THE MASSACHUSETTS KNOW-NOTHINGS.—The Know-Nothing State Council of Massachusetts met in Boston on Thursday last, to take into consideration the platform adopted by the National Council at Philadelphia. An address to the people of Massachusetts was adopted, which concludes as follows:

"The State Council of Massachusetts, with pride and entire unanimity, endorse the action of her delegates to the Convention at Philadelphia, and so doing, but reflect the public sentiment of our citizens. We accept the platform promulgated by those delegates and their associates, on the 14th of June, as expressive of our sentiment; and declaring unabated attachment to American principles, and our determination to do all in our power to extend the time of residence requisite for naturalization, to prevent the deportation by foreign authorities of criminals and paupers to our shores, and to extend the constitutional limitation of birth now existing as to the President of the United States, to other high officers, especially those entrusted with the very grave powers of diplomatic positions, this Council hereby declares itself independent of that or any organization which places these principles subordinate and secondary to their pro-slavery objects and determinations. Therefore—

"Resolved, That this organization be henceforth known as the American Party in Massachusetts, and does hereby sever all connection with the majority of the National American Council recently assembled at Philadelphia.

"Resolved, That this party affirm with renewed energy the distinctive principles of Americanism, when we have heretofore expressed.

"Resolved, That this party hereafter stands distinctly pledged to use all constitutional means to effect the restoration of the prohibitory clause of the Missouri Compromise, and to secure free institutions in Kansas and Nebraska.

"Resolved, That the interests of the whole country imperatively require the union and co-operation of the people of Massachusetts and the Free States, and we invite the co-operation of men of all parties in Massachusetts and the Free States, to maintain and advance the principles we profess.

"Resolved, That the Massachusetts Council declares that all the principles of the Order shall be henceforward everywhere openly avowed; and that each member shall be at liberty to make known the existence of the Order and the fact that he himself is a member; and it recommends that there be no concealment of the places of meeting of subordinate Councils."

The ritual of the Order was taken up, and greatly modified. The most of it was dispensed with. The rules for admitting members were simplified, and the number of degrees, signs and grips, were reduced to one each.

This is a great advance in the right direction, but not enough to secure entire co-operation and union with the Republican masses of the North. Secrecy must be entirely abolished, and Foreign born citizens must be placed on terms of entire equality, before all hindrances are removed out of the way. The platform should be purged of every thing which will prevent any friend of Northern rights from giving it his hearty concurrence. The proceedings which took place at the Mass Meeting held in public, on the same evening, evinced that the Leaders of the party are prepared to go to the proper length to unite the freemen of the North. Gov. Gardner was the first speaker, and he called upon the North, as one man to be united in the support of the great principles of freedom. Nothing was said of Nativism. JOHN W. FOSTER followed, and his remarks were confined wholly to the slavery question—nothing concerning Nativism.

Gen. WILSON spoke next. We select one or two extracts:

"I was struck, Sir, by a remark of yours, the other night, at another place, and on another occasion, that this conflict at Philadelphia was not because we were there, and men of the South were there; but because God was in the Heavens. That was a profound truth. God lives and reigns; and I tell you here to-night that the agitation upon this question of human Slavery will continue while the foot of a slave presses the soil of the American Republic. [Applause and cheers.] When the last bondman can stand up and say "I am a man, a brother, an American, —aye, a Native American,"—then, and not till then, will the agitation of the Slavery question cease in this Republic. [Cheers.] And that politician, whether he be a member of the American party, or any other party, who believes that he can put puny hands upon that movement inaugurated by Almighty God, sustained by every attribute of God, and everything pure and holy on earth, and arrest it, may be an enthusiastic but not a very far seeing politician. [Applause.]

* * * * * * *

I say the separation is final and complete.—There is a high wall and deep ditch between us and them, and here to-night, before you and in this presence, I say, and I would say it to the whole Republic, if my voice could be heard, that never more will we meet those men who were false to freedom at Philadelphia, and act in concert and in harmony with them. [Applause.] I would as soon support FRANKLIN PIERCE and STEPHEN ARNOLD DOUGLAS as the men who at at Philadelphia spopted that majority platform. [Cheers.]

* * * * * * *

If the North, in that Convention, had acted in concert and harmony, we should have had a united North and a divided South; but before we went there, there were the chiefs of a baffled and defeated faction in the State of New-York—men who were organized to break down WILLIAM H. SEWARD [cheers] and for no other purpose—who went to Philadelphia prepared to put their heels upon our necks, to crush us at the North, if they could only survive and be the little insignificant chiefs of a baffled faction in the City and State of New-York. [Cheers.]

And, gentlemen, the cause of the country, the cause of freedom, the cause of the American party, was sacrificed by these little insignificant leaders, to gratify their own petty ambition. Sir, they will be scorned and hissed in the State of New-York. The American party of that State will trample upon them. [Cheers.] I told them, in that Convention that WILLIAM H. SEWARD'S heel was upon their necks, and that he would be peering down into their graves when they are dead. Their own party, their own followers, will place them in those graves, and we shall all have the pleasure of trampling upon them. [Applause.

Sir, we have taken our position in Massachusetts to-day. You have endorsed the action of your delegates. I had no doubt what your action would be; but, gentlemen, I ask you for a moment to turn your attention from your own political position, and to look at the position of the country. The interests of this country demand—the cause of liberty demands—that the people of these free States shall act together in concert and harmony. We are a union of men who think alike, feel alike, and in the future will act alike.

Let us abjure all that is narrow, bigoted or intolerant. Let us place the principles of the party in harmony with the democratic sentiment of the age, and we shall triumph. We may be defeated in 1856. I believe, however, if we are wise we shall triumph in Massachusetts, in New England, and in all the free States. We shall elect the next Congress, committed to the policy of freedom. We shall elect a President of the United States, who will be true to the cause of human liberty and those American ideas that underlie the American mission. [Cheers.]

Later accounts show that the action of the State Council greatly disappointed the public generally, and satisfied nobody. It just hung on to enough secrecy and proscription to prevent the co-operation of the Anti-Nebraska voters of the State generally, while there is not sufficient mystery and Nativism to satisfy the anti-foreign sentiment. The Boston Atlas, in commenting on the address and proceedings, complains that the organization of the Lodges, and the secrecy is still to be kept up, and that "the call upon the whole people of the State to meet in Convention has not been uttered." The Springfield Republican, which has trimmed its sails to suit the breeze since the rise of Know Nothingism, considers the proceedings at the Boston session as "altogether untrue to the demand of the time, and inadequate to the accomplishment of what it believes to be the strong desire of the people of Massachusetts." As it is, it remarks:

"A republican fusion is practically denied.—The people do not want a know nothingism—they want a fusion of all who are willing to act together against slavery aggression. They want no other test than this; and we believe they will vindicate their purposes in this respect, in spite of the narrow and selfish action at Boston, on Thursday."

The same paper lets us into a secret, which explains the remark of the Atlas, above quoted, that "the call upon the whole people of the State to meet in convention, has not been uttered." The Address, which is said to be the composition of Gov. Gardner, does not appear as it was originally written, but was emasculated by the Council by striking out a proposition for a general republican fusion convention at Springfield. The suppressed passage was as follows:

"And we call upon our fellow-citizens of Massachusetts, of every name and party, who agree with the sentiments of the platform signed by our delegates to the said convention, to assemble in their several cities and towns, in public meetings, duly notified, and to select three delegates, for each representative said city or town is entitled to send to the General Court, on valuation years, to an American Republican State Convention, to be held at Springfield on Friday, July 13th, at 12 o'clock noon, that day being the anniversary of the passage of the ordinance of 1787, for the purposes of laying down a platform of principles, and transacting such other business as the said convention may deem expedient."

It is very evident that the people of Massachusetts will be satisfied with nothing less than a thorough union of the Anti-slavery sentiment on equitable and fair terms. All other issues must be laid aside. The people are growing daily more impatient with these side issues which divide and weaken the North, and thus give to the South an easy victory. There is a united South in favor of slavery and slavery extension, and there must be a united North to roll back the advancing wave of oppression.

THE CENTRAL ROAD AND THE STATE WORKS.—The Philadelphia North-American treats the purchase of the cars, boats and stocks of the chief Canal Transportation Companies, by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, as a hypothetical case. This is not a fair way of treating the subject. If any information were desired, it could easily be obtained to verify the fact of the transaction, we presume, by applying at the office in Philadelphia. The fact of such purchase has never been denied, and there can be no reasonable doubt that such a purchase has taken place. The severe remarks of the North-American against such a purchase receive additional force when viewed in connection with the actual existence of the transaction which the editor opposes. The North-American says:

"The fact charged is that the Directors of the Central road have bought, or are endeavoring to buy the interest of the several transporting firms who have been using the Main Line for the carriage of freight between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. For two or three obvious reasons it is sincerely to be hoped that the measure has not so much as been contemplated. In the first place, it is highly desirable, both as regards the welfare of the Commonwealth and its citizens, that the improvements in question. The people are concerned to have them in use, because they afford increased facilities for a large local and general commerce, and by a competition with other lines of communication, and to avoid the excessive charges, other evils to which trade is exposed by monopolies. The State is equally interested in the same object, both in respect of the immediate revenue it derives from the works, and the practicability of effecting a sale of them at a fair price. In view, therefore, of these considerations, the attempt by a private corporation to put the Main Line out of service, and in effect to close it against the public by taking it out of the hands of the companies who have been employing it in the transportation business, cannot but be regarded as a movement alike hostile to the Government and the people of Pennsylvania. The former finds its chief improvement thrown out of use, and its character injured at the very moment when it is most important that nothing should occur to depreciate its value, while the latter are suddenly shut off from a great highway originally built for their advantage, with their own money, in order that a powerful corporation may monopolize the carrying trade on the route connecting the Delaware with the Ohio river, and impose on the community whatever terms it may choose to prescribe for the privilege of transit between the points designated.

While we cannot imagine what sufficient possible benefit could induce the President and Directors of the Pennsylvania Central road to incur the enmity and opposition of the Commonwealth, and the people generally, by any such action as that alleged to have been taken in relinquishing the Main Line, we are able to foresee quite clearly that the bad feeling so imprudently provoked may result hereafter in very serious, if not fatal consequences to the Central road and all who are interested in its fortunes and success. Whether it be true or not, that the motive for the proceeding was to prevent a sale by the State of its improvements, with a view to put the Pennsylvania Railroad Company the power of dictating hereafter the conditions on which it will agree to take them, it is nevertheless certain that, should such be the effect produced, the public mind will be highly incensed, the credit of the corporation chargeable with the mischief will be greatly impaired, and it is even possible that popular indignation may be so violent as to require and obtain an act of legislation which will be disastrous to the Central road. Besides perceiving no just occasion for interfering in any manner with the interests of the public works, we are not prepared to believe that, if such a step were supposed to be proper or expedient, the Directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company would assume the responsibility of resolving on so grave and dangerous a measure, without first asking the advice and obtaining the consent of the stockholders."

While the North American thus very properly castigates the Directors of the Railroad Company for attempting to destroy the business of the canal, in order to build up a monopoly for the Railroad, it very strongly urges the Railroad Company to buy out the canal! Now, if the purchase of the stock of the transporting companies at a price above their value for the purpose of monopolizing the carrying trade, is so great a wrong to the people of the State, as is justly alleged by the North American, will not the purchase of the Canal be a still greater wrong? In the first case, the evil can be repaired, and the monopoly prevented by inducing other companies to enter into the transportation business, but in the latter case the monopoly will be perpetual, as far as the canal is concerned. It will be lost to the people of the State as a public highway, and the Railroad Company will be the real autocrat of the carrying trade and travel of the State. We do not believe that the interests of the Railroad Company will be advanced by such a purchase, while the interests of the people will be greatly jeoparded. We feel a deep interest in the welfare of the Railroad, and we beg the Directors to pause and consider well before they proceed farther in this dangerous movement.

OHIO AND MISSISSIPPI RAILROAD.—We stated yesterday that the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad was completed to the Wabash, and that a continuous southern Railroad route from Pittsburgh to St. Louis was now in existence. Our information is verified by a telegraphic despatch received by Mr. A. GARRISON of this city, from his brother, the Vice President of the Road, which states that the last rail connecting St. Louis with the Wabash was laid on Saturday, June 30. Advertisements we presume will soon be published, giving all necessary information to travelers and shippers, as to the route and time of departure and arrival at different points, rates, &c.

MECHANICS' BANK.—The organization of this new Bank was completed yesterday. REUBEN MILLER, jr. is President and GEORGE D. MCGREW Cashier. The subordinate officers are as follows: Teller—R. Schmertz; Discount Clerk, J. G. Martin; Book-keeper, H. E. Davis.

The President, Reuben Miller, jr., is a gentleman well known to the Pittsburgh public as one who has been in active business a long time and well acquainted both with the commercial interests of the city and its mercantile men.—He enjoys, in a very high degree, the confidence of the public, and possesses a business capacity which will be of essential service to the institution over which he has been called to preside.—Mr. McGrew, the Cashier, is a young man who has grown up with the city, is familiar with the banking business, and possesses a very considerable acquaintance with the business men of the place. With a little experience in his new vocation he will doubtless prove an excellent officer.

The other officers chosen are also highly spoken of; and the new institution thus commences its existence under very favorable auspices.

THE MISSOURI COMPROMISE.—The National Intelligencer closes a sensible editorial with this language:—

"If at the end of thirty-three years we, even at the expense of sundering valued personal and political friendships, adhered to an opinion tested and confirmed by the experience of a life-time, and maintained by the inviolability of that compromise, of which a supposed party or sectional expediency prompted the repeal, it is a satisfaction to discover that our early attachment to the measure was confirmed in all its extent by the contemporaneous opinion of him whose authority was paramount in the South while he lived. That compromise poured oil upon the waves of sectional strife, allayed the irritation of the two extremes, and gave quiet and concord to the country for thirty years. What good has its repeal done? What evil has it not done?

A Certificate from one of our Williamsburgh friends:

NEW YORK, August 30th, 1852.

I hope every one, whether adult or child, who may have reason to believe they are troubled with worms, will take Dr. McLane's Celebrated Vermifuge. I firmly believe it is one of the greatest worm destroyers of the age—certainly the most extraordinary I know of.

A child of mine, about five years old, has been troubled with worms about six months back; we could get nothing to relieve it until we came across Dr. McLane's Vermifuge, of which we gave but a small quantity. The result, however, was extraordinary. The child passed over three hundred worms. MR. LENT, Williamsburgh, L. I.

☞Purchasers will be careful to ask for DR. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE, and take none else. All other Vermifuges, in comparison, are worthless. Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge, also celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable Drug Stores in the United States and from the sole proprietors.

The Greatest Medical Discovery OF THE AGE.

Mr. Kennedy, of Roxbury, has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cure scrofula of Humor, from the worst Scrofula to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases where he was under the thunder humor.) He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates, of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston.

Two bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth.

One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples of the face.

Two to three bottles will clear the system of biles.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the mouth and stomach.

Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of erysipelas.

One to two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.

Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.

Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers.

One bottle will cure scaly eruption of the skin.

Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of ringworm.

Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.

Three to four bottles are warranted to cure salt rheum.

Nothing looks so improbable to those who have in vain tried all the wonderful medicines of the day, as that a common weed growing in the pastures, and along old stone walls, should cure every humor in the system; yet it is now a fixed fact. If you have a humor it can't stay in you a fixed fact. If you have a humor it can't stay in you. There are no lie out in the lands, humor or hide about it suiting some cases and not yours. I peddled over a thousand bottles of it in the vicinity of Boston. I know its effects in every case. It has already done some of the greatest cures ever done in Massachusetts. I gave it to children a year old to old people of sixty. I have seen poor, puny, wormy looking children, whose flesh was soft and flabby, restored to a perfect state of health by one bottle.

Two bottles are sufficient to cure a sick headache, one bottle will always cure it. It gives great relief to catarrh and dizziness. Some who have been costive for years, have taken and been regulated by it. Where the body is sound, it will cause no pain. But where there is any derangement of the functions of nature, it will cause very singular sensings, but you must not be alarmed—they always disappear in two days. Some females have suffered from the most extraordinary length of from 12 to 18 inches.

Having experienced so much of the beneficial effects of your Vermifuge, I feel it my duty to recommend it to the public as, in my opinion, one of the most efficacious remedies tend to. No change of diet ever necessary—eat the best you can get. I have likewise an herb, which, when simmered in sweet oil, dissolves Scrofulous swelling of the neck and under the ears. Price 50 cents. Price of the Medical Discovery $1 per bottle.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE.—Adult, one table-spoonful per day. Children over eight years, dessert spoonful; children from five to eight years, teaspoonful. As no direction can be made applicable to all constitutions, take enough to operate on the bowels twice a day.

Mr. KENNEDY gives personal attendance in bad cases of scrofula.

Sold, wholesale and retail, at Dr. REYSER'S, 140 Wood street, corner of Virgin alley.

Statement from Canada.—Quebec, Feb. 7th, 1854.—Messrs. B. A. Fahnestock & Co.:—We had the pleasure of receiving, this morning, the within certificate of your Vermifuge, which will be very gratifying to you, as it was sent voluntarily. We are, gentlemen, yours very truly J. MUSSON & CO.

CERTIFICATE.—My little daughter, 4 years old, and my son, older, were for a considerable time suffering from worms; I purchased two bottles of your Vermifuge, of which I gave them three doses, according to directions, and strange to say, in less than three hours they passed a tape worm five hundred and forty feet long! We never had an instance of such extraordinary length of from 12 to 18 inches.

Having experienced so much of the beneficial effects of your Vermifuge, I feel it my duty to recommend it to the public as, in my opinion, one of the most efficacious remedies offered to the public. A. M. GILL.

Gentlemen, believe me to be your much obliged and humble servant, NATHANIEL LEAFERS.
