UNCERTAIN. New York...

In this table it will be observed that we place Mississippi and Louisiana, both Republican under ordinary circumstances, in the Democratic column, it is extremely doubtful whether the colored vote, opposed as it is by a policy of oniet but effective ostracism which the Federal authority is powerless to counteract, will be polled in either State this autumn. West Virginia, on the other hand, hitherto supposed to be certainly Democratic, we feel warranted, from the favorable progress recently reported in the canvass, in ranking with the doubtful States. Of the (ninety) votes which these possess, Hayes, it will be seen needs but twenty-five to elect, while Tilden requires seventyfour. New York alone, or Indiana and North Carolina, or New Jersey. California, Connectleut, and Florida going Republican would insure the election of Hayes, but the Democrats cannot win without New York and at least four of the remaining seven States, ner afford to lose Indiana and any other State, or North Carolina and any other two. This, of course, supposes the Democrats able to carry the States we have formally marked as theirs; but if, as is possible, Missis-slppi and Lauislana should between this date and the November election be recovered the colored voters a Democratic victory would, of course, be out of the question. All present calculations, however, necessarily depend more or less upon the result of the preliminary election, not simply for a test of the political current, but for their own intrinsic value. Thus, of the States which we have denominated uncertain, Indiana, California, and West Virginia, will vote before November, and their voice will in all probability decide the sentiment of "No half-way measures will now answer. The people feel that an act of despotism has been attempted which has connection with mysteri ous actions of the past. The coming convention must tear off the veil, show why Tilden claimed the right to name his successor, why Tweed was re-leased, and why Tweed's old partners are now Tilden's most ardent sup-porters. Tilden packed the April con-vention, even by the exercise of military power in the various districts, as was attested to by Erastus Brooks. He dare not undertake the same thing for Saratoga. . The result was that the Saratoga Convention was anti-Tilden and refused to nominate Dorsheimer, whom Tilden demanded should be nominated. To carry out his schemes his minions nominated a candidate for Governor who they knew would not accept the place if elected to it, so that the vacancy might be filled by elevating the Lieutenant Governor to his place."—Brooklyn Argus, Democrat.

I bought a box of Swayne's Cintment; its use gave quick relief, and in a short time made a perfect cure. I can now sleep undisturbed, and I would advise all who are suffering with this distressing complaint to procure Swayne's Cintment at once. I had tried prescriptions almost innumerable, without finding and permenent relief.
