THE Democrats wanted Pershing to resign and stump the State, but the little fellow sniffed defeat in the breeze, and flatly refused. Now, they are abusing Hartranft for doing what they wanted Pershing to do.

GET out the vote, friends! We lost the State last year through the stay-at-home voters. Let every Republican give one day at least to getting out the vote, and we will sweep the State like wildfire.

TURN out to the election, Republicans. Take your neighbors with you. Don't leave a single vote at home. We are going to beat the Democracy overwhelmingly on the 2d day of November, and the Republican who does not share in that victory will be sorry for it as long as he lives.

EVERY laboring man is interested in making the paper dollar equal to the gold dollar. One should be worth just as much as the other. If the Democrats get into power and inflate the currency of the country, a paper dollar will be worth about fifty cents, and every working man knows how that will affect his wages.

A FULL vote always assures a Republican victory. Last year Somerset county was the banner county of the State. She polled her regular Republican vote when nearly all the other counties fell off. Stand by the ticket Republicans. Bring out the full vote, and we will still wear the proud title of the "Banner County."

IN New York the Democracy are howling for "hard money," in Pennsylvania they yell for "paper money." Which is the true Democracy, and how can any honest Democrat tell which way to vote? They cannot both be right, and it is as plain as day that the party is badly split up.

STAND by your own county ticket, Republicans! Don't be fooled into voting for any of the Democrats who are now perambulating the county soliciting your votes. You have a first class ticket; stand by it to a man. No complimentary votes. A clean vote will be sustained by a clear conscience.

IF our Republican friends will only turn out to a man at the election on Tuesday next, we will bury the Democracy of this State beneath a majority so deep that when the last trump shall sound, they will not be able to arise, but will have to emerge from their graves by way of China.

AS THE official returns are received the Republican majority in Ohio still keeps going up. Our last dispatches show it to be nearly six thousand, and half a dozen counties were yet to be heard from. The newly elected Governor—the gallant Hayes—is now in this State, assisting by his eloquent speeches to swell the majority of his fellow soldier, General Hartranft.

ACCORDING to the New York World, Judge Black, (formerly of this county,) says the act authorizing the issue of our greenback currency "was, and is, and always will be unconstitutional," and yet in the face of the opinion of this great Democratic legal authority, his friends in this county and State want to issue millions more of this unconstitutional currency.

THE Democracy have resurrected the body of William Allen, and are going to exhibit the corpse in Pennsylvania during the present week. Why not let the venerable departed rest in peace? There is mourning enough among the brethren in this State, without compelling them to act as pall bearers at this melancholy procession. However, it is their funeral, not ours.

"IT is now apparent," says the New York Herald, "that the Pennsylvania Democrats are riding a dead horse. They can neither dismount with credit nor keep the saddle with any hope of winning the race."

THE Republican tidal wave in Iowa swept everything before it.—Governor Kirkwood's majority will exceed 32,000, the House will stand 71 Republicans to 29 Democrats, and in the Senate there are 35 Republicans and 4 Independents, who will operate with the Republicans, to 11 Democrats.

THE platform of the Democratic party of Pennsylvania is the same as that which brought defeat and disaster on the Democrats of Ohio. It means destruction of the currency, ruin to our business interests—idle factories and deserted shops—and a depreciation of all values. Every Republican who neglects to vote will aid in inflicting these injuries on the country.

LOOK at your tickets before you vote them. As usual the Democrats are flooding the county with spurious tickets. They have counterfeited the Republican county ticket, and thousands of them have been distributed with the name of one or more Democratic candidates inserted, and the Republican nominees left out. Examine every ticket before it is voted, Republicans. Read every name on it and see that it is right.

BUCKALEW in a speech at Bloomsburg, on Saturday night last, "went back" on the Erie platform, and insists that the Democratic National platform of 1872 in favor of hard money is the true Democratic doctrine. He said "the Democracy had always been a hard money party, devoted to a constitutional coin currency as the standard of values, regarding depreciated, inconvertible paper money in time of peace as both injurious and disgraceful." What an eye-opener that Ohio election was to the Democrats of this State!!!

OUR advices are that in Philadelphia and throughout the eastern portion of the State, thousands of hard money Democrats will vote for Hartranft. They say that they want to stamp out this cursed inflation heresy, and prevent it from troubling them in the Presidential convention of next year, and that they can best prove their hostility to it by voting for Hartranft and burying it beneath such a majority in this State that it will never raise its head again.

THREE years since, when Hartranft was a candidate for Governor, he was the worst abused man that was ever elected in this State. So completely has his administration given the lie to all the charges against him, that the Democrats in convention at Erie did not dare to utter a word of disparagement. And at a Pershing meeting held in Pottsville, Francis W. Hughes, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, was constrained to say: "The character of Governor Hartranft for honesty, integrity and patriotism, cannot be successfully impeached." After this admission of their base falsehoods, how can any Democratic politician or journalist expect to be believed in this present canvass?

SINCE the defeat of the Democracy in Ohio, it is amusing to note the squirming of the Pennsylvania Democratic leaders They adopted the Ohio rag baby at Erie, with the hope of strengthening Allen in Ohio, and being benefited in this State by his election. His defeat has shown them that the people cannot be fooled with the cry of "more money," and they are all now denying that they are in favor of inflation. Hold them to the record, Republicans! They proved themselves political scoundrels at Erie, don't let them escape now on the plea that they were idiots. They deliberately adopted a doctrine that would have ruined the country, and now that they were beaten on it in Ohio, they are trying to crawl away from and repudiate it. Hold them to the record! They would repudiate their Savior for the sake of political success.

THE Somerset Democrat announced last week that A. J. Colborn, Esq., had "thrown off his Democracy" and would take the stump for Hartranft, and this announcement, as a matter of course, was accompanied by a volume of vituperation and denunciation. The Democrat has evidently not forgotten the lesson it learned when the clavedriver's whip was cracked over the heads of Northern Democrats, but it apparently has forgotten that with the war ended all terror of that instrument, as a means of party discipline. It has hurt no one but itself by its coarse abuse of a private citizen for exercising a right guaranteed him by the constitution, and which it exercised itself when it "threw off its Democracy" and followed the banner of Horace Greeley in 1872.

However, Mr. Colborn did take the stump last week, and we have never heard a better sustained argument than he makes in behalf of the old Democratic doctrine of "hard money," and against the inflation heresy and infamy adopted by the party leaders at Erie. It requires no proof to show that the Democratic managers and tricksters have deserted all the traditions and teachings of the fathers, and are now worshipping at the shrine of an inflated paper currency, that would make "Old Hickory" or "Old Bullion" clothe themselves with curses, as with a garment, could they look upon the degeneracy of their professed followers. We know that wherever Mr. Colborn has spoken he has satisfied Democrats that his is the only true, manly, and honest position, and from a continuance of his labors during the present week, we anticipate many good results.

EVERYWHERE throughout the State the demoralized Democracy are stampeding. Keep them on the run.

LET our friends study the Ohio election and profit by it. The Democracy started out with the boast that they would carry that State by 50,000 majority, and their friends in convention at Erie responded that they would do likewise in Pennsylvania. Hard work and thorough organization gave us Ohio by six thousand, and the same work and energy will carry this State for Hartranft by 30,000. Let us work for it, friends.

WHEN the Republican party lifted the load from the owners of the farms and homes of Pennsylvania, by repealing the tax on real estate, and putting the burden on the Railroad corporations (where it belonged), Cyrus L. Pershing was a member of the Legislature.

The railroads sent telegrams to their vote-buyers in the Capitol to "kill the bill." These vote-buyers at once marshaled their forces to defeat the bill and keep the load of one million three hundred thousand dollars on the farmers, and save the railroad monopolies from paying a fair share of the taxes of the State. Pershing, being one of the "roosters," dodged the vote and abandoned the farmers to their fate. He now seeks the farmers votes. What are the farmers of Pennsylvania going to do about it.

NO ONE will suspect the New York Tribune of a very urgent desire to elect Hartranft, or defeat Pershing. Yet this is what its regular correspondent writes of the situation in this State: "The truth is, nothing was ever plainer in politics than the defeat of Pershing. It would take little short of a miracle to change the current that is now running strong in Gov. Hartranft's favor.—The Pennsylvania Democrats fell in at the tail of Wm. Allen's procession, and must now follow it over the precipice. They were fully warned of the risk they ran, and they deserve their fate. Hartranft is popular all over the State. In 1872 the Presidential campaign carried him through, but since then he has built himself up in political opinion, so that he now has more personal strength than any man in his party. His administration has been a safe and successful one, and many people who doubted his integrity when he ran three years ago, feel that they did him injustice and owe him the reparation of their support now.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

NEW YORK, October 25, 1875.

POLITICAL.

All hail, Ohio! The dispatches from that great State, making certain the election of Hayes on an honest, hard-money platform, gives more satisfaction in New York than any piece of news that has reached us since the taking of Vicksburg. The majority is small, but it is enough. The battle was fought on the square issue of honesty vs. dishonesty, and the vote of Ohio settles the question. The rag-money manufacturers are pushed to the wall, the government will pay its debts; inflation, with repudiation lurking in its shadow, is dead, and business men breathe more easily. All honor to the honest men of Ohio. All honor to the noble Republicans of that noble State, who placed themselves between their country and ruin, and fought so well the battle upon the result of which the business of the country depended.

The news was received here, as you may suppose, with the liveliest satisfaction. The decent Democrats were quite as well pleased as the Republicans; in fact, among the business men, there was no diversity of sentiment. All were glad that the rag-baby had "died a horrid," and that it got its quietus before it got large and strong enough to do any harm.

Now let Pennsylvania follow suit, and the question as to which party will elect the next President, and the principles that will govern its action, as regards the finances of the country, is settled.

Speaking of political successes, the

is not only entertaining, but instructive. John Kelly, a brawling, pot-house, corner-grocery politician, occupies the place lately held by Tweed as the head of Tammany, and whoever is the head of Tammany, controls the Democracy of the city.

The best judge the city has ever had is Recorder Hackett, who for ten years has been the terror of the dangerous classes. He has never allowed politics to come into his court. Criminals brought before him have been tried by law, and not by the necessities of the Democratic party. Consequently, he has hung a score of them, and has sent hundreds and and hundreds to Sing Sing. So ably, honestly and impartially has he discharged the duties of his office, that he has earned the undying hatred of every thief, and the equally undying gratitude of every reputable man in New York.

Two years ago Tammany undertook to stock his court with its creatures. The appointments of clerks and other officials were distributed among the wards, and Judge Hackett was notified that he was expected to remove his subordinates and appoint those selected by Tammany. He refused. He wrote a letter to those making this insolent demand that it was absolutely necessary to the proper administration of the law that the courts should be kept free from political influence; that his clerks, etc., were good, reliable, well-qualified men, and he should retain them. This action, coupled with the fact that years ago, when Hackett was the Corporation Counsel, he stopped the payment of a fraudulent claim to Kelly, amounting to $29,000, so annoyed the Boss, that when Hackett, the other day, came up for renomination, he was defeated, and a tool of Tammany nominated in his stead. The same sauce was served to Phelps, also a good officer—the prosecuting attorney.

I might write a newspaper page and be unable to give so good a reason for the necessity of squelching the Democratic party, as Mr. Kelly has furnished by this action. Hackett is the especial dread of the thieves—Hackett, therefore, must be put out of office. Hackett is an upright judge—Tammany will none of him. Hackett hangs murderers—Tammany wants a man in his place who will shut his eyes to the misdeeds of Tammany's chief supporters. In brief, and to put it in the shortest possible way, the chief supper, the strength of Tammany, is the rum-mills, the thieves, and those who make money out of thieves; and as Hackett was in their way, Hackett must be slaughtered.

He was slaughtered. John Kelly, in the Democratic Convention, rose and insisted that he should not be renominated. Nay, more, he read a list of those whom he desired to be nominated, and his dictum was affirmed by the convention. He made the nominations, and New York knows what his object was, and why he did it. Every man on the ticket is his tool, and the humble, obedient servant of the worst classes in the city.

And let me say that the throwing overboard of Hackett was done in defiance of every paper in New York except the Tribune, which is now the only paper in the city entirely devoted to Democratic Tammany. Kelly wants only one paper, and that is the Tribune.

The moral to all this is: John Kelly controls Tammany, Tammany controls the city, the city controls the State, and the State has a powerful influence in the nation. John Kelley, as the head of Tammany, will have, in the event of Democratic success next year, a control in the affairs of the nation greater than any other man in the nation. It behooves the Republicans of the country outside to see that no matter of merely local importance stands between them and a Republican success. I hope my Republican readers in the States holding elections in November will take this warning home to themselves, and do all that is in them to prevent the Democracy from capturing those States. More depends upon their action than they are aware of.

The Republican conventions of the city renominated Hackett and Phelps for the positions they are now occupying, and we hope to elect them despite Tammany and the rum-mills and thieves. It will be a bad day for the city and the country if we do not. All the States should follow Ohio in a decent condemnation of all that is bad and vile in government matters.

A LIFE WELL SPENT.

What a world of time most of us let run to waste, which, rightly used, would enable us to become wiser and better! This excellent sentiment is at least as old as Confucius; a hundred successive generations of our ancestors have each, in turn, indorsed its respectability, until it has got itself adopted into a calendar of truths which all venerate, and pretty much all give the go by.

Even that division of the twenty-four hours of the day by the masonic craft, which attributes eight hours to acts of worship and benevolence, eight to affairs, and the remaining eight to refreshment and repose, would seem to be, with the vast majority of persons, more fanciful than real, and the actual rule would be more nearly expressed by merging the portion set apart for piety and good works with that for rest and refreshment, thus giving two-thirds of each day to the gratification of merely physical wants and desires. Indeed, 'tis so much the fashion, and we are so well used to dawdle over our business, and run to excess in our recreations and pleasures, that we wonder at the ease with which an exceptional man, like Mr. A. T. Stewart, carries the great weight of his business affairs, and can with difficulty believe that he still finds time each day to read a portion of some Greek author in his original tongue, and that he still cherishes and gratifies his taste for art, and surrounds himself in his leisure hours with persons eminent in the various intellectual walks of life.

All this is introductory to saying that last week death took away a well-known business man of this city whose life well illustrates the attainments possible to any business man of fair intellectual gifts, and points the moral of my foregoing sermon on the value of time. Mr. William Hegeman, born in 1816, was educated a druggist, and when he died was head of the widely known firm of Hegeman & Co., whose several attractive stores on Broadway have been familiar to the public for so many years. Now it is not remarkable that a man should become a successful druggist, if he works hard enough and long enough to become so. But Mr. Hegeman not only easily stood first of the pharmaceutical chemists of this city and carried all scientific studies in any wise connected with his business to a high point of culture, but he also gained great proficiency in the arts of painting and music, so that he would have been noticeable in the practice of either art had he not possessed so many other claims to intellectual and social distinction that these merely stood for accomplishments in his well rounded character. Now this gentleman was, day by day, an active business man, giving the usual time and care and thought to the conduct of a large and prosperous business. Yet, in those hours usually regarded as sacred to rest and recreation, he had, by wise husbandry of spare hours, gathered fruits in the garden of knowledge which are usually the result of the assiduous labors of a lifetime. Verily, the hours are golden.

RELIGIOUS.

The fall and winter of '75–'76 will be made memorable in New York by a thoroughly systematized revival movement. The churches, without exception, have joined hands, and an effort will be made such as the world never saw before. Moody and Sankey will open the ball in Brooklyn—Miller, Bliss, and a score of other well known revivalists will commence at the same time, and all the clergy, with such layman as have gift in the way of prayer and song, will second their efforts. The business of the Christian world, for the next four months, will be revival. They propose to fill the air with religion—to make it the topic of conversation everywhere, and at all times.

Great good will be effected. A systematically ordered raid will be made on the rum mills and the gambling hells, crooked business of all kinds is to be assailed; in short, an effort is to be made to elevate the moral tone of the city at large.—Great good will be accomplished for the churches, and many men outside are in deadly earnest. There will be no lack of either funds or laborers. It will be a great thing for New York.

BUSINESS

continues fairly good. Since the Ohio election there has been a perceptible improvement, for the reason that confidence in the stability of things has been restored. Men know now where they are and what they have to expect. If Pennsylvania and Massachusetts do as well, there will be a greater and more marked improvement.

It is raining very hard at this writing, and the city is as disagreeable as possible.

PIETRO.

One Man Killed and Another Fatally Wounded.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., October 21.—An unfortunate encounter took place this morning on the public square in Franklin, Tenn., which resulted in the killing of Col. John L. House and the dangerously wounding of his son, M. House. Col. House and O. N. Griffin, a policeman, had a personal altercation in a saloon last night, which resulted in Griffin knocking House down. Here the matter ended until this morning, when the parties again meeting, some high words were used, but no blows passed.—They separated, House going toward a store where his son was employed, near which he met another party and became involved in a dispute, using language Griffin considered not suited to the time and place. Griffin approached House and placed him under arrest. M. House stepped to the front of the store, and seeing Griffin with one hand on his father's collar, and a drawn revolver in the other, supposing they were involved in a personal dispute, stepped into the street with his hand beside him. Griffin asked him if he had drawn a pistol on him. He answered "No."—Col. House remarked that he would draw one, and proceeded to do so, whereupon Griffin fired at him, then turned and shot his son, who had drawn his pistol. An indiscriminate firing began between Griffin, Col. House, and W. Allison, who had hitherto been a spectator, and who sided with Griffin. Griffin fired six shots, five at House and one at his son. Allison fired twice. Col. House was killed instantly. It is thought his son cannot recover. Allison is a member of the M. E. Church, and was recently elected one of the Board of Stewards. No cause is known why he should have taken part in the difficulty. The Coroner's Jury gave a verdict of justifiable homicide. Griffin and Allison are in custody. House was Lieutenant Colonel of the First Tennessee Infantry, and a man of prominence in his locality.

A Terrible Murder.

MEMPHIS, October 21.—Dr. Ballard, formerly of Texas, residing near Marion, Ark., while riding with a lady yesterday afternoon, was waylaid and shot by a man named Andrews, who fired one barrel of a shotgun at the Doctor, the charge taking effect in his neck and face, knocking him off his horse. After falling Ballard asked Andrews to raise him up, which he did, into a sitting posture, and then placing the gun near his head discharged the other barrel, literally blowing Ballard's head off. Andrews then went to Marion and surrendered himself to the authorities. Andrews had been employed by Ballard, and a few days before Ballard had knocked him down twice. Ballard is represented as having been a violent man, and had on Sunday last waylaid and shot his wife's nephew, Andrew Fraser.

Negro Hanged in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, October 22.—Henry Brown, the negro who killed Philip Pfarr, a German living a few miles from the city, and then ravished and robbed his wife, on the night of the 25th of May, was hanged in the yard of the jail at Four Courts at one o'clock to-day. In a brief speech made on the scaffold, he admitted having struck Pfarr the blow which caused his death, but denied outraging Mrs. Pfarr. Nearly 2,000 persons were present in the jail yard, and the windows and roofs of all the houses in the vicinity, and even the roof of the jail itself, as well as the streets in the neighborhood, were thronged with people. The crowd must have numbered nearly 5,000. At exactly half past one o'clock the trap was sprung, and the wretched culprit hung dangling in the air.

Murderers Lynched.

MILWAUKEE, October 19.—About a week ago the Sheriff of Portage county, named Baker, was killed by two brothers, named Ames and Isaac Cartwright, whom he attempted to eject from a building This morning about three o'clock a party of masked men, numbering forty, went to the jail at Stevens Point, seized the watch and put him in irons, beat down the outside doors, took out the Cartwrights, and hung them to a pine tree overhanging the road. The whole affair was quickly and systematically executed. There is no evidence of the identity of the perpetrators, but it is understood they came from the town of Plover.

Two Men Die from Accidental Poisoning.

ST. LOUIS, October 22.—A special from Macon, Mo., to the Globe-Democrat says Dr. B. L. Sherman and Samuel Parker, one of the oldest citizens of this place, went to Bevier to-day, and while there visited Dr. Shank's drugstore. After leaving the store they had not proceeded ten rods when Parker fell on the street in convulsions In five minutes Dr. Sherman was similarly affected, and in twenty minutes both were dead. It is supposed they were poisoned, and the Coroner has gone to examine into the matter.

Murder Will Out.

MECHANIC'S FALLS, ME., Oct. 22—The skeleton of a man was found in the woods in South Paris yesterday. The skull was broken. Parts of a coat, vest and boots were also found and have been identified as similar to those worn by a man named Wetzlar, who left the hotel in South Paris about four years ago, late at night, to go to his boarding house, having in his possession at the time $1,100. Detectives are working up the case.

Terrible Leap.

CHICAGO, October 22—A man named Kiser, about twenty years of age, who has recently become insane on the subject of religion, slipped into the power of the water works yesterday afternoon, and ascending to the top, a distance of about 170 feet, threw himself over, and was dashed to pieces on the rocks below.

Fatal Mistake at Wilkesbarre.

SCRANTON, PA., October 22—E. L. Hicks, son of Major Hicks, a highly respected citizen of Wyoming, surrendered to the police last evening, stating that on the previous evening he had shot Archibald Anderson, for several years engineer of the Diamond mine It appears the parties met at Trip's ravine, a lonely spot, and Hicks mistaking Anderson for a desperado, but without exchanging a word, fired at him, inflicting a wound from which he died yesterday.

Whisky Frauds.

CINCINNATI, October 21.—The Gazette's St. Louis special says: Quite a sensation in whiskey frauds developed itself to-day in the fact of every distiller and rectifier, except the distillery of Jorritt & Co., pleading guilty to a number of counts in each indictment, and permitting default to be entered in the sum of several hundred thousand dollars, including one lot of 1,200 barrels of whiskey, belonging to Clrica & Co., and another lot of 600 barrels, owned by Quintan & Co. The evidence against Jorritt is said to be conclusive, but his confession of guilt is held back. He claims that the officials dare not proceed against him, as his partners are relatives of the President. Casey, in particular, of New Orleans, is a party alluded to. There are, probably, no less than thirty different parties who now stand convicted, and whose terms of punishment is in no case less than two years, and $10,000 fine. Some of them may be sentenced for six years and $20,000 fine.

MILWAUKEE, October 21.—In the Erskeine trial to-day ex-Senator Doolittle concluded his argument for the defence, and Judge Dixon, for the Government, closed the case. Judge Drummond charged the jury, and they went out. After an absence of two hours they returned and rendered a verdict of not guilty. The remainder of the revenue trials were postponed until November 3d, owing to the necessary absence of ex-Senator Carpenter and Judge Dixon.

Notorious Counterfeiter Arrested in Illinois.

WASHINGTON, October 22—The treasury department to-day has a telegram from Colonel Washburne, chief of the secret service division, announcing that he has arrested, near Fulton, Ill., the notorious counterfeiter Ben Boyd, who during the past ten years has uniformly escaped capture, although well known as one of the most successful cutters of bank note plates in the country.

When the officers came upon him, he and two comrades ran across fields and through the woods, and Boyd was captured by Col. Washburne only after an eight mile chase on horseback. It was ascertained that Boyd had his "mill" at Centralia, Illinois, and the government has now seized at that place a number of plates for the printing of $20, $50, $1,000, and $5,000 bills, together with a large lot of material and counterfeit national bank notes, ready for circulation This arrest is considered one of the most important ever made by the secret service, Boyd being regarded as the most skillful plate engraver in the counterfeiting business.

Monument Over President Lincoln's Remains Disfigured.

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 20.—By the ignorance or carelessness of some workmen engaged in the deep cut for a new railroad near the cemetery containing the remains of the late President Lincoln, the splendid monument over his remains was badly disfigured yesterday morning by the premature explosion of a can of nitro-glycerine. A great rent is visible from the upper west corner diagonally to the base, while a few stones are missing on the east corner. The workmen were using some nitro-glycerine on the huge rocks just outside the cemetery wall, and put in too great a charge, and the consequence was that things were considerably shaken, trees torn up, etc., and had it not been for the distance from the monument it would have been utterly ruined As it is, it can scarcely be repaired. This incident shows clearly the great danger in allowing workmen who are ignorant of its explosive properties the privilege of touching nitro-glycerine at all.

A Man Run over by a Train.

A horrible accident occurred about nine o'clock last night in the Pan Handle tunnel in this city. It appears that about that hour a train coming East struck a man at the mouth of the tunnel, and he was caught under the engine and dragged nearly to the depot. His hat and a portion of his head and brains were found near the spot where the train struck him and his body was discovered about midway between the green elevator and the depot.

The body was subsequently identified as that of a young man named James Dillon, aged twenty-three years, a brother of Thomas Dillon, a huckster, at whose house, No. 15 Third avenue, the deceased lived. The body was removed to the house of Mr. D., where an inquest will be held to-day. We could not learn how the unfortunate young man got in the way of the train.—Pittsburgh Commercial, 20d.

More Lynch Law.

LITTLE ROCK, October 20.—At St. Charles, on the White river, on Sunday morning while the sheriff of Arkansas county, with two prisoners, one a colored man named Carrigan, and the other a white man named Dugan, were waiting for the boat to take them to Clarendon a party of masked men, all well armed, seized the sheriff and posse and bound the two prisoners together. The mob fired and killed Dugan instantly and then separated. Dugan had been sentenced to be hung for the murder of Abab Inman, but having been granted a new trial his counsel proposed a change of venue to Monroe county, where the sheriff was taking the prisoners.
