PITTSBURGH:

SATURDAY MORNING, AUG. 22, 1857.

READING MATTER ON EACH PAGE OF THIS PAPER.

HON. DAVID WILMOT,

The man whom PACKER was afraid to meet on the stump,

Will address the Citizens of Allegheny County, in Pittsburgh,

On Friday Night, August 28th.

☞ The people are urged to come and hear the great Champion of Freedom.

We have received from Hon. D. Ritchie the first (Mechanics) part of the Patent Office Report for 1856.

THE SUB-ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.—We acknowledge that as day succeeds to day, and as the time rapidly approaches for the arrival of the ships that bear the telegraphic cable, our suspense becomes painful, and we have no doubt our readers all sympathize with us. Such an event as the success of this enterprise would complete has no parallel in the world's history. It has no parallel whether we consider the nature of the enterprise or its importance to mankind. It is in some sort a declaration of man that his power is supreme over the lightning's of heaven and the waters of the mighty and unfathomed deep. We wait with longing for the glad news that shall proclaim, "all well," and in the meantime carefully glean all items of intelligence touching the matter from the English papers which are calculated to interest our kind readers. This first:

"The shore cable of the Atlantic Telegraph was successfully landed at Valentia on the evening of Wednesday, the 5th. The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland received it formally from the officers and men of the Niagara and Susquehanna, amidst general enthusiasm.

The following is a correct list of the eight steam vessels employed in connection with the laying down of the cable:

1. The U. S. steam frigate Niagara, Captain Hudson, to lay the half of the cable from Ireland.
2. The U. S. steam frigate Susquehanna, Captain Sands, to attend upon the Niagara.
3. The U. S. steamer Arctic, Captain Berryman, to make further soundings on the coast of Newfoundland.
4. The U. S. steamer Victoria, Captain Sluyter, to assist in landing the cable at Newfoundland.
5. H. M. steamer Agamemnon, Captain Noddal, to lay the half of the cable on the American side.
6. H. M. steamer Leopard, Wainwright, to attend upon the Agamemnon.
7. H. M. steamer Cyclops, Captain Dayman, to go ahead of the steamers and keep the course.
8. H. M. steamer Advice, Captain Raymond, to assist in landing the cable at Valentia.

A letter from Valentia, dated Aug. 3, says: "The machinery for paying out the cable works perfectly, and we can telegraph through the whole cable without the least difficulty. We expect to arrive at Newfoundland in about twenty days after leaving this place."

The London Post gives us an exceedingly interesting sketch of Valentia Bay and its surroundings which we are obliged to omit for the want of space. Then follows an account of the "fair women and brave men" from England, Scotland, Ireland and America, who, at a grand banquet given by Earl Kerry to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, celebrated the "beginning of the end" of this stupendous enterprise. Toasts were drunk in honor of all the leading men who had contributed to bring about the then present completion of the enterprise and also in honor of the Queen and the President of the United States. The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland responded to a toast in a brilliant speech in the course of which he said:

"In the very design and endeavor to establish the Atlantic telegraph there is almost enough of glory. It is true if it only be an attempt there would not be quite enough of profit. I hope that will come, too; but there is enough of public spirit, of love for science for our country, for the human race, almost to suffice in themselves. However, upon this rocky frontlet of Ireland, at all events, to-day we will propsume upon success. [Cheers.] We are about, either by this sundown or by to-morrow's dawn, to establish a new material link between the Old World and the new. [Hear, hear.] Moral links there have been—links of race, links of commerce, links of friendship, links of literature, links of glory; but this, our new link, instead of strengthening or fortifying the old ones, is to give a life and an intensity which they never had before. [Loud cheers.] I feel, gentlemen, that I shall best embody the sentiments which I am sure pervade this entire meeting—the sentiments most akin to this company and this hour, if, after having drunk the health of the gentle mistress of the British Islands, I now call upon you to drink, with congenial honors, to the lasting friendship of the British Islands and of America, and to the health and welfare of the President of the United States. [Loud and protracted cheering.]

"The toast having been duly honored,

"Dr. Palmer, of the Niagara, having been loudly called on, returned thanks for the manner in which the toast had been drunk.

These things happened in the afternoon and in the evening there was a grand display of fireworks. The ships with their wonderful freight having arrived, on WEDNESDAY, THE 5TH OF AUGUST, at 3 o'clock, it was decided that an effort should be made to land the cable at once. The process of uncoiling into the small boats commenced at 24, and the scene at this period was grand and exciting in the highest degree.

Valentia Bay was studded with innumerable small craft, decked with the gayest bunting—small boats flitted hither and thither, their occupants cheering enthusiastically as the work successfully progressed. The cable-boats were managed by the sailors of the Niagara and Susquehanna, and it was a well-designed compliment, and indicative of the future fraternization of the nations that the shore-rope was arranged to be presented at this side the Atlantic to the representative of the Queen, by the officers and men of the United States navy, and that at the other side British officers and sailors should make a similar presentation to the President of the great Republic.

"From the main land the operations were watched with intense interest. For several hours the Lord Lieutenant stood on the beach, surrounded by his staff and the directors of the railway and telegraph companies waiting the arrival of the cable, and when at length the American sailors jumped through the surge with the hawser to which it was attached, his Excellency was among the first to lay hold of it and pull it lustily to the shore. Indeed every one present seemed desirous of having a hand in the great work; and never before perhaps were there so many willing assistants at "the long pull the strong pull and the pull altogether."

"At 7½ o'clock the cable was hauled on shore and formal presentation was made of it to the Lord Lieutenant by Captain Pinnock, of the Susquehanna; his Excellency expressing a hope that the work so well begun would be carried to a satisfactory completion.

"Rev. Mr. Day, of Kenmore, then advanced, and pronounced a prayer, saying:

" " Overruly we pray Thee, every obstacle, and remove every difficulty, which would prevent us from succeeding in this important undertaking. Control the winds and the sea by Thy Almighty power, and grant us such favorable weather that we may be enabled to lay the cable safely and effectually. And may Thy hand of power and mercy be so acknowledged by all, that the language of every heart may be, 'Not unto us, Oh Lord, not unto us, but unto Thy name give glory,' that so Thy name may be hallowed and magnified in us and by us."

A PARTING WORD FROM THE LORD LIEUTENANT.—"His Excellency then addressed the assemblage. He said: "My American, English and Irish friends, I feel at such a moment as this that no language of mine can be becoming except that of prayer and praise. However, it is allowable to any human lips, though they have not been specially qualified for the office, to raise the ascription of 'Glory to God in the highest, on earth peace, good will to men.' [Cheers.] That, I believe, is the spirit in which this great work has been undertaken; and it is this reflection that encourages me to feel confident hopes of its final success. [Hear, hear, and loud cheers.] I believe that the great work now so happily begun will accomplish many great and noble purposes of trade, of national policy and of empire. [Hear.]. But there is only one view in which I will present it to those whom I have the pleasure to address. You are aware—you must know, some of you, from your own experience—that many of your dear friends and near relatives have left their native land to receive hospitable shelter in America. Well, then, I do not expect that all of you can understand the wondrous mechanism by which this great undertaking is to be carried on. But this, I think, you all of you understand—If you wished to communicate some piece of intelligence straightway to your relatives across the wide world of waters—if you wished to tell those whom you know it would interest in their heart of hearts, of a birth, or a marriage, or, alas, a death, among you, the little word, which we have now handed up to shore, will impart that tidings quicker than the flash of the lightning. [Loud cheers.] Let us indeed hope, let us pray that the hopes of those who have set on foot this great design, may be rewarded by its entire success [cheers] and let us hope, further, that this Atlantic cable will also in all future time, serve as an emblem of that strong cord of love which I trust will always unite the British Islands to the great continent of America. [Hear.] And you will join me in my fervent wish that the Giver of all Good, who has enabled some of his servants to discern so much of the working of the mighty laws by which he fills the universe, will further so bless this wonderful work, as to make it even more to serve the high purpose of the good of man and tend to His great glory. [Cheers.] And, now, all my friends, as there can be no project or undertaking which ought not to receive the approbation and applause of the people, will you join with me in giving three hearty cheers for it. [Loud cheering.] Three cheers are not enough for such—they are what we give on common occasions—and as it is for the success of the Atlantic Telegraph Cable, I must have at least one dozen cheers. [Loud and protracted cheering.]

Mr. Cyrus Field, the projector of this great work, responded in a speech, and the excitement of the occasion nearly overcame him. Thus the last stage of the Atlantic telegraph was inaugurated.

The London Times, of August 6, adds the following interesting facts:

"On Thursday morning at daybreak the Agamemnon came to moorings in Queenstown Harbor, at a distance of about a third of a mile from the United States frigate Niagara. Before noon one end of each cable was carried to the opposite ship, and so joined up as to form a continuous length of 2,500 miles, both ends of which were on board the Agamemnon. One end was then connected with the apparatus for transmitting the electric current, and on a sensitive galvanometer being attached to the other end the whole cable was tested from end to end, and found to be perfect.

As these operations had worn far into the night, the arrangements for attaching the recording instruments to indicate signals were left to be completed in the morning. The amount of electric power developed at the further end, and exhibited by Mr. Whitehouse's magneto-electrometer, amounted to an attractive force of 25 grains. As three grains are a sufficient force to record intelligible signals upon the receiving apparatus, it will be perceived that a considerable surplus of electric power remains, a convincing proof, if any were needed, at once of the perfect integrity of the cable, and no less of the careful adaptation of scientific means to the desired object.

On resuming the operations on Friday morning it was found that all communication was cut off, and after under-running the portions of cable laid out between the two ships it was ascertained that one had been completely severed by entanglement with the mooring chains during the time the Agamemnon was swinging with the tide, and that the other portion was so injured from the same cause as to be unfit for use.

During Friday the officers of the Company were engaged in releasing the broken wires and re-connecting the conductors.

On re-establishing communication between ship and ship the transmission of electric telegraph messages through the entire length of 2,500 miles was immediately commenced, and proceeded satisfactorily during the whole of Saturday."

HON. A. K. MCCLURE has been nominated for the legislature by the Republicans of Franklin county. We are glad to hear of it. If elected, as we trust he will be, his talents and excellent business capacity will render him one of the most useful members of the House.

THE GUBERNATORIAL ELECTION.—On yesterday we received the official vote in one or two additional counties, and corrected as well as reliable returns from some others. They are all incorporated in our table. By the footings of the two columns, Rollins now has just 300 majority over Stewart, with the counties of Butler, Ripley, and Shannon to hear from. If our reports from unofficial sources prove true, we feel convinced that Major Rollins will be found to be elected; if our sure hopes in regard to the counties of Dent and Texas are confirmed, he will have quite a margin to go upon. What frauds the nullifiers may have still under the rose, of course we cannot predict; but we do reiterate the belief we have expressed all along, and say that without fraud we believe Rollins will not be defeated.—St. Louis Dem., Friday.

ATCHISON ENCOURAGED.—Some time ago Atchison was represented as giving up Kansas to the people as a free State. Now, however, the progress of the Buchanan and Walker "pacification" has been so shrewdly managed in the slavery interest, that he feels encouraged to expect that she will be made a slave state. As is his wont, he goes further than is necessary, or any one believes, and says a large majority of the voters are pro-slavery men. The men who have succeeded Atchison in engineering this fraud, do not pretend this; they tickle the people by telling them privately that Kansas must be a free State anyhow, and then plot to cheat them out of it.

THE SUICIDE ON THE GERMANTOWN RAILROAD.—A man named Miller, residing at Germantown, called upon the Coroner, and identified the body as the remains of his sister, Ann Grace Miller, twenty ten years of age. She resided with her mother, at Washington lane and the township line, Germantown. For some time past she had been laboring under a depression of mind, and had left her place of residence yesterday morning, as is supposed, between the hours of two and four o'clock. From a statement previously made, it was evident that suicide had been premeditated, and in the manner in which it occurred.—Phila. Bulletin.

THE following concluding lines of the poem "Nothing to Wear," are really fine, and will compensate for much in the poem which is really possessed of but small merit:

"And oh, if perchance, there should be a sphere,
Where all is made right which so puzzles us here,
Where the jars and the jolts and the ruts of Time
Fade and die in the light of that region sublime,
Where the soul, disenthralled of flesh and of sense,
Unencumbered by those who have been cursed by its presence,
Must be clothed for the life and the service above,
With purity, truth, faith, meekness and love,
Oh, daughters of Earth! foolish virgins, beware!
Lest in that upper realm you have nothing to wear!

A BRANCH railroad is projected from Corsicana to Ellensburg. The Ellensburg Democrats says: "Several of the most influential and wealthy citizens of that place intend visiting Philadelphia shortly, for the purpose of calling on the president of the company, and completing the arrangements for the business. The project is by no means a visionary one. If the matter is once taken in hand in earnest, from fifty to seventy thousand dollars in stock will be taken in this place and vicinity. The road is constructed, will pay as well, if not better, than the Indiana branch, and will not be so expensive to construct."

KNOWS WHERE HE IS.—A letter was received at this office on Monday night last, from a prominent policeman at Pittsburgh, making inquiry in reference to the validity of the rewards offered for the arrest of Pratt, the murderer of Halloran. He stated that he had spent some forty dollars in ferreting out the hiding place of Pratt—knew where he was, and would proceed to have him arrested, as soon as advised of the satisfactory character of the rewards.—Steub. Herald.

WHAT THEY THINK OF IT.—Some of the recently returned filibusters are using hard language when speaking of Walker. One of these publishes a letter, in which he calls the "grayeyed" man a pirate and a robber. Well, what were his followers? They knew the business he was engaged in, and they voluntarily joined him. Without their assistance he could not have accomplished his piracies.—Phila. Ledger.

THE SEASON IN ENGLAND.—The London correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser says: "The summer continues without a single day of cloud or rain, and the harvest is everywhere being secured in the most splendid order."

MATTERS AND THINGS IN CALIFORNIA.—Among the active leaders in the California State Convention that nominated John B. Weller for Governor, were Ned McGowan, the murderer, James M. Estell, late of the State prison, and Herbert, late member of Congress, the assassin of Mr. Keating, the Irish waiter at Willard's Hotel in Washington.

A CHARITY sermon was once commenced by a Dean of St. Paul's as follows: "Benevolence is a sentiment common to human nature. A never sees B in distress without wishing C to relieve him.

A MR. GERR, of Summit, while trading at a store in Meadville on Tuesday last, laid his pocket-book containing some $150 00 on the counter, and stepped to the door, whither his attention was called, and on turning round discovered his money was gone. Stanton Miller, of Summerhill, was seized at once and the money found upon his person.

THE ticket of the friends of freedom in Snyder county nominated on the 10th inst., is as follows:

Assembly, Hon. Daniel Witmer; Commissioner, Musser; Treasurer, R. W. Kern; Auditors, Ner Middleswarth, Daniel Rohrer.

Representative Conferees—Chas. G. Vernon, H. J. G. Herrold, Capt. John Hehn.

THE Lancaster Herald is informed that the potato rot prevails extensively in some of the eastern township of that county. It has only been discovered within a few days, and what extent of country is affected by the disease is as yet unknown.

Literary and Religious.

THE North Church, Chicago, has invited Dr. Rice of St. Louis, to become their pastor. He has paid them a visit, and is expected to accede to their wishes.

At the commencement exercises of Amherst College, last week, the address of the Alumni was delivered by the Hon. Galusha A. Grow, of Pennsylvania; and the address before the Social Union, by the Hon. Anson Burlingame, of Massachusetts. At the meeting of the Alumni the Hon. Samuel Williston, of East Hampton, proposed to give $15,000 for the erection of an Alumni Hall, on condition that the Alumni contribute a like sum in aid of the library; $11,000 of this sum have been already secured. The Rev. Daniel W. Poor, D. D., pastor of the High Street Presbyterian church, Newark, N. J., of the class of 1827, was elected Professor of Latin.

The American Home Missionary Society have just appointed five missionaries for Kansas, in addition to those already in the field; four of them from the last senior class at Andover, and one a German, to labor among his countrymen around Humboldt, seventy-five miles south of Lawrence.

THE Alumni of Andover, Mass., have completed a neat and tasteful monument to the late Leonard Woods, D. D., at a cost of $558,88.

BROWNSON is again restive. He has been in the bosom of the Roman Catholic Church about 13 years. He had previously belonged to several Protestant socts. In the last number of his Quarterly, he has a severe article on the bigotry, narrowness and intolerance of the American Catholic press, and, also, upon the Roman Clergy of France, for their unprincipled support and fulsome adulation of Louis Napoleon.

The Congregationalists of Massachusetts have 350 pastors, and 60 stated supplies. There are 150 ministers reported without pastoral charge—making 560 clergymen in all. These churches have a male membership of 21,057; a female of 45,548; total 67,656—an average of 143 to each church.

THE M. E. Church of the Clearfield and Curwensville charge, will hold a Camp Meeting near Allman's, midway between Clearfield and Curwensville, commencing on Friday, September 4th.

The Camp Meeting of New Washington circuit will commence on the 11th September, at New Millport.

THE Free Presbytery of Mahoning is to meet at Darlington on the first Wednesday of September.

THE New Church of the Baptists in Clearfield is progressing in its construction and will soon finished.

DR. KEYSER'S SHOULDER BRACES.—From Pittsburgh Dispatch, April 10th, 1856.—For more than 3 years past we have constantly worn the Washington Shoulder Brace, manufactured by Dr. Geo. H. Keyser, of No. 140 Wood street, in this city, and would heartly recommend it to all who are compelled to follow a sedentary occupation. As we have before remarked, in calling attention to its merits, it answers for a brace and suspenders, the weight of the pantaloons being so placed as to continually tend to bring the shoulders to their natural position and expand the chest. Women, hundreds of whom are annually injured by the weight of enormous "skirts," should also procure these braces. Be particular in procuring the kind mentioned, as many of the braces sold are humbugs. Sold at Dr. GEO. H. KEYSER'S, Wholesale Druggist, 140 Wood street, sign of the Golden Mortar. je26:6kwrF

A RETIRED PHYSICIAN

Whose sanatory pills have nearly run out, discovered while in the East Indies, a certain cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and General Debility. The remedy was discovered by him when his only child, a daughter, was given up to die. He had heard much of the wonderful recovery and healthy qualities of preparations made from the East India Hemp, and the thought occurred to him that he might make a remedy for himself. He studied hard and succeeded in realizing his wishes. His child was cured, and is now alive and well. He has since administered the wonderful remedy to thousands of sufferers in all parts of the world, and has never failed in making them completely healthy, and happy. Wishing to do as much good as possible, he will send to each of his afflicted fellow-beings who request it, this receipt, with full and explicit directions for making it up, and successfully using it. He requires each applicant to enclose him one shilling—three cents to be returned as postage on the receipt, and the remainder to be applied to the payment of this advertisement.

N. B.—Dr. H. James has neither office nor agent in New York, as some have pretended and advertised. The receipt is sent from no place but No. 19, Grand street, Jersey city, New Jersey. je22:4kwSmwF
