QUARTER SESSIONS COURT.

Commencement of the September Term—Charge of Judge Stowe to the Grand Jury—Cases Probable. Reserve—Rodfi-Thompson Conspiracy Case.

Monday, at ten o'clock, commenced the September term of the Court of Quarter Sessions, with Hon. Edwin H. Stowe on the bench.

The list of traverse jurors was called over, thirty-one answering out of sixty summoned. The grand jurors were next called, and the following answered and were sworn, John F. Jennings, of the First Ward, Allegheny, being designated as foreman:

John Bert.	John Cooper,
J. S. Hunt,	Jake Sill,
J. F. Jennings,	Edward Kelly,
Hugh Lee,	Sam'l Lindsay,
John Murray,	Alex. McClean,
Saul Oppenheimer,	W. H. Perry,
William Lee,	Henry Tannall.

James M. Courtis and George Flowers subsequently appeared and were separately sworn.

CHARGE OF JUDGE STOWE.

Judge Stowe proceeded to deliver the customary charge, instructing the Grand Jury as to their duties. He first referred to the small attendance. But fourteen out of twenty-four Grand Jurors, he said, had been or should have been summoned, had answered. This number was only sufficient for the transaction of business. Of sixty traverse jurors summoned, but thirty-one had answered. The public business had suffered for years past owing to irregularity in the summoning of jurors, and at a remedy for this a law had been passed, and was about going into effect, for the election of Jury Commissioners, whose duty it is made, in connection with the Court, Sheriff and Commissioners, to select jurors. Heretofore little or no discrimination had been made in this matter, and hence it was that the same jurors were in attendance twice or more in the same year. It sometimes occurred that the names of persons were drawn who had lie in the county, been bedridden for years, and some who had long been in their graves. This arose from the same names being kept in the wheel, or thrown back after being drawn, great difficulty was also experienced in procuring the attendance of jurors. The defaulters were mostly those from the city and the boroughs. Jurors from the country generally attended, and at the greatest inconvenience. The Court was compelled to use its power in the premises. If a fine of twenty dollars was not sufficient for the purpose, jurors neglecting to attend would be imprisoned, and thus compelled to make a virtue out of necessity. There were some jurors who go away after answering to their names. There was also a remedy to meet cases where the Court would err.

Referring to the duties of grand jurors, His Honor impressed upon them that they were required to keep their proceedings secret, and jurors violating their oath in this regard would render themselves liable to punishment. The object of this secrecy proposed was to prevent the guilty from escaping and also parties suffering from unfounded charges.

After referring in detail to the ordinary way in which matters were brought before the Grand Jury, His Honor said it should be borne in mind they were not to consider any case until an indictment had been framed and presented, when the jury would pursue their inquiry in regard to the matter charged, not going outside of it, unless foreign matters should be introduced deserving of consideration, when the jury would call them to the attention of the District Attorney. If had been the custom to proceed in case without a bill having been previously prepared. His Honor could not say whether this practice was still pursued, but if it was it must be stopped. Reasonable cause to believe in guilt, after hearing witnesses, was sufficient to enable the jury to find a true bill, and before a bill could be found twelve of the jurors must vote in the affirmative, otherwise the bill must be ignored. Any interference with the Grand Jury by court or citizen, approaching them, in the way of suggestion, or with a desire to influence their action, was an offence for which severe punishment was prescribed. The Deputy District Attorney was their legal adviser, and the jury might direct their inquiry to the Court, but they might disregard the views of the Deputy and also of the Court and act independently of them. The Grand Jurors were responsible to themselves and to their Maker for their action, and could not be called to account, held answerable in damages, individually, for improper conduct, they might be brought before the Court, but in no other way.

His Honor, in further explanation of the province of the Grand Jury, referred to their power in the way of making presentment of nuisances affecting the public convenience or health, also remarking that in the District Attorney might present subjects for consideration. The Court, also, might call attention to matters of public importance and a certain class of cases in this connection Judge Stowe said to the jury:

"While you have no power to try any, and in the proper way punish, we have got but a short way of stopping the flood of crime that is overwhelming the country. Whipping post one is put away where he can do no harm to the public for a time, hundreds are still at large plying their vocations outside of stripes.

"We but cater the cubicup of crime. The darker and deeper view lies away beyond. What might develop and bring this to justice I will not undertake to say. But of one thing I am persuaded, and that is that society at large has become actively interested in seeing that all violations of law, whether great or small, are duly punished, and it is not only laudable but commending the officers of the law to do their duty faithfully and earnestly, the greater number of offenders will go unpunished.

"Are there gambling and lawlessness among us? Is liquor sold on Sunday and to minors? Are licensed arrangements, under all sorts of disguises, published every day in the public prints? If so, why is the law not enforced? Simply because the public take no interest or part in doing so.

"Ordinarily the constable cannot arrest without warrant. The magistrate cannot issue his warrant without some one to make information of facts justifying it; and even if the were done, and witnesses who have knowledge of the charge refuse to testify, you would be compelled to ignore the bill or we to acquit here.

"Perhaps the most of the witnesses in this case who said they had knowledge of violations of law, and asked the Court to call on the Court in bringing offenders to justice, so that repeated the Court, the Court should be the most unlikely person to interfere in the way proposed. Not one of those who had approached him that they were the proper persons to do so, nor duty it was, in fact, to prosecute the offenders, but the Court, seeing that by so doing they lives and property would be endangered. Should such persons prevail upon a magistrate to issue his warrant without information, such magistrate would be duty as an officer, such he might be indicted. And should his Honor exercise authority without his warrant, he would render himself liable to impeachment.

The jury retired to organize at seven o'clock.

ADMINISTRATION ACCOUNTS.

Register Gray having taken a seat on the bench, quite a number of guardian and administrators' accounts were presented and confirmed nisi, exceptions to be filed within ten days.

CONSTABLES' RETURNS.

The constables of the various election districts were called upon for their returns of persons engaged in the liquor traffic. A considerable number from the country districts responded, the number in the city answering being comparatively small. District Attorney Wilson called the attention of the court to the fact, Judge Stowe was not certain as to the power of the court in the premises, but said he would give the matter attention, and if the officers failed to respond during the week they would be made to suffer for their delinquency.

MOFFIT-THOMPSON CONSPIRACY CASE.

W. D. Moore, Esq., asked for the continuance, till the ninth day of the term, of the case of the Commonwealth vs. Alexander Moffit, indicted for conspiracy, on oath of Mr. Thompson, to defraud the United States of the United States Court for the Judge, four weeks, had entered his recognizance, and was otherwise situated, so that he could not be subjected to such inconvenience. He lived out of the city, as also did his witnesses, and some time would be required for him to get ready for his defense. District Attorney Dull, and also General Collier, of private counsel for prosecution, resisted a continuance, for the reason that the defendant had not made his affidavit, and also in consequence of it having been arranged to take up the case on Wednesday. After some conversation between the parties, the Court decided in favor of the arrangements which had been made.

The Court, without transacting further business, adjourned till to-day at ten o'clock.

A Novel Wedding.

A novel wedding came off yesterday afternoon, in the presence of several witnesses, of which we were one. The parties were Rafaelo Deraucates and Madaleina Legora, Italians, Alderman Nicholson officiating. The groom was a young man apparently about twenty-five years of age, while the bride was a blooming lass, who passed out of her "teens" at least twenty years since. The loving pair, it appears, had been on terms of intimacy for several months, until within a few days, when a difficulty arose between them which caused the "blushing maiden" to think she had "loved not wisely but too well," and as her gay Lothario evinced strong fear lest her, she instituted proceedings against him before Alderman Nicholson for affiliation. He was arrested, and, after bond was committed to jail. In the meantime, the friends of the parties set themselves to work to compromise the affair, which could only be effected by a wedding, and to this the parties consented. The Alderman, accompanied by the bride that was to be and a female friend, came to the jail where he shown into the Warden's office. The Alderman made his business known to Mr. Smith, who conducted the groom from his dark and dreary prison cell into the presence of the lady who was soon to be his bride. All things being ready and the parties consenting, the Alderman proceeded to unite the pair in the holy bonds of wedlock. After the ceremony was concluded the happy pair were favored with the Marseillies hymn, on the clarionet, by Professor Hardy. They started on their way rejoicing at the happy termination of affair, as they supposed, when the attention of the groom was called to the fact that he had not "settled his bill," and that he would have to remain in "durance vile" until the Alderman who had committed him refused send an order for his release. The order finally came, the bill was paid, and the bridal party took their departure. The bride was apparently well pleased with her youthful lord, and no delighted to escape from the gloomy walls of the prison.

Put the Wrong Man Off.

A difficulty occurred on the Johnstown Accommodation train near Braddock's Station, Saturday, in which it appears the conductor got hold of the wrong man. A party of roughs on the train were behaving in a disorderly manner, and in the same car with them was Edward Dolphon, an old man, who had purchased a ticket for Irwin's Station. A difficulty occurred between the conductor, Mr. C. H. Parker, and the party of roughs above referred to, some of whom refused to pay their fare. The conductor, assisted by the employees of the train, "went for" the party, and Mr. Dolphon, to save himself from injury, got behind the door, where he was found by Mr. Parker, who, as he alleges, beat and abused him shamefully, and ejected him from the train, notwithstanding he had the ticket for Irwin's Station. Mr. Dolphon appeared before Alderman McMasters yesterday and made information against Parker charging him with assault and battery. Parker was arrested and held in the sum of five hundred dollars for a hearing Thursday.

Serious Accident.—An infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hattigan, residing on Cherry alley, was severely scalded yesterday morning. The mother of the child was carrying a plate of hot soup, which she accidentally let fall upon it, scalding its head terribly. Medical aid was summoned and the little sufferer attended to.

The Grand Jury.—This body was compelled to adjourn for want of business, no prosecutors being in attendance. They will meet on Wednesday at nine o'clock, A. M. Their daily session will hereafter will not sit in the afternoon. We would advise prosecutors to be on hand promptly if they wish to avoid costs of attachments.

Illegal Liquor Selling.—Emma Benedict made information before Alderman Taylor yesterday, against Peter McCoy, of the Ninth ward, charging him with selling liquor on Sunday, and also for selling liquor without license. A warrant was issued for his arrest.
