BACCALAUREATES TO BOTH '14 CLASSES

Tech High Boys Addressed by Rev. Herman; Central Seniors Hear Dr. Smith

While Technical High School students of the graduating class heard in Zion Lutheran church yesterday morning a baccalaureate sermon by the Rev. S. Winfield Herman, advising them of the fleetness of youth, in the evening Central High School students who are to be graduated soon, heard the Rev. J. Ritchie Smith speak on the possibilities and methods of overcoming obstacles and temptations in the fight against the world, and winning the battle however short it may be.

"Youth, when it departs
Takes something from our hearts
And it never comes again—" the Rev. Herman impressed upon the Tech class. "Use youth," he said, "realize that this period of life, when time seems endless, is the great time of life to form habits.

"A young man rarely thinks of what youth really is. He is much like the butterfly who flies about resting a few moments only at one place. The assets of life necessary to attain the good, the true and beautiful which make up success are youth, vigor, optimism, endurance, enthusiasm, freedom from worry, sensibility to religion. The liabilities of life of which youth should early take note spring from intemperance, impurity and cruelty. Lax morals, servile imitation and extreme recklessness result."

Special music attended the services. The church was adorned with flowers provided by the graduating class in memory of members of Tech alumni who have passed away. These were: Edward Rose, '98; Raymond Morrison, '10; Leroy Young, '10; and William Jauss, '12.

In the evening Central High graduating class with 140 present went to Market Square Presbyterian church, where the big auditorium was crowded in nave and gallery and flowers and special music brightened the services that centered around Dr. Smith's sermon. The graduating class did not, as heretofore, proceed to the church in a body but met at the church and walked down the aisle in cap and gown. Dr. Smith's words concerned the battle of life that the students are about to face. He said their first battles will be with their fellow men, themselves and the devil. It is in the every day battles, the conquest of little things, he said, that we proceed to the conquest of larger things if such is our lot.

To Address Graduates.—The Rev. Dr. Thomas Reisch, Christ Lutheran church, will address the graduates of Susquehanna at Selinsgrove Wednesday. He will leave on Monday to attend a directors' meeting.

500 Entries For Hogestown Horse and Cattle Show

Special to The Telegraph

Hogestown, Pa., June 8.—More than 500 entries for exhibits were received up to Saturday evening in the Hogestown Horse and Cattle Show, at Big Head Woods, near Mechanicsburg, Wednesday and Thursday, June 17 and 18. This number of entries is the largest recorded in the ten years the show has been conducted.

The exhibits include registered horses and cattle, sheep, hogs, poultry, eggs and butter. A new feature of the show this year is a tent provided for small farm machinery, such as cream separators, butter churns and other dairy appliances and gasoline engines, as well as field machinery of a size permissible in the limited space of the exhibition grounds.

FARMER ROBBED BY TRICK

Special to The Telegraph

Dillsburg, Pa., June 8.—Charles Billett, who occupies the McCormick farm at Rose Garden was robbed of over one hundred dollars in an odd way recently. Late in the evening Mr. Billett hearing a noise at the barn, made an investigation, where he found that one of the horses had been turned loose from the stable. After catching and returning the horse to its stall, he went to the house and discovered that some one had been there and the money was gone. There is no clue to the robbers.
