COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS.—Monday morning, the time fixed for the charge of the Court in the kidnapping case, the Court room was crowded. The charge of the Court was quite lengthy, and we can only give an outline of the important points. Judge McClure started out with remarks showing the jury that they were in duty bound to divest themselves of all the trammels of public opinion. As for himself, the Judge quoted,

"I would not have a slave to till my land,
To carry me, to fan me when I sleep, and tremble when I wake;
For all the wealth that sinews bought or sold have ever earned."

But the Court and jury were not acting as citizens, but as men sworn to administer the law. "It is no injustice or departure from judicial decorum to say that from the testimony, if you believe it, the prisoner's intentions were brutal and inhuman. I say intentions, not acts." But if the offence charged is not established by testimony, he is not guilty, whatever else he may be guilty of, outside the indictment. The strictness required in criminal pleading is occasionally the subject of complaint; but this, the Legislature has the power to amend. The prisoner was indicted under the Act to prevent and punish kidnapping. The Act of Assembly sets forth various substantive and distinct offences, under the provisions of which the penalty is aimed; for example:

1st. By force and violence to take and carry away.

2d. To cause by force and violence to be taken and carried away.

3d. By fraud or false pretence to entice or cause to be enticed.

4th. An attempt to take and carry away by enticement, fraud or false pretence.

5th. An attempt to entice.

Either of these are offences punishable under the Act.

There are six counts in the indictment, and each count charges a distinct offence. The Court then goes on to explain the necessity for these different counts, and particular reference is had to the statement in each count as to Ferris being "a free mulatto" and "a citizen of Pennsylvania." Reference is then had as to whether the design of Shaw towards Ferris would come under this Act.

Counts first and second, which charge force and violence alone, are not adapted to the evidence, and on these the prisoner is entitled to acquittal.

"For any act done in Missouri or elsewhere out of the State of Pennsylvania, this Court has no jurisdiction."

The Court then refers to the Act of 1847, under which the prisoner is tried, which repeals the Act of 1826, and makes it necessary that the person abducted or enticed away shall be a free negro or mulatto. Each count of the indictment is framed in accordance with this. The Court then refers to the requirements of the law, that as the indictment avers that the prisoner committed the offence against a free negro or mulatto, it is incumbent on the Commonwealth to prove it.

In Pennsylvania, the presumption is that every human being is free. In the Northern and Southern States the presumption is diametrically opposite. There is also another presumption, which is, that a prisoner is innocent until he is proved guilty.

Slavery is a local institution, depending on municipal regulations. If a person held as a slave in one place go to another where slavery is not tolerated, he is free. This would be the case here, if the United States had made no provisions on the subject. The Court then refers to the provision in the Constitution of the United States, referring to fugitives from service or labor. There had been a great deal said by counsel about foreign powers, etc. The States are foreign powers in one sense and in another they are not. In the ordinary sense, they are the same—the same offspring, and governed by the same laws—members of one common body politic. They are separate and distinct, and are one and inseparable. They are distinct as the billows and one as the sea.

Penal statutes must be taken strictly. It is a well-settled general rule that in indictments for criminal offences, under a statute, the words must be in the language of the statute.

If any owner pursues a fugitive from labor, under form of law, he must prove him a slave. The burden of the proof lies on the claimant, because the presumption is that he is free. Reference was made to the decision of the Courts that the Act of Assembly of 1826, (which made it a misdemeanor to abduct a man, whether free or slave,) was unconstitutional, and Judge McClure went on to say:—If in a criminal prosecution, the presumption of freedom is proof, then there is no difference between the statute of '26 and that of '47. The gist of the offence in this case is the abduction of a free mulatto. If the jury believe, from the testimony, that Ferris was not a free negro or mulatto, they cannot convict the defendant. If they believe otherwise, they must consider whether the evidence shows him to be guilty under any count of the indictment. The Court then draws a clear distinction between intention and attempt. To constitute an attempt, acts are necessary; and where a man discloses an intention, and his actions correspond with his intention, it is fair to presume that his actions are the offspring of his intention. It is for the jury to judge whether the acts of the defendant were in accordance with any count of the indictment. An attempt to entice or carry away is a violation of the statute, but an unsuccessful attempt to induce another to entice, does not come within the statute. Under the common law counts of the indictment, if the jury believe Ferris is a white man, these counts apply to the case. If they believe Ferris is not a white man, and not a free negro or mulatto, then the prisoner is not guilty, because it has been decided that capture is not kidnapping.

Mr. Swartzwelder asked the Court to charge as follows, but afterwards withdrew the request: That the jury could bring in a special verdict, stating certain facts which are proven, and the Court would decide whether, under those facts, the offence is made out. The jury then retired, and after a short absence, returned with a verdict that the defendant was guilty, under the third, fourth, fifth and sixth counts of the indictment, and not guilty on the other two.

Mr. Swartzwelder made a motion for a new trial and in arrest of judgment, stating that he would file his reasons soon.

Com. vs. Ann McVarren; surety of the peace, on oath of Jane Madison. Prosecutor not present, and ordered to pay the costs.

Com. vs. John Forrester; surety of the peace, on oath of his wife. The parties reside in Temperanceville, and defendant was charged with abusing his wife at different times. Ordered to pay costs, and process issued to compel him to give security to keep the peace.

Com. vs. James R. Enzyre; indictment selling liquor without license. Moon township. Verdict not guilty.

Com. vs. Robert Buck and Benj. Lee, (colored;) charge of burglary. Grand Jury ignored the bills, and parties discharged.

Com. vs. Milton B. Kline and Joseph B. Kline. The defendants are mere lads, charged with taking fruit, etc., from the place of Lydia B. Knight, a widow living at Braddock's Field. Verdict not guilty but defendants to pay costs.

Com. vs. John Taylor and John McLaughlin; indictment assault and battery with intent to kill. Defendants reside at the Point, and our readers will recollect that Taylor is charged with having, on Friday night last, gone home and, without provocation, knocked his wife down, kicked and beat her, and abused her outrageously. McLaughlin was present, and, as Mrs. T. swears, when she asked him to protect her, he said she deserved what she got. There was no defence, and a verdict of guilty was rendered, with a recommendation to mercy of the Court.

Com. vs. John Rimmel; a trifling assault and battery case. Parties live in Allegheny city. Verdict not guilty, and prosecutrix, Catharine Cable, ordered to pay costs.

Henrietta Huston, charged with larceny, and Rachel Willoughby, charged with a scandalous offence, were discharged, the Grand Jury having ignored the bills. Court adjourned.

THE CASE OF SHAW.—This case, which has passed through all the just forms of a trial in our Court before a full bench and in the presence of a vast crowd of spectators, reached its end yesterday, and Shaw met the stern verdict of his fellow citizens—a verdict as righteous as was ever uttered—Guilty. This will excite much adverse criticism doubtless among men who would hire Shaw for so much money, in hand paid, to steal a man away from his wife, and to rob a man who was earning an honest living, of himself. The law was made for crushing just such creatures as that Shaw. He is worse in society than a pestilence. Does any one imagine that if any slaveholder in Alabama were to send him $500 to steal him a man and deliver him, that Shaw would wait to inquire whether the man he could get, had ever been a slave? The fact that Ferris had been a slave, if it were a fact, did not in the least palliate Shaw's crime. There is a most odious law on the statute books by which he might have robbed Ferris of himself and been held blameless. Not choosing to shield himself even behind that, he has met a kidnapper's reward, and will doubtless receive at the hands of a just judge, the punishment which a crime so base deserves.

ENTERPRISING.—We chronicle the honest effort of our erratic friend, A. O. McGraw, of this city, to reach the modern El Dorado, "Pike's Peak." Mr. McG. left this city some two weeks ago, to ascertain for himself the truth of the rumors in regard to the gold yield of the region of country in question. He procured a through ticket for St. Louis from Mr. Knowland, and traveled thence to Kansas City by steamer. We have a letter from him, dated at Kansas City, waiting on room, in which he details his adventures en route. We have now before us a copy of the Kansas City Journal of Commerce, dated 5th inst., from which we learn that McGrew left that city on the 6th inst., solitary and alone; taking his entire outfit of blankets, provisions, pick and shovel, gun and ammunition, in a wheelbarrow! We further learn that, between Kansas City and Westport, McGrew was overtaken by J. C. McCoy, of the former place, who was then getting up a party for the Peak, and desired him to wait and form one of the company. McGrew thanked him for his kindness, but declined the proposition on the ground of great haste, fearing that he might get caught in the snow if he waited on a company sided by oxen. It is strange, yet true; one of our fellow citizens is now trundling the barrow which contains the burden of his earthly goods, over the great Western plains, amongst Indians, buffaloes, &c. The route to be traversed is over six hundred miles.

THE Morgantown papers state that the body which was recently found in the Monongahela river, below big Whitely Creek, has been identified as the body of Benjamin Gapen, son of Lewis Gapen, formerly of Monongalia county, Va. Mr. Gapen, at the time of his disappearance, had started from his native county with a considerable amount of money in his pocket, for his home in Wisconsin. A man named Collins has been arrested, and is now in jail in Waynesburg, Green Co., on suspicion of being the murderer.

THE U. S. District Court commenced its session in this city yesterday, Hon. Judge Irwin presiding. The recognizances of Levi Young, charged with robbing the mail in Somerset Co., were forfeited, (he not appearing,) and a process for him issued. The names of the Grand and Traverse jurors were called over, and but few of the former being present, no business was done. The Court adjourned till to-day, when the case of James Henderson, charged with mail robbery in this county, will probably come up.

ACCIDENTS.—John Carr, watchman at the new Presbyterian church building, on Penn street, received a very severe contusion on the head, by a fall, on Saturday.

The horse of Mr. Charles Goehring, of Allegheny city, ran off, on Saturday, and overturned his vehicle. Mrs. G. had her jaw-bone fractured, and Mr. G. received several severe bruises.

THE butchers of the two cities, we learn, are making arrangements for a grand parade on Thursday next, in honor of the triumphant election of James L. Graham, Sheriff of Allegheny county. We hear it stated that Mr. Graham will give his fellow butchers a grand entertainment, on Thursday evening, at one of our principal hotels.

HORSE FAIR.—We acknowledge the receipt of a polite invitation from Gen. Stokes, to be present at the Westmoreland County Horse-Fair, which commences at Greensburg on Thursday. The General, who is President of the Association, delivers the address at the Greensburg Court House on Thursday evening. We would like very much to be present, but are afraid our duties will prevent it.

A CONVENTION of Baptist ministers and delegates will be held in the Waynesburg Baptist Church, on Saturday preceding the fourth Sabbath of this month, at 11 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of taking into consideration the propriety of organizing a new association. Ministers and brethren of the Monongahela and Pittsburgh Associations are cordially invited to attend.

SALE OF BONDS.—The Philadelphia papers of Saturday, report sales of $10,000 of Allegheny county 6 per cent bonds issued to the A. V. R. Co., at 51¾; $1,000 Pittsburgh & Steubenville 6's; and $4,000 City of Pittsburgh, 51.

ADMITTED.—J. B. Kennedy, Erie, G. W. Hecker, Crawford, F. E. Lazear, Pittsburgh, and G. W. De Camp, Erie, were admitted to practice in the Supreme Court yesterday.

HACKETT makes his second appearance at Foster's Theatre, this evening. We deem the announcement sufficient to give him a full house.

GODEY.—Hunt & Miner have received Godey's Lady's Book, for November. It is an interesting and readable number.

THE boat race on Saturday has ended in the withdrawal of the stakes.

THE Empire Opera Troupe perform one of their popular operas to-night, at Foster's Theatre.

THE return game of Cricket played at Mansfield, yesterday, between the Saw Mill Run and Union Cricket Clubs, resulted in the former being the victor, really, though it was not played out. But one man of the Union Club was yet to play, and the others were 40 ahead.

HORSES STOLEN.—A fine animal belonging to Mr. J. Maffett, of Shattonville, Clarion county, was stolen in the early part of last week, and a few days later, Jonathan Shoup, of Perry tp., lost another. Neither have been heard of since.

WE had the pleasure, to-day, of taking by the hand our old friend John Ballentine, Esq., who has just returned from a summer's visit to his friends in Ireland. Mr. B. is greatly improved in health and appearance.

JUDGES WOODWARD AND STRONG, of the Supreme Court, arrived in the city on Saturday and took rooms at the St. Charles.

WHAT, OR WHICH IS THE BEST, VERMIFUGE OR WORM DESTROYER! is a question daily and hourly asked by parents, anxious for the health of their children. All who are at all acquainted with the article, will immediately answer, Dr. McLane's Celebrated Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. It has never been known to fail, and is one of the safest remedies that can be used. A friend of ours lately handed me the following statement in reference to this Vermifuge:

Gentlemen.—A young lady of my acquaintance had been for a long time very much troubled with worms. I advised her to try Dr. McLane's Celebrated Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa. She accordingly purchased and took one vial, which caused her to discharge an unusual large quantity of worms. She was immediately relieved of all the dreadful symptoms accompanying this disease, and rapidly recovered her usual health. The young lady does not wish her name mentioned; her residence, however, is 820 Fifth street, and she refers to Mrs. Hardie, No. 3 Manhattan place.

N.B.—Purchasers will be careful to ask for DR. MLANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE, manufactured by FLEMING BROS., of PITTSBURGH, PA. All other Vermifuges in comparison are worthless. Dr. McLane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of FLEMING BROS.
