Spelling Contest.

We are informed that a "spelling contest" will take place on Friday evening of this week at the public school building. It promises to be an exciting and an interesting affair. The contestants will be twenty se lected "spellists" from the Ridgway schools, including the teachers, and twenty "spellists" chosen from other ranks than pupils and teachers. The former will represent the school and contend against the latter who will represent the village. Hon, Jno. G. Hall will select the words for the and Fridays at 9 a m. occasion and pronounce them, and we have every reason to believe that proper words will be elected and that they will be pronounced with the utmost accuracy and distinctness. Three judges or referrees, namely; H. M. Powers, Jerome Powell and E. K. Gresh will each be ready with Webster's Unabridged to decide disputed points of pronounciation and spelling. The names of the contestants would here be given but the list of those who are to represent the village is not quite complete Suffice it to say that the pupils are very sanguine, and they have shouted defeat already in the startled ears of their foes. The room will be well lighted and perfect order kept. Further arrangements for cou-I am happy to add my testimony to the dueting the exercise will be made on the evening of the contest. The primary object of this spelling contest is to raise money with which to buy a large, well mounted, picture of our school building to be sent to the centennial exhibition. Pennsylvania has erected a building, at Philade'phia, for the display of our own educational each county. The Bidgway school board has already contributed five dollars toward the erection of the building. (which example ought to be followed by other school boards in the county) but this will not fill the space set apart for Elk in the display. Elk must not be a blank. Certainly the money will be raised; the picture purchased and sent with other things, and to this end ten cents admission fee will be charged at the spelling contest. We hear that Wilcox, Centreville and St. Mary's also think of sending the picture of their school building, all or any of which would make a fine display. Let us look for Elk at the centennial.
