READING DECLINES DESPITE DIVIDEND

Prominent Issues Affected in Lesser Degree Include Pacifics and U. S. Steel

New York, March 18. — The feature of to-day's early market was a one-point decline in Reading, despite the maintenance of the regular dividend. The stock was the most active of the leaders in the initial trading, and offerings suggested short selling rather than liquidation. Other prominent issues were affected in lesser degree, the Pacifics and United States Steel falling under yesterday's close. Coppers, American Smelting and motor shares and Mexican Petroleum were fractionally higher.
