"UNDER THE CLOUD AND THROUGH THE SEA."

[From the Atlantic Monthly, for September.]

So moved they, when false Pharaoh's legion pressed,
Chariots and horsemen following furiously—
Sons of old Israel, at their God's behest,
Under the cloud and through the swelling sea.

So passed they, fearless, where the parted wave,
With unseen crest uptowering from the sand,—
A solemn aisle before,—behind, a grave,—
Rolled to the beckoning of Jehovah's hand.

So led He them, in desert marches cleared,
By table enthrone, with foot of long delay,
On, to the borders of the Promised Land
Wherein their heritage of glory lay.

And Jordan raged along his rocky bed,
And Amorite spears flashed hoon and fiercefully;
Still the same pathway must their footsteps tread,—
Under the cloud and through the threatening sea.

God works no other way. No mighty birth
But comes by throes of mortal agony;
No manchild among nations of the earth
But maketh baptism in a stormy sea.

Sons of the saints who faced their Jordan flood
In fierce Atlantic's unrestraining wave,—
Who by the Red Sea of their glorious blood
Reached to the Freedom that your blood shall save!

O Countrymen! God's day is not yet done!
He leaveth not His people utterly!
Count it a covenant, that He leads on
Beneath the Cloud and through the crimson Sea!

The Secession sheets North do more to discourage the Union element in the South and embolden the traitors, than casual observers may be willing to admit. The Southern Unionists keenly feel this, and complain at its toleration by the North. The Frankfort (Ky.) Commonwealth says:

"A Southern traitor has ambition and whisky for excuses, but a Northern traitor is a natural tory and toady. The New York News, the New York Day Book, the Cincinnati Enquirer, and a few other Northern papers of that stripe, are doing more to foster and prolong this rebellion than all the fanatics and Disunion papers combined."

Rev. C. A. Hay of Harrisburg, on Sunday made a stirring appeal to his congregation of the Lutheran church, on the subject of Taxation to support the struggle for the vindication of the Union. The Reverend gentleman was truly eloquent in his description of the difference betwen mere Wealth, and the possession of that Freedom which secures to us every social and political blessing. In comparison with liberty, there was nothing that was too valuable, too dear, to be sacrificed. Our honor, our fortune, and our lives, all sink into insignificance when compared with our independence.

The late accounts from St. Domingo say the war between Spain and Hayti is at an end, and that the Spanish authorities declare slavery forever abolished in their part of the island, and threaten with severe penalties all who may attempt to reinstate the system.

An exchange happily styles the present struggle "a war of Redemption." And is it not? It is waged for the purpose of redeeming nearly half the Union from the foul tread of treason and the death grip of secession! What crusade was ever so holy, and who can doubt the issue?

It is now stated by painters who have tried it, that the naptha, or benzole, as it is generally called, taken from the petroleum oil, is equally as good, and on some accounts better than the turpentine, and we observe by the Pennsylvania and Ohio papers is in general use by all painters.

Gen. Pillow has confiscated Artemus Ward's "whacks figgers." The "show" was on board a little boat bound to Cairo.

A MERCER'S Coal Oil No Chimney Hand Lamp. The following are some of its advantages:

1st. Dispense with the chimney, which is expensive and inconvenient.

2d. The light is at once accessible for lighting and kindling purposes.

3d. Burns less oil than the chimney lamp.

4th. Burns the different grades and qualities of coal and carbon oils, from a density of 35 and upward.

5th. Can be carried around with about the same facilities as a candle.

6th. Length of time in burning increases the quality of the oil. The lamp may be turned a week without trimming and will not smoke.

The burners can be attached to any lamp, so that persons having lamps need only change the burners.
