Chinese Method of Propagating Trees.

The Chinese instead of raising fruit trees from seeds or grafts, adopt the following plan: selecting a tree of the species, which they wish to propagate, they fix on a branch, the removal of which will not injure or disfigure the tree by its removal. Around the branch and as near as they can, conveniently to its trunk, they wind a straw rope besmeared with cow dung, until a ball is formed five or six times the diameter of the branch; this is intended as a bed, into which the young roots may shoot.—Having performed this part of the operation, they immediately under the ball divide the bark down to the wood for nearly two-thirds the circumference of the branch. A cocoa-nut shell or small pot with a hole in the bottom is then hung over the branch. Into this hole a peg of soft wood is inserted, which can be so loosened as to admit of the slow dropping of the water on the ball. By this means it is kept continually moist. During the three succeeding weeks, nothing more is done to it, except to replenish the water in the shell when it is exhausted. At the expiration of that time, one-third of the remaining bark is cut off, and the former incision carried more deeply into the wood, as by this time, it is expected that some roots have struck into the rope, and giving their assistance in support of the branch. After a similar period, the operation is repeated, and in about two months from the commencement of the process, the roots may generally be seen intersecting each other, on the surface of the ball. The branch is then separated from the tree, which is done by sawing it off at the incision. Care must be taken not to shake off the rope, which by this time is generally, pretty rotten. The branch is then planted as a young tree.

The advantage claimed for this method is, that in the course of three or four years from the time the experiment is begun, the trees are in full bearing state, provided the branches operated on, are of considerable size. The spring season is the appropriate time for operating.

As vegetation within, is slower than in Europe, particularly in the south of China, a little longer time would perhaps be required to develope the roots sufficiently to fit the branch for transplanting.—Farmer and Gardener.

CHEAP WASH FOR WOOD COTTAGES.—For the outside of wooden cottages, barns, out buildings, fences, &c., where economy is important, the following wash is recommended:

Take a clean barrel that will hold water.—Put into it a half a bushel of quicklime, and slack it by pouring over it boiling water sufficient to cover it four or five inches deep and stirring it until slacked. When quite slacked dissolve in water, and add two pounds of sulphate of zinc, which may be had at any of the druggists, and which, in a few weeks, will cause the whitewash to harden on the woodwork. Add sufficient water to bring it to the consistency of thick white-wash. This wash is of coarse white and as white is a color which we think should never be used, except upon buildings a good deal surrounded by trees, so as to prevent its glare, we would make it a fawn, or a drab color before using it.

To make the above wash of a pleasing cream color, add 3 lbs. yellow ochre.

For fawn color, add 4 lbs. umber, 1 lb. Indian red, and 1 lb. lampblack.

For grey or stone color, add 4 lbs. raw umber and 3 lbs. lampblack.

The color may be put on with a common white-wash brush, and will be found much more durable than common white-wash, as the sulphate of zinc sets or hardens the white-wash.

FRICTION MATCHES.—About the best known pareparation for friction matches consists of gum arabic, 16 parts by weight; phosphorus, 9 parts; niter, 14; peroxyd of manganese, in powder, 16 parts. The gum is first made into a mucilage with water, then the manganese, then the phosphorus, and the whole is heated to about 130° Fah. When the phosphorus is melted, the niter is added, and the whole is thoroughly stirred until the mass is a uniform paste. The wooden matches prepared first with sulphur, are then dipped in this and afterwards dried in the air. Friction papers, for carrying in the pocket, may be made in the same manner, and by adding some gum benzoin to the mucilage they will have an agreeable odor when ignited.

CARRYING THE WHIP.—There is more in the movements of the driver of an ox-team, and in carrying of the whip than most farmers think. Oxen, however quick in their movements, or upright their walk in the yoke, soon become dull, and get the practice of "shoving" or "hauling" in consequence of the driver lagging along, or, as it often the practice, going ahead of his team, and from time to time stepping back and whipping them. A driver of an ox-team should walk directly opposite the yoke, walk straight, and carry his whip as upright as a soldier would his gun. Use a whip-stalk with a short lash, and touch the cattle only with the lash, and never strike them on the nose or over the eyes.—Ohio Farmer.

SPAVIN.—What will check a bone spavin or cure it when it first makes its appearance?

The best remedy for spavin, taken at the first symptoms, is rest. Turn the animal out to grass, if in summer, or give him a stable with a soft floor, or a warm yard if in winter. A cooling lotion may abate any inflamation; and may be made by mixing alcohol, vinegar and common salt, and applying it by means of a broad flat sponge, occasionally dipped in the liquid, and drawn around by a broad strip of tape sewed to it. Prevention is always better than a cure. Be sure never to breed from a diseased animal, and be sure never to strain the limbs of a young animal by hard work.

SWEET APPLE PUDDING.—Take one pint of scalded milk, half a pint of Indian meal, a teaspoonful of salt, and six sweet apples, cut into small peices, which afford an excellent rich jelly. This is one of the most luxuriant, yet simple puddings made.

PARISIAN MODE OF ROASTING APPLES.—Select the largest apples, scope out the core without cutting quite through fill the hollow with butter and fine soft sugar; let them roast in a slow oven, and serve up with syrup.

To the Citizens of New Jersey and Penn'a.

Wolfe's Pure Cognac Brandy.
Wolfe's Pure Maderia, Sherry and Port Wine.
Wolfe's Pure Jamaica and St. Croix Rum.
Wolfe's Pure Scotch and Irish Whiskey.

ALL IN BOTTLES.—I beg leave to call the citizens of the United States to the above Wines and Liquors imported by Udolpho Wolfe of New York, whose name is familiar in this country for the purity of his celebrated Scheidam schnapps. Mr. Wolfe, in his letter to me, speaking of the purity of his wines and Liquors, says: "I will stake my reputation as a man, my standing as a merchant of thirty years' residence in the City of New York, that that all the Brandies and wines which I bottle are pure as imported, and of the best quality, and can be relied upon by every purchaser." Every bottle has the proprietor's name on the wax, and a fac simile of his signature on the certificate. The public are respectfully invited to call and examine for themselves. For sale at Retail by all Apothecaries and Grocers in Philadelphia. GEORGE R. ASHTON,
No. 832 Market St., Philadelphia.
Sole Agent for Philadelphia.

Read the following from the New York Courier;

ENORMOUS BUSINESS FOR ONE NEW YORK MERCHANT.—We are happy to inform our fellow citizens that there is one place in our city where the physician, apothecary, and country merchant, can go and purchase pure wines and Liquors, as imported, and of the best quality. We do not intend to give an elaborate description of this merchan's extensive business, although it will well repay any stranger or citizen to visit Udolpho Wolfe's extensive warehouse, Nos. 18, 20, and 22 Beaver street, and Nos. 17, 19 and 21, Marketfield street. His stock of Schnapps on hand ready for shipment could not have been less than thirty thousand cases; the Brandy some ten thousand cases—Vintages of 1830 to 1856; and ten thousand bases of Madeira, Sherry and Port Wine, Scotch and Irish Whiskey, Jamaica and St. Croix Rum, some very old and equal to any in this country. He also had three large cellars, filled with Brandy, wine, &c., in Casks, under Custom House key, ready for bottling. Mr. Wolfe's sales of schnapps last year amounted to one hundred and eighty thousand dozen, and we hope that in less than two years he may be equally successful with his brandies and wines.

His business merits the patronage of every lover of his species. Private families who wish pure wines and Liquors for medical use, should send their orders direct to Mr. Wolfe until every apothecary in the land make up their minds to discard the poisonous stuff from their shelves, and replace it with Wolfe's pure wines and Liquors.

We understand Mr. Wolfe, for the accommodation of small dealers in the country, puts up assorted cases of wines and liquors. Such a man, and such a merchant, should be sustained against his tens of thousands of opponents in the United States who sell nothing but imitations, ruinous alike to human health and happiness. 6m6

IMPORTANT TO THE LADIES.

WASHING NO MORE A DRUDGE.

The undersigned would announce to the citizens of Tioga County, that they have purchased the right of manufacturing and selling which for simplicity of construction, utility and cheapness, exceeds any other machine in use. It needs no other recommendation than to see it work. A boy, ten or twelve years of age, can do the washing of a family IN AN HOUR. Any person in want of a good labor-saving washing machine, can take one of these home and do their washing with it, and if not perfectly satisfied, they can return it.

Recollect, this machine is no humbug, but an article indispensable in every family. It does not wear or tear the clothes to pieces like hand washing.

Were we a Dow, Jr., or some great man with a vocabulary that would reach to the Rocky Mountains, then we might be able to tell you one half of our extensive variety of Fall and Winter Goods. As for prices there is no use in talking. We sell so low we are often afraid folks may think that we steal our goods. But do not be afraid, friends. Come one and all, and you shall see what you shall see. If your eye-sight is poor, don't forget your spectacles. We will show you the beauty of nature, boiled down in the kettle of arts and sciences, and manufactured into this immense stock of goods. Recollect, we will allow none to surpass dersell us.

All kinds of Produce taken in exchange for Goods.

S. L. AVERY'S PATENT IMPROVED WINDLASS.

PATENTED MAY 8, 1860.—The object of this invention is to apply a brake to a windlass in such a manner that articles attached to the windlass, and raised by it, may be lowered with facility, the hitherto slow and tedious manual reverse movement of the windlass being avoided, and the inventor at the same time admitting of the operator having complete control over the descending movement of the article being lowered. The invention is applicable to various purposes; its use in connection with wells may be mentioned as an instance, in which the buckets, after being raised and emptied, may be easily lowered, and their movement retarded at the proper time so that they will not violently strike the water.—Scientific American.

For the purpose of Raising and Lowering Buckets in Wells, it is decidedly

THE GREATEST IMPROVEMENT OF THE AGE

The Brake acts as a check upon the backward motion of the bucket, without turning the crank, (the crank acting as a brake, by pressing inward at the bark). All who examine this machine, will at once acknowledge its

PRACTICABILITY AND SUPERIORITY

Over every other machine in use. The operation of the windlass is easily controlled with, and required by ONE HAND. It combines all the advantages of the old fashioned with the self-emptying bucket, and also many new and useful improvements. It can be adapted to wells of any depth, and will raise easily, with ordinary turning, Five Buckets of water per minute from wells of ordinary depth, and in the same proportion to the depth of two hundred feet.

The windlass and brake is also applicable to raising and lowering any kind of weight, and in every respect is far superior to those heretofore in use.

Having purchased the right for the Counties of Tioga and Potter, Pa., the undersigned are prepared to offer for sale township rights for the manufacture and sale of the above improvement, on reasonable terms.
