northern Whig friends; and, while promising to do all that we can, advise them not to expect too much of us. With this statement of the position of things, all reference on our part to the past will cease. We look hopefully, but not sanguinely to the future; and laying our arms to the contest, enter upon it determined to leave nothing undone that can be reasonably expected of us, in contributing to a favorable result.

We have every confidence in Judge Pollock. He is eminently qualified for the post to which he is named, presents a clear record for public inspection, and his antecedents are all unexceptionable. Gentlemen of our acquaintance who know him, speak of him to us in the warmest terms of praise. He is anti-slavery to the backbone, and on the Nebraska bill occupies ground of unyielding opposition to that basest of all political swindles. His stern integrity and incorruptibility are qualities much needed at Harrisburg, and in the present crisis of the State's affairs—embarrassed finances and corruption prevailing within and without, Pennsylvania will be untrue to herself if she does not cast off the horde of leeches who are sucking out her life blood, and convey the responsibility of government into honester and more trustworthy hands.—With a firm faith that she ought to, and an earnest hope that she will, we enter upon the canvass with zeal, and in the honest confidence of a worthy cause, flying to the breeze our banner with the name of JAMES POLLOCK inscribed upon its folds.

A friend, who is intimately acquainted with Judge Pollock, and served with him in Congress, has opportunely sent us the following sketch of his life, which we gladly lay before our readers.

THE HON. JAMES POLLOCK.

The gentleman, whose name heads this article, has been presented to the people of Pennsylvania, as a Candidate for Governor. A more worthy, upright and honorable man could not have been selected. Possessed of a high order of talents, a fine education, and having considerable experience as a public man, he is admirably calculated for the discharge of the duties of the exalted position for which he has been nominated.

As Judge Pollock is not so well known in the western part of the State, as he is in the eastern, from which I presume his support in the Convention principally came, and as I have known him from his boyhood, I deem it proper to give a brief sketch of his life, and of his career as a public man.

Mr. Pollock was born in the Borough of Milton in Northumberland county, where he now resides, and is now I suppose 42 or 43 years of age. His father was a highly respectable man, and in connection with a brother, Col. Thomas Pollock, was engaged in merchandising and managing a farm immediately adjoining the borough. Both of these gentlemen were prominent members of the old Democratic party. By industry, economy and frugality, the older Mr. Pollock acquired a handsome estate, which he left to his family, consisting of several children, who by the same prudent course have not only retained it, but have added to it.

Having received a liberal education Judge Pollock studied the law in his native village, under Samuel Hepburn, Esq., a brother of the Hon. Opewell Hepburn of this City, and one of the ablest and most eminent lawyers of that part of the State, and if I mistake not married his daughter. Of this last named fact I am not certain, but I know he is connected with the Hepburn family by marriage.

Soon after his admission, Judge Pollock took a respectable stand at the bar, although he had compete with his preceptor, Mr. Bellus, the present Judge Jordan, the late Mr. Greenough and other distinguished lawyers. He quietly and assiduously pursued his profession, till the winter of 1844, when, a vacancy in the representation in Congress, from the district in which he resided, having occurred, his friends brought his name before the people, for the first time, as a candidate to fill it. His competitor was the late Hon. John Snyder, of Union county, a son of Governor Snyder's, and one of the leaders of the Democratic party of the State. The District was decidedly Democratic, and Mr. Snyder who had previously been in Congress, one of the most formidable and influential democrats as well as a man in it. Notwithstanding the fearful odds against him, and the disadvantages with which he had to contend, young Pollock met his opponent before the people, canvassed the district and after a most severe and animated contest was triumphantly elected.—

Election turned upon the tariff question.—Mr. Snyder took a bold stand against protection, and was boldly met by his opponent as its advocate.

It is not generally known, but is nevertheless the fact, that this election had a most decided effect on the parties of the State at that time. It occurred the winter preceding the nomination of Mr. Clay and Mr. Polk as candidates for the Presidency. The leaders of the Democratic party were preparing to come out against the tariff. They awaited the result of this contest and when the result was known, when they saw one of the veterans of the party had been beaten on that question, by a man comparatively unknown, they at once changed their course. Judge Pollock was twice elected to Congress from the same district, over strong candidates of the opposite party. Whilst a member of the House, he was diligent and attentive to his duties, and took an active and prominent part in the debates. He voted for the men and supplies demanded by the Administration during the Mexican war, but his opposition to the extension of slavery, was evinced by his unwavering support, on all occasions, of the Wilmot Proviso.

March, 1849, he returned from Congress, having declined a re-election, and gave his undivided attention to his practice, which of course had declined on account of his absence from home. He was not long permitted however to remain in private life. A vacancy in the President Judge, ship having occurred in the Judicial District in which he practised, he was appointed to supply the vacancy by Governor Johnston. It is scarcely necessary to say that the discharge of the duties of this high position was characterized by the same ability which marked his legislative career, and received the approbation of the bar and people.

The term of office of the President Judge, which he had thus filled, was about to expire, and he was urged by his friends throughout the district, to become a candidate for the office, which he had so ably filled. He yielded to their wishes, and was nominated by the Democratic party, and such was the satisfaction it gave to the public that it was deemed advisable not to present any one in opposition to him. In this determination Judge Pollock, who had never sought office, readily and cordially acquiesced. To persons as well acquainted with both these gentlemen as the writer of this article, this would not appear at all remarkable.—Judges Jordan and Pollock had been born and reared in the same village, had often played together when boys, had gone to the same school, had long practised at the same bar, and as the former was the senior, and withal a sound lawyer and a most amiable and high minded gentleman, it is not at all remarkable that the latter should have declined opposing him. When he retired from the bench, Judge Pollock resumed the practice of his profession, with the settled determination, as is well known to the writer, and expressed to him in August last, not again to be a candidate for public office. Had his own wishes been consulted, I am satisfied he would not now have been before the public as prominently as he is. He has yielded to the earnest solicitation of his friends, and I feel safe in saying that his nomination has been effected without any other agency on his part than agreeing to accept it.

Judge Pollock is beloved by all who know him, and no man enjoys to a greater degree the respect and esteem of his neighbors. His moral character is of the highest order. He is, if I mistake not, a member in full communion of a Presbyterian church. He is a gentleman of fine manners and address, and an able and eloquent debater. Such is the Hon. James Pollock, the Whig candidate for Governor. The people of Pennsylvania will reflect credit upon themselves by electing him, and secure the services of an honest, honorable and talented public servant.—Time will develope whether they will appreciate him. B.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

WASHINGTON, March 14, 1854.

Mr. Everett to-day presented the remonstrance of three thousand and two hundred clergymen of the New England States against the repeal of the Missouri Compromise and the passage of the Nebraska bill. Instantly Douglass, Mason, Badger, and other chief conspirators against the peace of the country, sprang up to protest against the reception of the petition. Douglass was outraged that the petition should allude to the repudiation of the Missouri compact as a violation of plighted faith. It was disrespectful to the Senate. It was a libel upon the Senate.—After the proofs and arguments which he and others had adduced, the man who spoke of the Nebraska bill as a violation of public faith, was a slanderer. Observe the vanity and the insolence of this new Slave driver! He imagines that he and his confederates in crime have told the people something they did not know before. The country knew nothing of the history of the Missouri Compromise until he and they revealed it! The people needed no such teachers, and if they had, would have found in them blind guides. Douglass himself, over and over again, since he has been in Congress, has affirmed the inviolability of the Missouri Act, has intimated that no man, not an innate scoundrel, would now seek to throw off the obligations of the compact; and finally, only two months ago in his report on the Nebraska question, declared that he and his confederates would not venture to disturb it.

No, the people have been shaken by nothing which has been urged in defence of this abominable thing. They know what the Missouri Compromise was. They knew that it was a solemnly concluded stipulation between the free States and the South that Slavery should come no further. They know that Slavery had received, and was enjoying the benefits of the bargain.—They did not dream that any public man, having a reputation to lose, could be so treacherous, base and dishonorable as to propose its abrogation. But, such men have been found in Douglass and his crew, and now when the clergymen of one great division of this republic come forward and denounce the wickedness, in terms very like those which Douglass has used before, in denunciation of the same iniquity, he says they are slanderers, and he protested against its reception. Now, is not this infamous, is it not intolerable! The North, the free States, containing two-thirds of the population, two-thirds of the wealth, and more than two-thirds of the intelligence of the whole country, sees herself on the point of being swindled out of what she obtained by a solemn treaty five years ago—and protests against the treachery and fraud of the transaction. A pack of bullies immediately raise the yell, "You are a slanderer, you are an abolitionist, you are an agitator!" and go on in their scandalous work, pluming themselves upon their own ribaldry, as if they had done a brave and generous thing.—The North is spurned in whatever attitude she appears here, and it is very evident that but one course remains open to her. She must refuse send her representations to Washington, or she must devise means to chastise the insolence which repels her, and loads her with insult when she does come!

Mr. Everett defended the rights of his constituents to petition against this bill, or any other with eloquence and propriety. But Gen. Houston nobly repelled the audacious assaults of Douglass and Mason upon the venerable body from whom the remonstrance proceeds. If any body has made political capital out of this gratuitous and miserable agitation, it has been Gen. Sam Houston, who has defended the right and denounced the wrong at every step, with an energy and ability deserving of the highest praise and the highest reward.

It is not an easy thing to induce thirty-two hundred clergymen, scattered over sixty thousand miles of territory, to unite in any object, but when they do, the occasion cannot be a light one, nor the act of trifling import. The treatment which this document received at the hands of the Senate was characteristic. It was spurned with every mark of rage, hatred and derision.—Let the country read the memorial, and then look on the picture of a Senate so abandoned as first to adopt a measure so mean, so false and so dishonorable as the Nebraska bill, and then with spiteful hisses, spitterings of anger, and yells of contempt, to throw out a truthful and respectful remonstrance of the clergy against it. Let the country pause and consider the scene. It is a spectacle which will hear moralizing!

For myself, I yield to the clergy no meed of undue adulation. But I know that their errors are very rarely on the side of liberty. I know that but for their improper and most lamentable interference in 1850, the spirit of the people would not have been so crushed as to make the enactment of the atrocious fugitive act possible, and that but for them the bloodhounds of Slavery would not have dared to pollute our soil with their footsteps. But, remembering their past offences against freedom, I am willing to take their present activity on her side as some small atonement.

All the railroad land grants may be considered dead. The whole of to-day was consumed in a desperate struggle over the Wisconsin bill, which grants to that State over two millions and a half of acres for the principal railroad project in that State. It was by a series of very close votes defeated, and laid upon the table. The length of the contest, and the various shapes in which the issue was presented, showed that the judgment of the House was deliberately made up, and that there is no possibility of resuscitating the bill.

The two Committees on the Pacific Railroad, have reported bills for grants of land in aid of that work. The Senate committee is in favour of a single route, without designating the location, and proposes to donate alternate sections for twenty miles on each side. The House bill recommends an extreme Northern and a Southern line, with grants of alternate sections forty miles wide to each. JUNIUS.

MUSICAL TEACHER AND COPY BOOK.—Mr. John T. Shrynck, 29, 5th street, has published a copy book for schools, with an introduction containing a course of elementary instructions in vocal music, designed for the scholars in our public schools. There are to be several series, Nos. 1, 2, and 3, etc., thus as the children advance in writing, they advance in the elementary principles of music. The design is novel, and meets with the approbation of the teachers generally. Daniel Shrynck, teacher of vocal music in the schools of Pittsburgh, is the editor of this new musical work. For sale at the Book stores.

Dr. Moffat's Invigorating Elixir or CORDIAL.—If it is inquired how this great restorative is accomplishing such extraordinary cures, we can only reply that in the Arabian herb that forms its cardinal ingredient have been blended by the Omnipotent Physician, a larger amount and greater varieties of curative properties than had heretofore been supposed to exist in a hundred different articles of the pharmacopeia. A whole medicine chest of remedies, so to speak, seems to have been combined in this herb; and in the ELIXIR or CORDIAL we have their concentrated essence. It is the duty, however, not the cause with which we have to deal in the practical application of the medicine. The victims of dyspepsia are cured, the nervous are relieved, the half paralyzed resume their activity, the sufferers from headaches are tormented no more, the weak become vigorous, the tint of jaundice leaves the complexion of the bilious, the depressed in spirits become buoyant, the sick in almost in every condition of disease derive immediate benefit from the use of Dr. Morse's Invigorating Elixir or Cordial. These facts, supported by irrefragable proof, are presented to the attention of invalids, who can verify them by a single bottle of the medicine. The Cordial is put up highly concentrated, in pint bottles. Price one dollar per bottle, or half dozen for eleven dollars, six for twelve dollars. C. H. RINO, Proprietor,

$10,000 WORTH OF BOOKS AND PAPERS SAVED WITH A BAD SAFE!

ALTON, ERIE CO., PA.,

November 12, 1853.

Messrs. Burke & Barnes—Dear Sirs—Your two letters were duly received. I am happy to inform you, that I may, in regard to your safe, I consider it perfectly FIRE PROOF. I tested the safe you sent me, on the 10th, the morning of the 10th of June last—my store building being burned to ashes. It was built of wood and brick—large three story building. My safe was in the middle of the fire, and fell into the cellar, where there was a large amount of wool. It was very hot, I know.

My books and book accounts that were in the Safe amounted to about Ten Thousand Dollars, and it was saved. There was not a single paper injured; and I think I would advise any person who is doing business, to lose no time but buy a Safe like yours, for it is fire proof, I get one that is good. I am daily recommend your Safes to my friends. Yours, Truly,

JOHN CLARKE.

Indigestion and Liver Complaint Cured

BY KEER'S PETROLEUM.—Read the following letter from Rev. O. Dickerson, a Missionary in Oregon:

DEAR SIR, M. KITZ—Dear Sir—Myself and wife having been greatly benefited by the use of your Petroleum, I feel as if I have you send me a box of two or three dozen bottles. I am the Congregational Minister here, and I'll be glad to send of my people are affected with indigestion and an inaction of the liver, the cause of many ills, which I believe your PETROLEUM, OR ROCK OIL, is the best remedy for. I have—two or three each—about a year and a half ago, and have never suffered from the disease in the manner I did since that time. I had not taken a single bottle before that fullness of the stomach, and other distressing dyspeptic symptoms, and I have felt nothing of it since. My little son also relieved from a chronic disease of the liver, which had been of several years standing, by the use of your Petroleum.

Consumption and Spitting Blood.—See the certificate of Mr. Turner H. Ramsey, for many years proprietor of the Farmers' Hotel, Fredericksburg, Va., and late of the City Hotel, Richmond, Va.

Dr. John Hinge, of the old Dominion, thought a regular physician, and of course opposed to what he called quack medicines, was obliged to say that its good effects in the case of Mr. Ramsey, were wonderful indeed.

He had been given up by several physicians, had tried most of the quack medicines, and was on the verge of death, as well as the grave, when he tried Carter's Spanish Mixture. We refer the public to his full and lengthy certificate around the bottle, stating his cure.

A word to Farmers—how to have good Butter and more of it, and healthy Stock.

New Discoveries.

VEGETABLE CATTLE POWDER.—These Powders are put up in one pound packs and are really a good article, not only for the diseases incident to horses, cows, sheep and other animals, but they are likewise an excellent article to improve the condition of the animal.

For Milch Cows, they not only improve the condition of milch cows, but they increase the quantity as well as improve the quality of milk and butter. The proprietors say that it increases the quantity of butter from half a pound to a pound a week to each cow, while those persons who have tried it say a pound and a half to two pounds per week, with the same kind of feeding as before. Of one thing we are certain, all who use it once will use it all the time and save money by the operation as well as improve the appearance of their stock. Price, 25 cts. a paper, 5 papers for $1.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

GREAT PUBLIC SALE

And giving away of valuable Building Lots, Blocks and Acres, in Rochester, Beaver County, Pennsylvania.

THE giving away will continue till the 22d inst., and the regular Public Sale upon the premises will commence on the following day.

N. B.—The undersigned is desirous of giving away 15 PRIVILEGE BUILDINGS for one or more Churches and for a Female Institute, in the Borough of Rochester; also, five acres for an Academy, College, &c., &c., on a beautiful eminence overlooking the Borough of Rochester, the surrounding villages, and commanding an uninterrupted view of the Ohio river, for at least 16 miles. The conditions are, that the property shall be invariably enclosed, and that within a reasonable time it shall be built upon, to the amount not less than the prescribed value of Lots of Ground, and that they shall be dedicated to the objects and purposes specified. The condition will be good till the 22d inst.

N. B.—Before the commencement of the Public Sale, an offer of good building Lots will be offered for $50, $60 and 100 for $100 each, for the benefit of mechanics and others, who cannot spare a second $50, or a second $100, though they may be indispensably necessary, and giving a warranty deed, the moment the money is paid for. On this title to these grounds I expect, for which offer is made to Thomas Cunningham, Esq., Beaver, and N. P. Fetterman, Esq., of Pittsburgh.

A very great number of lots will be required in this neighborhood, not only by the subscriber and those whom he represents, but by the Beaver Manufacturing Company, by the Ohio and Pa. Railroad Company, and by the Beaver County Benton Iron Company, who expect to erect twenty furnaces in and adjacent to the Beaver village, the present season.—With regard to this process of making iron, reference is kindly made to Messrs. Kramer & Rahm, of Pittsburgh, head, J.W. Hallman, Lyon, Sherk & co., Wylie & Wood, Hunter & H. Hendrickson, William Whigham, and Jas. H. Crane Pittsburgh.

Contracts for grading, excavating, quarrying, mining, stone work, brick work, carpenter work, and all other kind of labor, may now be entered into by those who apply.

Twenty thousand perches of Stone lots are 60 feet by 125 feet deep, each containing 5000 square feet, just double the quantity in common sized city lots, of 25 by 100. This price, $50 and $100 is equal to about a dollar and a half per foot square. Here a man can have land of his own to set down upon, and to make a home for himself, for ever. In Pittsburgh, a square, a share, or the blocking of his boots. Who will not own real estate, at such prices?

About 50 lots have been sold the last three days, and many more are bespoken, and will be built on and occupied next season.

Those who pay cash will deposit it with Gen. Spurgeon, Esq., Cashier of the Mechanics' Bank, Market st., Pittsburgh. The deeds will be made out, acknowledged, and delivered in the same hands, to be delivered on filling the money.

Maps of the borough of Rochester will be found at various public places, and smaller plates of the lots will be freely given to all who apply.

Deeds will be found at the office of Thos. Wood, Esq., No. 75 Fourth street, Pittsburgh, on Monday and Tuesday, the 20th and 21st inst., from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M., to wait on those who wish to profit by the above proposition.
