PITTSBURGH:

SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 5, 1860.

☞ TO ADVERTISERS.—The Pittsburgh DAILY GAZETTE has a large circulation among the business men in this and the surrounding cities—among those who BUY and who SELL—and among manufacturers and producers. It may be found in nearly all the counting rooms, store houses, banking houses, hotels, factories and commission houses in the two cities, where it is read and carried home to the families for perusal. As a medium for advertising, therefore, it offers inducements which no other paper in Western Pennsylvania can offer, to all who desire to reach this large class of our citizens. The WEEKLY GAZETTE at this time has a much larger circulation in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Virginia, among substantial farmers and merchants than any other secular paper in this section of the State.

THE CHARLESTON CONVENTION.—The adjournment of the Charleston Convention, after a two weeks' session, without making a nomination, is the highest possible compliment that could be paid to the strength and vigor of the Republican party. It is an acknowledgment that they dread its power and that they cannot decide upon their own course of action until they see what we do. Their only hope is that we may make some mistake by which they may profit. Like a wary general, doubtful of his strength and chances, they are afraid to give battle and have drawn off their forces to watch our movements and be guided accordingly.

In this the rampant, irrepressible, almost omnipotent Democratic party of old? Alas! how fallen away—how shrunken in the shanks, how subdued in demeanor! It is already half whipped and tacitly confesses it. Torn by dissensions and agitated by an internal conflict which is destroying its vitals, it has tottered down to Charleston, quarreled with itself and, fearful of the future, adjourned without doing any thing until it can learn what its young, active and strong enemy is likely to do. If we blunder, it may come out into the open field and fight us; but if not, it will take to the timber, and make a skulking, sneaking fight of it, such as only cowards and savages resort to.

This is the first time, in the history of politics in this country, that a National Convention has met for the purpose of making a nomination and adjourned without making it. Every other Convention that ever met had courage enough to face the music and do what it was sent to do. The act is without a precedent, and nothing but the fact that the party is reduced to the straits of a sad necessity could justify it. No party ever before felt itself at once so weak and so cowardly as this act shows the democratic party to be. It may be good generalship, under the circumstances; but it is the generalship begotten of deep despair.

Upon the Chicago Convention, therefore, is thrown the necessity of taking the initiative in the Presidential campaign. It must not, will not shrink from it. All that it has to do is to make nominations such as will unite all branches of the opposition, and adopt a platform fully up with the advanced public sentiment of the day, and let these fractions of the worn-out, broken up, effete democratic party take care of themselves. Prudence, caution, and the true spirit of conciliation will lead our friends at Chicago on to the right track, and all the rest is easy.

It must not be concealed, however, that this movement of the enemy throws upon our friends the necessity of feeling their way with care and acting with a due regard to the difficulties of our own position. Victory is not an assured thing. It is within our reach. If we lose it, the fault will be our own. It may be lost—it may be suffered to slip away from our expectant but ill-directed grasp. It is for the delegates to the Chicago Convention to realise this one fact above all others—that they are not sent there to gratify their mere personal preferences, in the selection of candidates, but to make such a choice as will be most satisfactory to all and will render success certain. The first step, the French proverb says, is the most difficult. That first step is to be taken at Chicago; and it behooves those to whom the task is entrusted to look to it that it be well taken.

THE SECEDERS from the Charleston Convention brought their proceedings to as lame a conclusion as the Bump Convention. It adjourned without making any nominations, to meet in Washington a week before the reassembling of the Bump Convention. It is a regular game of see-saw. One adjourns to get ahead of the other, and the other follows suit. The Bump Convention is afraid to do anything, and the Seceders dare not. Each wants to control the other, but both are afraid of the Chicago Convention; and if the latter makes a prudent nomination, such as will unite and consolidate the opposition, these now antagonistic Conventions will rush to each other's embrace, and be loving brothers until fate decides the question of spoils.

THE PENAL CODE.—We have received from Harrisburg some forty copies of the Revised Penal Code, as it passed the Legislature. Members of the bar and magistrates, not otherwise supplied, can obtain copies on application at this office.

THE PEOPLES' STATE COMMITTEE met at Philadelphia last week, and after the transaction of its business, adjourned to meet in Chicago on Tuesday, May 15th, at 8 P. M., at the Briggs House. A. H. M'CLURE, Esq., is Chairman, and JOHN M. SULLIVAN, Secretary.

THE GLOVED SAMSON.—A correspondent of the Chicago Journal, of the 24th ult., relates the feat of strength to which he was witness:

"Yesterday last, about nine o'clock A. M., a forward was within three or four miles on the Fort Wayne road, a man employed on the mill work and being on the train was stopped, and the track cleared for the track. It was found the body of the horse was in the middle of a hill large having passed over it, there too short to reach the rails were brought, and the horse filled them in case he dropped one of the latters came off and stratagem Levers tugged and was at last successful. The horse was dead."

It requires 17 votes to effect a choice, and as neither the democrats nor the republicans have sufficient number, the four last named States will, of course, hold "the balance-of power." Should the House fail to effect a President before the 4th of March that duty will then in effect devolve upon the Senate, which has the election of a Vice-President, who, under the provisions of the constitution, becomes President of the United States. The Senate is composed of a majority of democrats.

THE FIRE AT WARREN.—The Warren Chronicle, of the 24, gives us full particulars of the disastrous fire that visited that beautiful town on Monday, the 30th ult. We condense from that paper:

"The fire took place in the turning factory of Truesdall and Townsend, south of the canal; cinders set a barn of King & Bro. on fire, north of the canal, thence the flames went to a barn of Mr. Hull, thence to a barn of Mr. Samuel Freeman, thence to one of Mrs. Freeman's, then to Mr. Falk's livery stable.

The fire then spread east and west on Franklin street, then crossing the street, burning two or three house to the east, on both sides of the street, and going west sweeping Franklin street going south as far as the house of R. W. Ratliff, Esq., and north to the corner of Market, to the Van Gordon Block, utterly destroying two of the stores in it, and damaging the whole block. From the east side of main street it crossed over to the west side, consuming everything from Hoyts' and Anderson and Rupp's River Block, (included) down to the corner of Franklin street to Dr. D. B. Wood's dwelling, including all the dwellings back of Main street, almost to the Methodist church. From these burning buildings, blazing shingles were carried to the upper bridge over the Mahoning, which stream was soon a span of fire. The old building at the west end of the bridge, soon caught and was consumed.

The fire raged from one o'clock P. M., until five; and at night the wind scattered, burning embers, and again threatened the rest of the village. The fire was not really extinguished until by a rain of the next day.

To the exertions of the ladies who remained at their homes, while most of the white population were working at the fires, the safety of the upper portion of the town is mainly owing to they covering the roofs with carpets, carrying water and extinguishing the many fires upon the roofs. Other ladies worked incessantly, bringing water, carrying out goods and removing them to places of safety. Others provided a bountiful supper at Williams' Hotel for all who came in, and their name was legion.

Every house in town was thrown open to the sufferers, and to strangers who had kindly come to assist.

Seventy buildings were burned—the loss in builings is $100,000; in goods, &c., $150,000; in all, $250,000. On these losses $10,600 was insured in Phœnix, Brooklin, N. J.; $15,600 in City Fire, New Haven Ct.; $1,000 in Manhattan; about $18,000 in Etna, Hartford, Ct.; $6,000 in Columbia Mutual, and a small amount in the Phœnix, Hartford, Conn.

CHALMERS' ELOQUENCE.—Among the most ardent admirers of Dr. Chalmers' eloquence, was Mr. Young, Professor of Greek. Upon one occasion he was so electrified that he leaped from his seat upon the bench near the pulpit, and stood, breathless and motionless, gazing at the preacher till the burst was over, the tears all the while rolling down his cheeks. Upon another occasion, forgetful of time and place, he rose and clapped his hands in an ecstasy of admiration and delight. When he preached in London his own brother James never went to hear him. One day, at a coffee-house which he frequented, the brother was asked by some one who was ignorant of relationship, if he had heard this wonderful countryman, and namesake of his.

"Yes," said James, somewhat dryly. "I have heard him."

"And what did you think of him?"

"Very little indeed," was the reply.

"Dear me!" exclaimed the inquirer, "when did you hear him?"

"About half an hour after he was born," was the cool answer of the brother.

LADIES were debarred from visiting the Japanese corvette while it lay in San Francisco. But two French ladies were determined to see the decks of the foreign ship; the feminine lexicon, like that of youth, contains "no such word as fail." Accordingly, by the connivance of their husbands, they donned the distinguishing articles of the masculine uniform, and clambered up the ship's sides. As Frenchmen, they were received with remarkable politeness, and carried on a lively conversation with the Admiral—the only drawback being that neither could understand the other's language. But when they prepared for departure, and extended their hands to the Admiral in leave-taking, that distinguished Japanese perceived a rat, and summoning an attendant presented the pseudo gentlemen with a variety of magnificent hair-pins, bracelets and fore, remarking that though a Japanese, he was still a man, and could detect the pressure of a lady's hand

THE CROPS AND THE FROST.—Hereabouts, on the lake shore, the fruit is yet in good condition. Some peaches, pears, and cherries, on the end of the limbs, are injured, but two-thirds of the remaining blooms might be blasted and yet enough fruit left for the good of the trees; in fact the remaining fruit, would, when ripe, weigh more than the whole will if permitted to ripen without being thinned out. Apples were not sufficiently advanced to be injured. Small fruits, too, were not in harm's way when the last frosts occurred.

A friend from Richmond County says the peaches about Mansfield were killed in the winter and the trees shows no blooms. He also reports that wheat in the Northern part of that county looks badly; it is better in the Southern portion, but his representations are not favorable to a heavy crop.—Cleve. Her.

CARD.—I have this day disposed of my stock of Books and Stationery to Mr. ROBERT E. DAVIS, late of Mr. W. S. Haven's establishment, and take much pleasure in recommending him to my former friends and customers, to whom I am myself under many obligations.

JOHN S. DAVISON.

Pittsburgh, May 1st, 1860.

HAVING purchased Mr. Davison's stock of BOOKS AND STATIONERY and purposing to carry on the business on the principle adopted in my predecessor, I solicit for myself the same liberal patronage that he enjoyed.

In addition to Books, a good supply of STAPLE AND FANCY STATIONERY will be always on hand.

Old customers will see a book as Mr. WATERS, for many years in the employ of Mr. Davison, will remain.

ROBERT S. DAVIS.

Brotopoium,

A Substitute for Cream of Tartar.

A NEW, HEALTHY AND CHEAP AR ticle for making BREAD, CAKES and all articles of food requiring the use of YEAST.

This new and valuable article is not a drug but an article of food, containing nothing but what gives nourishment to the body. It is generally equal in strength to pure Cream of Tartar—is used in the same way in cooking—is cheaper in price, and makes bread and cake of superior quality, which remain fresh and palatable much longer than when Cream of Tartar is used.

The article is approved and recommended by Messrs BOOTH, GARRETT & REESE, Analytic Chemists, of Philadelphia; Dr. SAMUEL JACKSON, Prof. in the University of Penna; Prof. HONSFORD, of Harvard College, Mass; Dr. JACKSON, State Assayer of Mass; Dr. NICHOLS of Boston; Dr. CHILTON and all others who reside near where attention has been called to it, and all housekeepers who have used it, recommend it in the highest terms.

Save Your Carpets!

THE great enquiry has been made for a number of years by housekeepers, What shall we put under our carpets to protect them from wear and moth?—This grand and valuable discovery was effected and patented April 1st, 1856, by J. R. HARRINGTON, and is called Harrington's Patent Carpet Lining.

This article having proved its utility has now come into general use, so much so that scarcely a carpet will be put down with it, and its cheapness puts it within the reach of every family. It is warranted to add fifty per cent. to the durability of Carpets, Oil Cloths and Matting. The details of its merits are too numerous to mention. It can be obtained at any of the principal Carpet Stores throughout the United States, and is manufactured only by the NEW YORK CARPET LINING COMPANY.

Also, extensive manufacturers of MAMMOTH COTTON BATTING AND COMFORTABLES, the best and cheapest that have ever been introduced in the market.

Office 11 Hey St., Salesroom 440 Pearl Street.

NEW YORK.

☞ All orders or information requested will be attended to with promptness and dispatch.

Under the supervision of the patentee.
