ANOTHER OUTRAGE.—Rev. T. B. McCormick, late of Indiana, publishes in the N. Y. Tribune a statement of the treatment he received in that State on account of his anti-slavery sentiments, which stirs the blood almost as thoroughly as the Williamson affair.

Mr. McCormick was a preacher in good standing in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and was located for 14 years at Princeton, Indiana. He is a native of Kentucky, born of non-slaveholding parents, and preached for four years in his native State, occasionally proclaiming his aversion to Slavery. In his letter to the Tribune he says:

"During my fourteen years' ministry in Princeton, Indiana, I used my liberty to preach more freely against Slavery than I had done previously. I encountered no serious opposition from my brethren, until the rise of the excitement growing out of the Nebraska Question. Then they began to cry out that it was a political question, which ought not to come into the pulpit. It was not until after this time that the events took place which have involved me in trouble.

In May, 1854, Thomas Brown of Henderson, Kentucky, was arrested and imprisoned on suspicion of aiding two female slaves, with their children, to escape from Union county, Ky., into Canada. An "indignation meeting" was then held, and a committee appointed to notify his wife, with her two little daughters, to leave the State within a few days, which were specified, or abide the consequences. She accordingly removed with her children to Indiana, and came to Princeton, the place of my residence. She was then a stranger to me, but of course I befriended her. A knowledge of this fact was conveyed to Union county, where I had formerly resided, and where Brown was imprisoned. This, as I soon learned, occasioned a suspicion that I was somehow connected with the escape of the slaves.

Some time in the ensuing autumn (1854) a citizen of Evansville, Ind., Eli Bryant, a native of Kentucky, being in Henderson, Ky., was arrested, and without even the formality of a affidavit, was thrown into prison, and detained there for more than a year, without right or justice, merely on suspicion, and then discharged without a trial, on his signing a bond, under penalty of two thousand dollars, never, during life, to come into the State again, where his relations reside. While in confinement he wrote a letter to his wife, in which he advised her to consult with me, in respect to obtaining assistance for the family, as they were poor. This letter was intercepted, broken open and copied, and furnished the final proceedings against me. A reward of one thousand dollars was thereupon immediately offered, in private, to any person who would either decoy me into Kentucky or take me there by force.

A little before this time the Indiana presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, to which I belonged, while in session at Washington, Davies county, Indiana, resolved, "That it is not expedient to discuss the subject of American Slavery from the "pulpit." The resolution was passed by a vote of seventeen to three. This was immediately after I had preached a sermon against Slavery before the presbytery.—Paying no regard to this action, I proceeded to preach afterward as I had formerly done."

At a subsequent meeting of the Presbytery he was arraigned upon a charge of "unchristian conduct."

"First. For associating himself with an association known as the underground railroad, whose avowed business is to assist slaves from slave to free territory."

"Second. For actually engaging in the business of assisting slaves in making their escape from slave to free territory, which is contrary to the laws of the United States and statute laws of the State of Indiana."

No evidence was adduced in support of these charges, except some private conversations of his which were retailed and tortured to his disadvantage; but he was nevertheless declared guilty and suspended from the ministry. He adds:

"A minister of the Cumberland Presbyterian church from Kentucky was present during the discussion of the resolution relative to Slavery; and immediately on his return home the court convened that sentenced Brown to the penitentiary for two years for abducting slaves and on the same testimony the grand jury immediately found a bill against me for "the crime of abducting and stealing slaves!" &c.—The accusation referring to the removal of the sons slaves—although I had not been in the State of Kentucky for several years."

This action, it will be perceived, accords with the doctrine of the Missouri courts—that persons out of the state may be indicted and tried for crimes under the laws of the State; a doctrine acted upon by a grand jury and governor of Alabama several years since, in the case of the late R. G. Williams, for whose rendition a requisition was unsuccessfully made on Gov. Marcy, of New York.

Gov. Powell, of Kentucky, accordingly, made a requisition on Gov. Wright, of Indiana, requiring my delivery to his agents. Gov. Wright apparently evaded the responsibility of direct action by a timely visit to Washington City. His private secretary, Mr. Francis King, made out the papers, but the secretary of State, E. B. Collins, esq., refused to affix to it the seal of the State, and signs the warrants, because he did not believe the private secretary to be Governor of the State. On the return of Governor Wright, he issued the warrant."

To escape from being delivered up under this warrant to be tried in Kentucky for an act which must have been committed, if at all, while he was out of that State, Mr. McCormick had taken refuge in the State of New York. The authorities of Indiana, who ought to protect him, are engaged, instead, in hunting him down as a fugitive. We append the conclusion of his letter:

"By the concurrent action of ecclesiastical and civil authorities, I am thus proscribed, hunted, and driven out as a vagabond from a free State, so called,—a State of which I am a lawful citizen;—for no crime, and only because I am suspected of an act which, so far from being criminal, had I committed it, would only have been doing to others as I would have others do to myself. For mere suspicion of this, I am separated from my wife and children, whom I cannot visit but at the hazard of being dragged as a felon into the land of manacles and bowie-knives.

This act of Gov. Wright, in this case, is the more remarkable on account of its juxtaposition to a case wherein a similar principle in respect to requisitions was involved. Not a year had elapsed since Gov. Wright had made a requisition on Gov. Powell, of Kentucky, for the delivery of a citizen of that State, who, on the soil of Indiana, had committed a crime against her laws. Gov. Powell promptly refused a compliance, on the ground that in Kentucky the offence charged was no crime. So much more sacred are the claims of Slavery than the claims of Freedom."

The doctrine of the Slave States, that their laws, extend over the free States, and that a man residing in Indiana can commit, in that State, an offence against the laws of Kentucky without setting foot within her territorial jurisdiction, is monstrous and infamous. An attempt was made to enforce it in 1836, when public sentiment was much less advanced than now, but it failed; and it would not acquire importance now had not the Governor of Indiana, by issuing the requisition for Mr. McCormick, acknowledged his belief in its propriety. It has, therefore, to be met again; and the sooner it is soothoroughly resisted the better for the safety of the free States. Under the sway of such a principle no man in the free States would be secure.

This case, in connection with that of Passmore Williamson, reveals to us the policy of the South and the necessity of Union to resist her arrogant demands. Under the ruling of Judge Kane, a slaveholder has the right to bring his slaves into any free State and hold them there; and now, under the construction given to the laws by Gov. Wright, the laws of Kentucky extend over the Union, and any Pennsylvanian may be demanded upon a requisition for a violation of them. Is it not time that the people of the North were looking about them to see where they stand, and to inquire if their rights are not worth defending?

ANOTHER FUSION.—The "straight" Whigs of New York, who recently held a sort of State Convention, and refused to unite with the Republican party because it was a "Fusion" party and because they could not support such democrats as Preston King and Abijah Mann, have resolved, it seems, to "fuse" with the "Soft" democrats and support the State ticket nominated by that faction. They have thus, in their hatred of "fusion" between Republicans and Whigs, resorted to a "fusion" of their own; and while objecting to support such anti-Nebraska democrats as were placed on the Republican ticket, have resolved to sustain a ticket which is democratic throughout.

How far such a disgraceful trick may succeed is yet a problem. Looking at it in the light of ordinary experience, it would seem almost impossible for the old-line Whigs to unite with the friends of the Pierce administration in behalf of a ticket pledged to the support of that administration and the Nebraska infamy; but in these days there is nothing improbable in such political combinations.

The motive at the bottom of this movement is hatred to Republican principles. The pro-slavery, union-saving Whigs cannot find rest in a party opposed to the extension of slavery, and they naturally seek out their proper affinities in the democratic ranks.

Thus, gradually but certainly, men are arraying themselves upon the only real question before the country. Those who are in favor of Slavery extension will attach themselves to the pro-slavery party, and those opposed will join the Republican party. These are destined to be the contending hosts in future battles, and all former political affinities will be forgotten. Any attempt to introduce other questions must and will fail until this issue is disposed of.

ST. LOUIS.—The city and county of St. Louis subscribed $700,000 to the Ohio and Mississippi railroad, which was paid in 5 per cent. bonds having twenty and twenty-five years to run. The Company accepted the subscription, sold the bonds, realized the money and spent it. The subscription was authorized by a special law of the Missouri legislature, but, some three days after its passage, another law was passed reducing into one the various acts for the charter of the city of St. Louis. In this law a section was adopted from a charter passed several years previous, which positively prohibited the city from subscribing to stock of the kind indicated. At the time of its adoption, the effect of this law was not perceived by any legislator or citizen of St. Louis, nor was it discovered until a long time afterwards. Recently, the city applied to the Court of Common Pleas for an Injunction to prevent the sale of the road under a judgment given to Page & Bacon; when the question was raised as to the power of the city to make the subscription, and the Court decided that the subscription was illegal and that the city was not, therefore, a stockholder in the road. So the whole $700,000 is swamped, absolutely lost. The city will have to pay the interest on the bonds and meet them at maturity, and in the meantime is deprived of all voice in the control of a road which she contributed so liberally to build.

Gov. REDER, we learn, passed through this city on Thursday on his way to Easton, Pa., the former place of his residence. He will remain at Easton until the meeting of Congress, when he will present himself as the Delegate of the real settlers of Kansas. He bears with him a large amount of documentary evidence to show the fraudulent character of the election of Whitfield, the interference in the affairs of Kansas by armed hordes from Missouri, and the actual preponderance in numbers of the free-State settlers over those in favor of the introduction of Slavery. The question of his admission to a seat in Congress will be one of the first exciting subjects of the approaching session, and it is probable that the organization of the House will hinge upon that issue.

The Convention to frame a Constitution for the State of Kansas assembled at Topeka on the day that Gov. Reeder left. It will accomplish its labors in time to put the Constitution it may frame before the people as an early day for their approval; and it will then be forwarded to Gov. Reeder for presentation to Congress. If the delegacyes and mere politicians of that body are wise they will accept eagerly this method of taking the Kansas question out of politics. But they will not do it.

PURE COD LIVER OIL.—This article as a medicine has grown into very general use, and it is consequently counterfeited by those who have less regard to honesty and human life, than a desire to make money. It becomes of great importance to know where a pure article can be obtained. This is furnished by J. C. Baker & Co. of Philadelphia, whose card appears in our columns to-day. Testimonials of the highest medical authority have been shown to us, averring the purity of the article put up and sold by this house.

We refer those of our readers who wish to consign Flour, Provisions, &c. to a good house in Philadelphia, to the card of S. S. Shriver & Co. This is a well established and safe house, and the gentlemen connected with it are most agreeable, prompt and gentlemanly men. We commend them to the patronage of our readers consigning to Philadelphia.

We are indebted to A. D. Bache, Esq., of the U. S. Coast Survey, for a copy of his annual report on the survey of the Coast line of the United States. The report indicates a vast amount of useful labor performed by the Commission of which he is the head, and the results of their labors are of the utmost value to the shipping interests of the country.

REINFORCEMENTS OF COL. WALKER.—The San Francisco Sun of the 21st says:

"The Nicaragua steamer yesterday took off a large number of young men to join Col. Walker's expedition at San Juan. It would be impossible to arrive at the exact force, as the reports about the city are very conflicting. Some say that as many as two hundred persons enrolled their names among the recruits. Others that they did not exceed eighty or ninety. We have been informed that Mr. Davison's County alone, enrolled from seventy to eighty names. Every effort was made to keep the movements of the party as quiet as possible, and several disinterested gentlemen were employed to draw their funds from the banking houses of the city, and to purchase tickets by the lot from the Agents of the Nicaragua Company, in order, as far as possible, to enable the real immigrants to elude suspicion."

CALIFORNIA.—San Francisco paper, inform us that Governor Bigler has determined to call an extra session of the State Legislature, to elect two United States Senators. This, however, is hardly probable. At the late election a new Legislature was chosen, in which the American party has a very large majority. There cannot be two Legislatures of the same State, and it is hardly supposable that the old Legislature could prolong its existence after its successors is elected. But in case it should be true, California will not loose much by it, as there is scarcely a preceptable difference between Gwin and Foote, except that the former is less of a sectional agitator than the latter.—Philadelphia North-American.

"A thing of beauty
Is a joy forever."

So sang the gifted poet Keats. What can be more beautiful than a fine head of Hair, the noblest of nature's adornments? Woo that in young, but values the luxuriant locks of youth, and would preserve them; and who that is old but would evert baldness. To all such we would commend LYON'S KATHAIRON, neither greasy nor sticky, but a most valuable and the most justly acknowledged to be the most valuable and the most delightfully perfumed toilet article ever prepared. Be sure and ask for LYON'S KATHAIRON, to guard against the valueless imitations and nonentities, which have lately been put up under somewhat similar names. Sold everywhere for only 25 cents per bottle.

Kendall's Double Acting Machine,
FOR RIVING AND SAWING SHINGLES.

THIS improvement is the result of long and extensive experience and is now presented to the public as the first and only practical machine extant, for rifting and shaving shingles.

Its operations are entirely dissimilar from every thing of the kind heretofore offered, and the combination and construction are wholly original with its inventor. It operates from the block, a saw blade which passes through two sets of knives complete the operation, thus producing two shingles every revolution. This machine will rive and shave three thousand shingles per hour, of uniform thickness and taper, and every way superior to those made by any other process. Not only is it adapted to pine and other soft wood, but works to equal advantage hard timber of various kinds. For right of Territory or Machine enquire at the City Hotel or at H. H. Speaking What They Know.

These gentlemen take pleasure in testifying in regard to B. A. Fahnestock's Vermifuge, because two of the firm have used it in their private practice as a physician for a number of years, and they have known it, by observation, to be good.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., July 4th, 1855.

To B. A. Fahnestock & Co.—

GENTLEMEN—Having sold your valuable Vermifuge for some time, and having seen it used for many years, we would recommend it to all as a safe and efficient remedy for all cases of worms. In no instance have we ever seen any evil results following its administration, but always has it answered the purpose for which it was intended, and been entirely satisfactory.

Believing that everything that has been set forth in regard to its virtues is strictly in accordance with our observations not only as practitioners, but as men of business, we would unhesitatingly say to all who read this, that if it the best Vermifuge now in use, and that its virtues are best known when tried.
