THE OPENING OF PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE.—The following decision was delivered by Judge Mellon yesterday morning, in the matter of opening Pennsylvania avenue, to which reference was made in the Gazette of Monday:

"The viewers are required by the second section of the Act to inquire what damages individuals may sustain, and who shall be benefited, and to apportion the same upon and among such parties benefitted; and such apportionment, when approved by the Court, shall remain a lien upon the property of the individuals benefitted until paid or tendered to the persons entitled to receive the same. This brings the parties benefitted and the parties injured into the relationship of debtor and creditor, and indicates what is intended by the terms "persons entitled to receive." The relation of debtor and creditor once established, an acquittance by the creditor must be regarded by the Court as a discharge of the obligation. Section 3 provides that the damages and costs so assessed shall be paid to the persons entitled thereto or into Court, there distinguishing between payment to the parties entitled thereto and payment into Court. Section 6 distinguishes between payments to the parties entitled, and payment to the City Solicitor; thus 'the damages shall be actually paid over to the persons and parties entitled thereto, or be actually collected,' &c. It would appear, therefore, that within the year the parties benefitted may pay their respective assessments to the parties entitled to receive the same as damage directly, and without circumlocution, or may pay into Court; and that after the year from date of approval had expired, the business goes with the hands of the City Solicitor to collect all remaining unpaid. Individuals so satisfied in full would of course not be parties to the writ of Scire Facias afterwards to be issued for the benefit of those entitled to receive.

It is objected that such direct payment will confer advantages on those adopting such course, over the others; but these advantages are only the legitimate fruits of the prudence of those who attend to their own interests instead of leaving them to be attended to by the Courts and officers of the law; it works no disadvantage to the others. It does not retard the opening of the street, because the street cannot be opened till the last dollar is collected, whether payments are made directly or not to those entitled to the damages. It deprives no one of interest over his damages, for no one is entitled to interest while he is in the enjoyment of the rents, issues and property for which the damages are assessed, and he is not to be deprived of this property till he is paid his damages in full. It is objected, also, that parties making such direct payment have no protection. The street may never be opened; they will, in that event, not get the benefit for which they pay, and cannot recover their money back. Such course probably may be considered to exist, but with such consequences the Court has no concern. The mode of payment indicated is optional with the party paying. If he deems it unsafe—cannot satisfactorily find a party certainly entitled to receive, or cannot protect himself by a refunding bond in the event of the street never being opened, if he regards that as probable, he had better not adopt that course. It is for him to choose. It appears to be the theory of the act to allow the parties a year from date of approval of the report for voluntary payment. After the expiration of a year (Sec. 4,) a writ of scire facias in nature of a scire facias sur mortgage may issue; and (Sec. 6) it is made the official duty of the City Solicitor to collect. This is the first introduction of the Solicitor into the business. He is an officer as well of the courts as of the city. "To collect" indicates the exercise of official duty, and it would be hardly fair to suppose that his services were intended to be invoked before default made. And what is by him collected is now here required to be paid into Court; but distributed from time to time to the parties entitled, thus further distinguishing between the adjustments made between parties benefited with parties injured, and payments into Court, and moneys collected by the Solicitor.

As to payment of interest, the Act provides that if the amounts assessed are not paid within one year, with interest, after the approval by the Court, process may issue, and may be prosecuted to trial, judgment and execution, for the amount of said damages, with interest from the date of the approval by the Court, and costs.

This would seem to leave no room for construction, and very little room to doubt that interest is to be paid from date of approval. The doubt is predicated upon the circumstances that no appropriation whatever is made of the interest so to be collected. Those entitled to the damages are not to receive the interest accruing thereon under any provision in the act, nor ought they, as they retain their property till paid their damage in full. But it is not unreasonable to suppose that payment of interest was intended as an incentive to speedy liquidation. Nor would it be a strained construction which would give any surplus remaining after payment of incidental expenses, to the city. The city is a party interested in these proceedings. She, at her own expense, has to furnish the plans of the street and property appropriated. It is at her expense, out of her treasury, that the expenses of collection are to be paid, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that such an interest and intimate connection with the business would entitle her to any surplus remaining after damages and incidental expenses were paid. The question is not raised by any thing now on the record, and we are therefore not bound by anything now said on the subject. But as the question has been urged, it may be proper to say that if properly before me, I would be compelled under the explicit provision of this act to rule in favor of interest from date of approval of the report.

In accordance with these views the orders of 13th August and 14th September were unnecessary, and only excessible upon the principle of "Abundant Caution." The parties were entitled to do all therein authorized without any such orders. The policy, however, of such order as that of the 4th September is doubtful. The parties should be left to adopt their own form of acquaintance, and the Court should not be called upon to pass upon its effect until it comes legitimately before it in an adversary proceeding. This is a debt of record against certain parties in favor of certain other parties. It exists between these parties, individually and severally. An acquaintance, therefore, or discharge of the one to the other, should appear on the same record, over the proper signature of the party granting it, designating the party to whom it is granted, and the amount. What authority has the Court to grant, or order such discharge or acquaintance where the money is not paid into bank? If it is without authority, however, (which we are not now called on to decide,) it is harmless, and therefore may remain. But I find no provision in the act whatever for paying the money already paid into Court over to the City Solicitor. He has nothing to do with any part of the fund, except what he collects. That which the parties adjust between themselves neither the Court nor the City Solicitor have any trouble with. That which is paid into Court may be forthwith distributed to those entitled as soon as the year has transpired; and that which is subsequently collected by the City Solicitor is in like manner to be distributed from time to time, as collected, in sufficient sums to make a dividend, until the whole is collected and paid over. Such seems to be the intention of the 5th section.

And I would remark in conclusion that we see nothing in the efforts of those who have obtained orders in regard to the payment of this money but a natural and proper desire to protect their clients, by obtaining, as far as possible, a construction in advance of a statute, which is certainly not very clear in its provisions. And we see nothing in the motions made by the City Solicitor but a laudable desire to perform his duty and protect the rights and interests of the city and the parties interested; and interested motives cannot be attributed to him, as his compensation does not depend on the amount of the money passing through his hands.

The following is an approximate statement of the earnings of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad Company, for the month of Sept., 1860, compared with the same period of last year, viz:

	1860.	1859.
From Freight	$142,728 42	$129,229 87	$ 12,700 55 inc.
" Passengers	87,010 29	86,799 03	211 26 inc.
" Express	2,909 00	2,150 00	760 00 inc.
" Mails	1,825 00	1,825 00
" Rent of road	7,652 23	5,909 00	1,743 23 inc.
" Miscellaneous	266 00	73 00	423 92 dec.
Total	$242,391 01	$225,811 90	$ 13,598 43 inc.

Earnings from Jan 1st to Sept. 30 $1,627,259 05 | 1,369,699 98 | $257,559 07 inc.

The earnings of this road for September exceed those of any one month since its completion, and the aggregate increase in Sept. 30th over those of last year, betokens a very satisfactory sum for the fiscal year to end December 31st, proximo.

THEATRE.—"Fashion and Famine," the great moral drama which has been so successful in the east, will be produced to-night. Everybody should attend, and see that sweet little actress, Mary M'Vicker, in one of her best parts.

CITY MORTALITY.—Dr. A. C. Murdoch, Physician for the Board of Health, makes the following report of the mortality in the city from September 22d to October 1st: Males 15; females 7; white 20; colored 2; total 22.

EXTENSIVE ROBBERY.—The dry goods store of Mr. J. W. Caldwell on Federal street, between Water street and the Diamond, Allegheny city, was entered by burglars on Monday night, and about $1000 worth of silks and fancy goods taken. An entrance was effected through a side door, to which admittance was gained by an alley leading from Water street. A hole was bored immediately above the door lock of sufficient size to admit the hand, and a bar which had been placed across the door was thus easily removed. The key which was in the lock was then turned, so that the burglars got in without much difficulty, making but little noise. They then helped themselves to a large stock of splendid goods which Mr. C. had just brought on from the East, selecting the most fashionable and costly articles in the store.

Mr. Caldwell was living in the 3d story at the time, but as he sleeps very soundly, knew nothing of the occurrence until the next morning. It is not known who the burglars were, nor can Mr. Caldwell conjecture. As their silks will be of little value to them, unless they dispose of them to some one, probably some clue will be found to direct inquiry hereafter.

BONFIRES.—The Commons and the Diamond square were in a blaze last night with these political beacons. In former times election night used to be celebrated with considerable spirit. Old shiffs were in great demand and were hauled about the streets filled with burning tar barrels and other combustibles that shed a dazzling brightness as they passed. Reminiscences of these good old times were awakened no doubt in the hearts of many by the sight of the blazing tar barrels last night, perhaps with a feeling of regret that the political fever now prevailing was so much tamer than the enthusiasm which prompted those demonstrations.

PITTSBURGHER IN TROUBLE.—Richard White, formerly a resident in this State, has been sentenced to four months servitude on the chain gang in Petersburg, Va., for insulting ladies in the street. The same individual was ridden on a rail and drummed out of a village in North Carolina, for uttering abolition sentiments. His companions on the chain gang at Petersburg are all blacks, and he is the first white man that has ever been sentenced to labor in that capacity.

If you would make a safe and paying investment, go to No. 12 St. Clair street and get a State or new county rights in the Continental Corn Sheller. You can realize over 500 per cent. in a few months and have the satisfaction of knowing besides that you have sold a really good and serviceable machine—one that will outsell and outshell anything of the kind in the country.

THE RAIL SPLITTERS' BREAST PIN—with posts and rails.

The Wide Awakes' Breast Pin—being a fac simile of the identical axe used by Old Abe in splitting rails.

The Campaign Badge or Scar Pin.

The Eagle Breast Pin.

The Rail Splitters' Pocket Piece.

Medals of all kinds, with beautiful portraits of Lincoln and Hamlin.

Republican Song Books, Vocalists, etc.

The above and all other Campaign Documents, at lowest prices, can be had at Hunt & Miner's.

SHINGLES.—The shingle market is very dull just now, and prices have a declining tendency. This decline is attributed by a great many to the supply being more than equal to the demand, but the real cause may be found in the fact that the demand is not so great as in former years, shingle roofs not being thought of when "Grogan's celebrated Asphalt Roofing Felt" can be obtained. The agent for this excellent material can be found at his office, Langhin's building, Canal bank, near the city Water Works.

STEAMER CONNAUGHT BURNED.

FULL PARTICULARS.

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—It is rumored that the new steamer Connaught, of the Galway line, was burned on Sunday last. A part of her crew and passengers were saved by a brig, and were reported to have arrived at Belfasts. The Connaught sailed from Glasgow on the 24 inst. She sailed thence for New York on the same day.

Second Dispatch.—It has been ascertained that the steamer Connaught sprung a leak on Saturday, and on Sunday took fire when one hundred and forty miles from Boston Light. It is reported that the passengers and crew were all saved by the brig Schiefer. A tow boat has been dispatched from this port for the purpose of bringing the brig and her passengers here.

Third Dispatch.—Capt. Leitch, of the steamship Connaught, reports that on the 5th inst., at 8 o'clock in the evening, when 150 miles east of Boston, the ship sprung a leak in the engine room. The crew succeeded in keeping the leak below the fires till 4 o'clock on Sunday morning, when the water gained rapidly, extinguishing the fires. At 8.30 a. m., smoke was discovered issuing from the aft stroke hole, and notwithstanding the utmost exertions, the fire gained, and soon drove the cabin passengers on deck.

The water and fire both making rapid progress the boats were not ready. Owing to the heavy sea the first one lowered was store. Six other boats were launched successfully, and filled with passengers. About 12 o'clock the brig Minnie Schiefer saw the signals of distress flying; and bore down for the wreck, and about 7 o'clock in the evening the embarkation of the passengers was commenced, the brig having a hawser attached to the steamer, the starboard side of which was very hot. At thirty-nine minutes past nine o'clock all the passengers were taken on board the brig. Captain Leitch was the last to leave the wreck. The weather was pleasant after leaving St. John, but at 2 o'clock, p. m., until Saturday, when there was a heavy blow from the southwest. The last seen of the Connaught was at 2 o'clock on Monday morning, when she was a complete mass of flame. There were on board the Connaught fifty cabin passengers, four hundred and seventeen steerage, and one hundred and twenty-four of the crew; all were saved.

The passengers saved nothing except the clothing in which they stood. The mails were, however, saved. Captain Leitch and Mr. Cox, a passenger, landed at Belfast the morning following, and arrived here at 11 o'clock. It is supposed that the fire has been smouldering a long time from the rapid progress made by the flames after being discovered.
