PITTSBURGH: SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 1.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT NEWS.

WASHINGTON, May 29, 1861.

An Important Question.

The question of the recognition of "belligerent rights," has a home side as well as a foreign one. What shall we do with our prisoners? is now an important question. Our scouts are daily picking up men who prove to have disunion sentiments, and already the number taken exceeds one hundred. The rebels are capturing Union men, claiming that the Government will exchange prisoners, and that by having a sufficient number they will be able to secure the release of the thirty-six rebels captured at Alexandria.

Here is the embarrassment. If the Government treat these men as rebels taken in arms against the Government, they should be hung. This would not be deemed good policy, even did not humanity revolt against such a sacrifice of human life. On the other side, if the system of exchanges be adopted, there is in the act a recognition of the rebels as belligerents according to all laws of nations.

The Cabinet has discussed this point several times without coming to any result, but it is probable that in the end the minor rebels will be discharged on parole, and the leaders only hung.

The Peculiar Institution.

Still another troublesome point to decide, is what to do with the "peculiar institution." It was alleged that the negroes of the South would follow their masters to the death. Our experience thus far does not justify this declaration. There was one negro deserted by his master at Alexandria, and there were twelve left on the Arlington estate. None of them evinced the slightest desire to run after their masters. They are, therefore, in a measure, the charge of the Government. It will be readily understood that we cannot be long incumbered with such a charge, and as the masters are flying from the wrath to come, we are likely to have more chattels than it will be possible for us to take care of, if, we still profess to hold them in bondage. The Government has no desire to interfere with private property, and will not, but it cannot be expected that the Government will take the place of owners, when owners abandon their property.

The Attack on Washington.

A friend of Jefferson Davis writes that his purpose, not long since, was to postpone the intended attack upon Washington until July, thinking that there would occur an interval between the three months and the three years' men, the former having become tired of camp-life and homesick, and the latter being still undisciplined. But Jeff. Davis overlooked three considerations—that a good chance fight is the homesickness out of a Northerner; that the three years' men would be called into service before the three months were up, and would be drilling meantime; and that a forward movement, such as is now taking place, would materially affect the position of Washington from a military point of view, and force the foe to attend to several other matters before capturing the Federal Capital.

Virginia.

The rebel forces at Manassas Gap Junction are still engaged in throwing spearheadwise commanding the railroad tracks for about a mile. They are not very extensive, however, being only some two hundred feet square. The troops there are understood to be under the command of Col. Bonham, late member of Congress from South Carolina. It is understood also that a South Carolina regiment has moved up the road to Centreville, in Fairfax county, in anticipation of an attempt on the part of the Federal troops to cut off communication with Harper's Ferry. Gen. McDowell, on Tuesday, assigned to the command of the Federal forces in Virginia, will no doubt form a master acquaintance with their ways. He has no particular place fixed upon for his Head quarters, they being at present removable according to circumstances, and he will, of course, pick upon Centreville as a suitable locality.

Harper's Ferry.

Government has received additional information to day that the rebel troops have burned the bridges west of Harper's Ferry, on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. This was done under the impression of an immediate advance of Federal troops.

Colonel Lamon read a letter to-day from the vicinity of Harper's Ferry, stating that two Lieutenants in the rebel army had resigned, having become utterly disgusted with affairs there. The troops are poorly fed, and have received no pay. It is not at all improbable that they will evacuate on the first appearance of a Federal force.

Confiscation of Rebel Property.

The question as to what shall be done with the property of the rebel leaders, is also being discussed, but as yet only incidentally. The Arlington estate belongs to Lee, the rebel commander in Richmond, and is probably the most valuable property in Virginia. Apart from the negroes, it would probably sell for a quarter of a million of dollars. The confiscation and sale of this property would probably do quite as much to restore the eastern part of Virginia to its allegiance to the Government as any one act that could be done, and there seems no good reason why it should not be subjected to the laws.

Will there be Work?

The general belief is, that so comprehensive and detailed are the preparations of the Government, that no very great or bloody battles can be fought. Our opponents will be placed hors de combat before they know it, and time rather than blood will be spent. In Lincoln and Scott the country has a treasure, the value of which it would be difficult to estimate.

A Movement upon Memphis.

Eighty thousand troops will rendezvous at Cairo for an immediate movement upon Memphis. The Government are now putting forth all their vigor, and will urge the campaign to the lowest point of latitude consistent with climate and the epidemics of August and September, without, perhaps, any formal proclamation for an additional enlistment for the number of forces needed. The only hindrance is the difficulty of rapidly accumulating sufficient quantities of subsistence and transportation for sudden and swift movements.

The Effect of Col. Ellsworth's Murder.

A South Carolina lady, recently arrived in New York, who has heretofore held to the South, writes to her husband here, as follows: "If my our Government now, for, since they shot Ellsworth, I want to fight too, and if I were one of the Zouaves I do believe I would kill every secessionist I met with, but what I would revenge his death. I am no Southern Rebel now. The Union for ever, say I."

Frank Blair Ordered to Fortress Monroe.

The regiment of volunteers at St. Louis, commanded by Colonel Frank P. Blair, Jr., has been ordered to Fortress Monroe. This shows that is the opinion of the Administration the rebel cause is already disposed of in Missouri.

Lieut. Slemmer and Fort Pickens.

Lieut. Slemmer has arrived here from Fort Pickens. He reports the officers and men in the highest spirits, and able to hold the fortress against any force that will be brought against it. The garrison numbers about 1,000, and the rebel forces, under Gen. Bragg, he estimates at about 6,000. The courage and fidelity of Lieutenant Slemmer makes him an object of general attention.

General Fremont's Division.

It is understood that Major General Fremont, will be assigned to the command of the Western Division of the Army, to operate in the Mississippi Valley.

The Movement by Gen. Butler.

We are informed by Gen. Ashley, of Ohio, who has just arrived from Fortress Monroe, that Gen. Butler, is crossing to New Point, at the mouth of James River, acted on his own responsibility, and without orders from the General-in-Chief, as he did in occupying Federal Hill, in Baltimore.

The Extra Session of Congress.

In anticipation of the opening of Congress, the Chairman of the Committees in the Senate and a number of the prominent members of the House will be here some time about the 20th of June, to consult upon the business of the session. It is believed that after the session has begun all may be transacted in two days; only three bills will be required, viz: an Army bill, a Navy bill, and a Loan bill, and, if the project of disposing of the whole in secret session is adopted, as most probably it will be, the members need not be detained here longer than the time specified. Certainly, under the circumstances, when action and not talk is what is needed, this proposition to do the whole business in secret session is worthy of the most careful consideration.

The President's Message.

The President has commenced writing his message. He is so constantly interrupted by business and by visitors, who monopolize his time from early morning till midnight, that he says he shall be fortunate if he gets time to finish the Message before the 4th of July. The President is firm and determined about the war. The word being now with him, "forward!" at the double quick!"

Foreign.

No official dispatches were received by the last steamer from the new American Ministers at London and Paris, Messrs. Adams and Dayton, but from the nature of the private advices received by the Administration, there is reason to believe that the views of the British Government have become considerably modified, and that it is rapidly becoming cured of its apparent penchant for rebellion, even when Cotton stands behind it, or is supposed to do so. It is likely that official advices will be received, both from London and Paris, by the next steamer.

Mr. Cameron.

No wonder that the Secretary is ill. He has labored like a dray-horse since his appearance at his desk, and had but begun to get things in order, when reports of peculation, of thieving, of dishonest contracts and money-making Governors, were brought to his ears, and the incessant labor which was consequent upon a desire to rearrange these matters zapped what little strength was left him and he gave out. It is to be hoped that his impending visit of investigation and reform in your city will not quite finish him.

In this connection, I will state that the report concerning Miss Cameron's engagement to General Sprague is false—Miss Chase is the lady who will make happy the home of the youthful millionaire. —Cor. of Sun.

Miscellaneous.

W. D. Massey, who has been appointed postmaster at Alexandria, declared in presence of all the secessionists at the polls that he was going to vote for the Union, if he died on the spot. Mr. McKenzie, an influential citizen, and President of the Orange and Alexandria railroad, followed his example.

The determination of Judge Taney to report to the President the result of his endeavor to break down the Federal Government, is a discreet way of getting out of the trouble. The President will doubtless take proper time to deliberate upon the matter. Probably the demands of the moment may prevent his affording Judge Taney an opportunity for another display of his transcendent purposes.

President Lincoln and Secretary Seward to-day visited the camp of the New Jersey Volunteers. The troops were at work in the trenches, and so satisfied with spades instead of muskets. This is the first time Mr. Lincoln has made a visit to Virginia since that State resumed sovereignty. He will visit other camps to-day. The President and Secretary were loudly cheered by the men wherever they were recognized.

The Seventh will return home on Friday, unless unforeseen occurrences shall transpire to prevent it.

Capt. Germain, of the Yankee, reports that the calcium light on Fort Monroe is up and in excellent working order. It was used on Friday night last during the disembarkation of troops with fine effect. Its rays thrown upon Sewall's Point batteries, so illuminated the point that any movements around it can be seen in the darkest night.

Miss Dix has left for Fort Monroe, to attend to the sick and wounded. This seems as though a brush were contemplated soon.

Some amusement was created in the Department of the Interior, to-day, when Dr. Sparks, one of the Examiners, opened and read an application from John Hodenheimer, for a Bounty Land Warrant, for services in the Black-Hawk war, as private in Capt. Abram Lincoln's company.

Proposals for a Loan of $3,000,000 to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

In pursuance of the first section of an Act of the General Assembly, entitled "an Act to create a loan and provide for arming the State," approved May 15th, A. D. 1861, and the sixth section of the Act entitled "an Act to provide for the payment of the members, officers and contingent expenses of the Extra Session of the Legislature," approved May 16th, A. D. 1861, and by the authority of the same,

NOTICE is hereby given that proposals will be received at the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, until three o'clock P. M. of Wednesday, the fifth day of June next, for the loaning to the Commonwealth the sum of THREE MILLIONS OF DOLLARS, for the purposes set forth in the before named Acts of Assembly. The said loan to bear an interest of six per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually in Philadelphia, and the loan to be redeemable in ten years from date; and for the payment of the interest and liquidation of the principal thereof, a special tax of one-half mill on the dollar has been directed to be levied on all the property in the Commonwealth taxable for State purposes. The certificates of loan shall not be subject to taxation for any purpose whatever; and all certificates of the denomination of one hundred dollars or less shall have coupons attached; those of a larger denomination will be issued either as inscription or coupon bonds, at the option of the bidder.

The proposals must state explicitly the amount proposed to be taken and the rate to be paid. The State reserves the right to accept the whole or any part of the amount offered to be taken unless the proposer stipulates otherwise. No conditional proposals will be considered.

Upon the acceptance of any proposal at least ten per cent. of the amount must be paid down, the balance, if preferred by the bidder, in thirty and sixty days, when certificates shall issue for the same, bearing interest from the time of the payment.

The proposals must be directed under seal to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, endorsed "Proposals for Loan."

The bids will be opened at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the day above named in the presence of the Governor, State Treasurer and Auditor General and such other persons as may see proper to be present, when, after examination of the same the Governor will award the loan to the highest bidder or bidders.

By order of the Governor.

ELI SLIFER, Secretary of the Commonwealth.
