PLOWING BY STEAM.—The veteran inventor, Obed Hussey, to whom we believe, the honor of having invented the first effective Reaping and Mowing Machine belongs, is still at work. He has constructed a Steam Plowing Machine, which was tried at the late Fair of the Maryland Agricultural Society. The machine steamed to the field, a distance of 2½ miles. Arrived there, four large turf plows were attached to it, which it moved off, throwing up furrows each about fourteen inches deep. The Baltimore Commercial Advertiser says "the work was well done, and it was the opinion of many farmers present, that it was admirably adapted to the breaking up of prairie land." The Society awarded Mr. Hussey, for steam plow, the highest premium and a diploma. We hope yet to see the day when the soil shall be pulverized and cleaned by steam.—Country Gentleman.
