Our Portrait Gallery.

In the arrangement, style and finish of our Portrait Gallery we, as genuine artists, must have an eye to the judicious disposition of the different characters portrayed, so that each shall occupy his appropriate niche; critically observing also the laws of lights and shade, as quite as much commendation is due to a correct conception of these adjuncts of art as to the fidelity of the limner's pencil.

A few days ago we added to our extensive collection the rubicund phiz of Col. James Augustus Gibson, which we are happy to state has been greatly admired as a specimen of our skill. We trust we shall be thought equally successful by a discerning public with the subject of this sketch, THOMAS WILLIAMS, Esquire, Attorney at Law, or as he is familiarly called for short, Tom Williams.

Mr. Williams, as Jefferson Brick, Esq., would triumphantly exclaim, "is one of the most remarkable men of our country." Indeed he announced himself to the astonished denizens of the town of Butler, a night or two since, as the "new Moses, who would lead the people safely through the wilderness if they would but follow him!" The apparition of a "new Moses" among them, even if an imposter or bogus "Moses," must have startled the inhabitants of that ancient and renowned Borough no little. We have in our time heard and read of men subject to strange phantasies and chimeras. Midshipman Easy's paternal ancestor was somewhat of a hypochondriac and fancied himself a Maltese Jack and brayed terribly—another personage we recall who was firm in the belief that he was His Imperial Highness, the Prince of Darkness—but this "new Moses" conceit rather throws all such ordinary madmen in the shade. We are free to confess, however, that there are some strong points of resemblance between this Gentile philosopher and his ancient Hebrew prototype. Moses of the earlier age failed to reach the promised land—the blissful and happy Canaan to which he journeyed—a like unhappy fate, we are slightly apprehensive, awaits the "new Moses" in his present march to the Capitol. He of the old-time era, as we learn from authentic sources, was vouchsafed a free passage over the Red Sea—our modern deliverer wisely eschewing marine risks, has his "Free Pass" on the latter-day Railroads.

To rare prophetic power this learned Doctor of Laws adds a romantic and irresistible passion for the ancient classics. Herodotus, Hesiod, Homer and Xenophon—(jolly old souls in their day, no doubt)—we are led to infer, are the closest companions of our Thomas. The bare idea of having to abandon the cherished society of such congenial spirits for contact with "the scraplings of the streets," and itinerant speech-making to base born lackeys and peasants, must be revolting to his cultivated mind. It will doubtless prove a source of grief and anguish to the savans of our age that this wonderful genius has been dragged by his importunate fellow-citizens from his classic retreat and the "study of things hidden from the unlearned and common mind." Who can tell what progress he might have made, if left alone, in recondite learning, or what has been lost to the world of letters by his being forced to run for Congress on his own hook in the XXIId district? Posterity will scarce forgive us for this immolation of the "new Moses" of the 19th century on the altar of "anti-tax." Let us, however, make the poor atonement in our power. We have, on consultation with many learned and erudite professors and Mandarins, including the ostensible editor of the True Press, and Colonel James Augustus Gibson, hit upon an expedient to enable our Thomas to continue his literary labors to a limited extent. Let an evening each week be set apart when he shall lay aside his trenchant "anti-tax" claymore and resume his wonted contemplation of the classics. Instead of his anti-tax harangue from the stump let us have something fresh from the Academic grove. Let Thomas apprise us how he himself loves to "contemplate" the classics—whether in a standing, sitting or lying posture—and how they appear through the artificial medium of a microscope or telescope. We would suggest, as a charitable feature of the entertainment, a grafulious exhibition of those things of which he so mysteriously speaks, which are "hidden from the unlearned and common mind." Readings from "My Review," after the manner of Fanny Kemble's recitations of Hiawatha, or Murdock's Hamlet, would form an agreeable episode.

To crown all his varied acquirements our "new Moses" is a kind of oratorical gymnast—a regular adept in rhetorical calisthenics. He does not hesitate to assert that, by his persuasive eloquence "he can carry any American audience he ever saw." What he might do with a Hibernian or Teutonic auditory we have yet to learn. We have a profound respect for Herr Kist, the man who can break solid rocks with his naked fist—we reverence the modern Hercules who can bend a bar of iron with a stroke of his good right arm—but we bow in adoration before the genius of that man who can "carry any American audience he ever saw." They are often hard to manage and still more difficult to carry; but nothing is impossible, it would seem. We respectfully but earnestly caution any "American audience" Mr. Williams may think proper to address in this county, against being carried away by him; as it is more than probable they would be borne through fields of upper air into some other district, where they would be out of the way.

Our space does not admit of our enumerating other idiosyncrasies of the "new Moses." We reserve for a future number the finishing strokes to this picture.

GEN. J. K. MOORHEAD.

The True Press of Wednesday morning contained a malignant attack upon this gentleman under the caption of "James K. Moorhead's Looking Glass." The fellow who got up this Magnifying Mirror for the use of the inmates of the Private Mad House, had better turn his attention from the manufacture of such "Looking Glasses" to some business for which he is better adapted. He is a poor bungler at his trade, and withal a most infamous liar.

Pittsburgh possesses few men of greater enterprise, liberality and public spirit than Gen. JAMES K. MOORHEAD. He has been identified, as our citizens full well know, with the manufacturing and commercial interests of our city and county for the greater portion of his life. A high order of business talents well directed, united to that perseverance which ever triumphs over seeming difficulties, has crowned the meridian of his manhood with a generous competence. Commencing life himself a mechanic, poor in this world's goods, he has risen by his own unaided effort to his present position, and his success merits and receives the commendation of all, save those who "hate that excellence they cannot reach." Nor is any portion of Gen. Moorhead's moderate fortune due to habits of piddling parsimony or penuriousness—still less to exaction or oppression of those he employs. His bounteous and benevolent nature would revolt from miserly avarice or petty meanness; while more than one of his employees in Allegheny County, who have been fostered and aided in their first outset in life by his liberal hand, will proclaim by their votes, their opinion of the base calumnies that are now circulated against him. The present furnishes but another instance where malice, hatred, detraction and envy assail with envenomed tooth those who have risen superior to their fellows. The article in the True Press in reference to Gen. Moorhead, of which we have spoken, bears the infernal impress of all these furies as well as the brazen stamp of falsehood. The assassin of private reputation who for any purpose would utter such infamous falsehoods as the following, deserves the execration of his fellow men and a fate more ignominious than that of the convicted felon. Speaking of the "ten hour law" the True Press says:

"Did Mr. Moorhead as a good citizen obey this law? No! But like a remorseless monster he discharged those who would not sign private contracts to work as formerly and turned them out to starve in the dead of winter. * * * *

"At night they might be seen returning home, across the aqueduct, haggard and pale, the ghastly pictures of famine and despair."

The True Press goes on to charge that Gen. Moorhead had three operatives indicted for "Conspiracy." Hear it!!

"What did Moorhead then do? Why, he indicted them for conspiracy, and by the power of his money, in feeing able counsel, he had them convicted and incarcerated in the County Jail! The cries of weeping mothers, the sobs and beatings of gray-haired fathers, the frantic screams of the girls themselves, and the cry of shame uttered by ten thousand lips, could not penetrate or melt his stony heart."

These extracts will answer as specimen bricks of the whole article referred to. We ask the candid reader to peruse the subjoined letter from the owners of the mills who are cognizant of the circumstances, and then form their estimate of the truthfulness of the charges made by the True Press against Gen. Moorhead. We may as well here premise however that the Cotton Factory Operatives were never indicted for "Conspiracy" as charged by this mendacious press, but for "Riot," and that Gen. Moorhead was in no way connected in that prosecution or in any other, as appears from the judicial records and the annexed letter. Nor did he in any way resist or oppose the Ten Hour Law.—The manufactory in which he has been ever since engaged, has been conducted upon the Ten Hour principle ever since his connection with it, and that law has no warmer friend than Gen. Moorhead. Read:

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 29, 1858.

To Messrs. King, Pennock & Co., Eagle Cotton Mills; Kennedy, Childs & Co., Penn Cotton Mills; Wm. Blackstock, Anchor Cotton Mills; Pollard M'Cormick, Hope Cotton Mills; Parke, Painter & Co., Banner Cotton Mills.

GENTLEMEN: An article appeared in yesterday's True Press so full of falsehood with regard to myself and the prosecution of Cotton Factories, that I would thank you for a brief statement of what you know to be facts in the case. Respectfully yours,

J. K. MOORHEAD.

ALLEGHENY, Oct. 1st, 1858.

GEN. J. K. MOORHEAD—Sir: We have received your note of yesterday, requesting us, as cotton mill proprietors, cotemporary with yourself, to state briefly what we know of the facts referred to in an article under the editorial head of the True Press of the 29th ult. We say in reply:

The "ten hour law" was passed in 1848, to go into effect in July of that year. All the cotton mill owners in this county were willing to adopt the ten hour system simultaneously with the mills in other manufacturing States, with whom they had to compete for the Western market. They were always willing to nationalize, and opposed to localizing a reduction of hours, believing that to do so would be destructive to the cotton mill investments in Pennsylvania; and that it was both unjust and impolitic for the legislature to impose the whole burden of reform upon the citizens and capital of Pennsylvania.

The mill-owners, yourself included, decided not to attempt to run their mills under the law, and stopped them—not in the "dead of winter"—but on the 1st day of July, 1848. They remained idle until September, 1848, when it was thought best, by all the proprietors, yourself included, to test the ten hour system experimentally; work was resumed at ten hours, and continued through the remainder of 1848, all of 1849, and until Nov. 1850. It was in March, 1849, that the Union Factory, of Moorhead, Childs & Co., the only one in which you were ever concerned, was destroyed by fire. So that it will be seen that your mill never run more than ten hours after the passage of that law, but was engaged with the others in a faithful, albeit and expensive and fruitless effort to make simple interest on our capital.

The operatives of Steam Mills generally, work from seventy-two to seventy-eight hours per week, while ours were required by the law to run but sixty hours. It was folly to try—but the experiment was faithfully tried, and demonstrated to be impracticable.

Except a few small girls employed as doffers (apprentices preparing to become spinners) the wages of females—full hands—were from $2,25 to $4,00 per week. And no attempt was ever made by you, or other proprietors, to reduce these rates, except during the experiment of the "ten hour system," when the amount, but not the rate of wages, was slightly reduced.

The difficulties with the mob and the operatives acting with them, alluded to in the True Press, didn't occur at yours but at another establishment with which you had no concern; nor were you a party to any of the suits that grew out of that transaction, nor to any prosecutions for conspiracy—as charged in the Press, as the judicial records will doubtless show.

It sufficiently appears from what is already said, that the statement that your consent to adopt the ten hour law, was withheld, while the other mill owners consented, is not true either in letter or spirit.

Respectfully yours,

THE FATAL PRIZE FIGHT IN NEW HAVEN.—Of the fatal prize fight between two Englishmen at New Haven last week, the N. O. Bulletin gives the testimony of the only witness as follows:

I expected Metcalf would go down with us to see fair play, but he did not; we went to the field, and they pulled off their coats; Mercer struck first, and the first round Houston was down; also in the second, third, and Mercer said, "A few rounds will fix you;" on the third round Mercer fell, but he got up again, and on the fourth round Houston was down; on the fifth after several blows, the last a light one, Mercer fell, and did not get up again; we went to him and I raised him up and laid him on my knee, and Houston said, I think he is dead, go and fetch Metcalf; I'll stop here;" I left the body and waked Metcaf, and told him Mercer was dead; the moon was shining during the fight, and no weapons were used; Mercer staggered and fell after the last blow.

THE RECAPTURED AFRICANS.—Concerning the recaptured Africans of the slaver Putnam, the N. Y. Journal of Commerce says that, upon arriving at their destination, the negroes will not all be landed at one place, but distributed in small detachments at several points along the coast, whence they will be sent off to the receptacles for newly arrived emigrants recently prepared at Carysburg, and other salubrious points for settlement in the interior. As it is not probable that more than three weeks will be consumed in reaching the African coast, the negroes will have been absent from home about three months; a period so brief that they will not be liable to climate fevers. During the voyage they will occupy the spar deck of the frigate, so lately filled by the telegraphic cable, and be served with food, and sleep on blankets on the deck, as is customary with lower class passengers.

HEAVY DEFALCATION.—The failure of White, Smith & Co., of Northampton Mass., manufacturers of enameled cloth, is announced. The Republican of that place says it was brought about by the alleged defalcation of their selling agent in New York, Mr. Damon, whose delinquencies are estimated all the way from thirty to seventy-five thousand dollars. The firm possessed the confidence of the community and many citizens had invested in its notes. Some had thus put out all or nearly all of their means, and the failure overtakes them with great distress. It is calculated that the concern owes citizens of Northampton about $40,000 for money loaned or for endorsement, for which none of them have any security. Mr. Damon is in jail at Northampton.

ENGLISH RAILROADS.—A meeting of English Directors, representing a combined capital of seven hundred and fifty millions of dollars, was held in London on the 10th instant, at which it was resolved that the rates and fares on the several railways of the kingdom should be so fixed as to realize the largest amount of net profits, due regard being had to the interests of the public; the settlement of all disputes between railroad companies by arbitration, instead of by law and ruinous competition, and that where two or more routes exist between any two points the rates, fares, and charges between such points shall be equal. The railroads of the United States might receive a useful hint from these proceedings.

A SILENT PRINTING OFFICE.—In the town of Zabingen, Wurtemburg, there has been lately opened a new printing establishment by M. Theodore Helgerald. All the compositors and pressman are deaf and dumb, to the number of one hundred and sixty: eleven of the former are women.

APPROACH OF WINTER IN EUROPE.—The Gazette de Lyons announces that snow has fallen on the Alps several times during the first week of September. The snow is now five feet deep in the Valley of Urselen, under St. Gothard.

From the returns of the census of Texas, now nearly completed, it is ascertained that its population will not fall short of [illegible] fifty thousand.

THOSE WHO HAVE USED IT.—Among the many testimonials in favor of the effects of Boerhave's Holland Bitters, we offer the names of the following, many of them well-known in this city:

James Colvin, of South Pittsburgh, says: "It is certainly a valuable medicine; it cured me of Dyspepsia."

Captain Henry Eaton says: "It cured my wife of Neuralgia."

J. A. Von Bonnhorst says: "I never met with so speedy a remedy for acidity of the stomach."

Henrich Paulus says: "It cured me of a severe chronic diarhoea in two days."

Samuel Woodruff, of Athens, Ohio, says: "When I commenced using your medicine I was so prostrated that I could not walk across my farm; after using ONE BOTTLE I can eat any thing.

CAUTION!—Be careful to ask for Boerhave's Holland Bitters. The great popularity of this medicine has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing.

FAMILY
SEWING MACHINES.
GROVER & BAKER'S.
The first place in public estimation is now justly accorded to the GROVER & BAKER'S MACHINE, for family sewing for the following reasons:
1st.—It is MORE SIMPLE and EASILY KEPT IN ORDER than any other machine.
2d.—It makes a seam which will not RIP or RAVEL though every third stitch is cut.
3d.—It sews from ordinary spools, and thus all trouble of winding thread is avoided, while the same Machine can be adapted, at pleasure, by a mere change of spools, to all varieties of work.
4th.—The same Machine runs silk, linen thread and common spool cotton, with equal facility.
5th.—The seam is as elastic as the most elastic fabric, so that it is free from all LIABILITY, to BREAK in WASHING, IRONING or otherwise.
6th.—The stitch made by this Machine is more BEAUTIFUL than any other made, either by hand or machine.

WARS FOR SLAVERY.

EXILES OF FLORIDA,
BY
JOSHUA R. GIDDINGS.
1 VOL. 12MO. PRICE $1.

This volume is one of Historical truths, and expresses to our view what has been done by the SLAVE POWER.

Read the following letter written by
HON. J. K. MOORHEAD,
OF PENNSYLVANIA.

MESSRS. FOLLETT, FOSTER & CO:
Gentlemen: I thank you for a copy of Mr. Giddings' "Exiles of Florida." It is a dark chapter in the history of our country, and proves conclusively that the blood, treasure and honor of our nation have been sacrificed at the bidding of the slave power. I trust that a brighter era is dawning, and that hereafter the aggressions of the South will be resisted, and the protection of free labor manfully sustained.
Respectfully, yours,
Pittsburgh, July 17, 1858. J. K. MOORHEAD.
