PITTSBURGH,

SATURDAY MORNING, NOV. 23, 1861.

Republican Union City Conventions.

The Republican electors of the city of Pittsburgh, and all others in favor of supporting the Administration in the vigorous prosecution of the war for the speedy success of the National Union, are requested to meet in their respective election districts, on SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 30th, 1861, between the hours of 6 and 7 o'clock, p. m., and elect five delegates from each Ward to the City Convention, which will meet at the Court House, on TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3d, at 10 o'clock a. m., to nominate candidates for Mayor, City Controller and Treasurer.

THOS. F. WILSON, Chairman
GEO. W. LEGARD, Secretary.

Pittsburgh Weekly Gazette.

THE WEEKLY GAZETTE, published this morning, contains Letters from Hilton Head, S. C; Movements of the Army in Kentucky; of the progress of events in Missouri, around Washington, the Upper Potomac, and the latest news by telegraph and mail from all important points.

A Rod in Steep.

On Thursday the Pittsburgh Post ran a fit at the GAZETTE, and gave one of the most illustrations of stupidity that we have lately met with. Not satisfied with one such congenial exercise of its leaden faculties, it comes out on Friday morning again with brass in the ascendant. Naturally enough this may appear to the Post as going a step higher; for the resonance of the livlier metal may have an appreciation which the mere weight of the duller one cannot always win for itself—even from its best friends and admirers. But impudence is no better than stupidity—the appreciation and practice of the Post to the contrary notwithstanding—and therefore the Post of Friday was no advance on the Post, of Thursday.

We noticed, yesterday, its foolish and stupid perpetration of Thursday, because we could do so without pricking the bubble of its lately-blown loyalty to the Government—which bubble is so pleasant and harmless a thing, and so pretty withal, as it changes chameleon-like in the sunshine of a little patronage, that we would not without great reluctance make the slightest puncture with pen or pencil for the present.

But though we will not turn our pen—nay, not even a black-lead pencil—point-edly towards it, we may be provoked some day, by "sandacity," to use one or other of those little weapons as a kind of rod,—not to strike at this pretty bubble, for that would be just as bad for it as a stab, or rather a puncture, which is the right word for what the mere point of a bodkin would do,—but just to wave over it a little, that by the motion of the air thereby produced, it may be admonished gently, without incurring the danger of a collapse. It has made a record of the phases of its loyalty, as well as of the drivellings of its stupidity, and if we preferred, yesterday, to make a little note of the latter, it was because the day brought it forth, as indeed it is an every day affair with our neighbor; but for the former, the loyalty we mean, we should have to go back several months for a good effective contrast of colors. The Post's own files, however, will supply this contrast in any quantity to the curious explorer in the natural history of this species of political chameleons.

The Post's loyalty, self-asserted and sustained by the notes of its own well-blown trumpet, but not very obvious otherwise, it would fain provoke us to notice, by its article of Friday; but we are even obstinately bent on noticing it only very gently, or not at all, for the present—for the reason given above, and because that quality in the Post has been more than once, to say the least, questionable. We noticed its stupidity, on Thursday, because that quality, so obvious in the example of that day, has not merely for once, but once and always, been unquestionable—and therefore requiring but little to be said—that is, as few words as possible to be wasted.

Opening of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The Wheeling Intelligencer says that freight trains on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad now run to Green Springs, thirteen miles east of Cumberland. The passenger trains only go to Cumberland, but all freight destined for Romney goes to Green Springs.

This is but the first step towards the end which both the Government and the Company are preparing for, namely, the early opening of the entire line. From the Baltimore papers we learn that the rebuilding of the bridges destroyed by the rebels, and other works of reparation, are being carried on with all diligence by the company, so that the eastern division is promised to be ready for opening very shortly. The middle section may be cleared of the rebels that yet infest the region through which it passes, without any great difficulty. In fact, the work of clearance has already, in a good part, been accomplished, and General Kelley no doubt only awaits orders from Washington to complete what remains. A correspondent of the paper which we quoted above says:

"Recent military operations and events have so far crippled the strength of the rebels in Northern Virginia, and contracted the limits of their territory that the reopening of the entire line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad seems no longer to be an impossible, or even a very difficult, undertaking; and public sentiment is already beginning to demand that our government put forth its energies to accomplish this desirable result.

Gen. Kelley's recent successful advance upon, and occupancy of Romney, is one important step already taken towards accomplishing this result. From his present position, he now holds possession of the road as far east as Green Spring.

With a small additional force, he can extend his control of it, to Hancock, forty-one miles farther east, thereby reducing the section of the road under rebel control, to only fifty-three miles.

The dislodgement of the rebels from Martinsburg and Harper's Ferry, and the occupancy of these places by our troops, effectually controls this intervening section of the road, and secures the opening of the entire line."

A Rebel Surgeon's Account.

A letter from a rebel surgeon, to his uncle, found among the papers in Fort Walker when it was captured, gives the following account of the sickness and distress in General Lee's army in Virginia. The writer is Surgeon in a South Carolina regiment in Western Virginia, and the letter was directed to Dr. Buist, who was the rebel Surgeon at Fort Walker:

Well, at the end of seven days' marching, countermarching, and starvation, we got back to Valley Mountain, the whole affair having proved a failure—in the opinion of our brigade chiefly from the old fogyism and want of pluck among the Virginians. Never were men more sick of Virginia and Virginians than we are. Shortly after this it was found that Rosecrans was pressing Floyd from the Kanawha, so our broken down and demolished army was drawn back from Valley Mountain and sent down to Floyd's assistance. The sick and disabled, which constitutes two-thirds of the whole, were first moved back 30 miles; over an almost perfectly impassable road—a road, at least, over which two mules could only go four miles a day with two sick men in the wagon. I was sent from there, with 150 of our sick, to the Springs, or Bath Alum, but when I arrived there, I found both places crowded, and had to go five miles farther to the Hot. Here I have been a week. I was the first to get here, and consequently had to open the place for a hospital. Since then, the sick of four other regiments have been sent here and the place is now crowded to its utmost capacity—making in all 400. I have the entire control here, and am worked day and night, there being no other physician here. Part of the sick of Lee's North Carolina regiment are under my charge, and such a spectacle as they present would make your heart sick. Colonel, Lieutenant Colonel, Major and both Doctors are sick, I learn, and the men are dying like sheep. Out of one thousand two hundred, rank and file, there are now only three hundred fit for service. Their condition is deplorable. Our regiment is more fortunate than any, having had only five deaths since our arrival in Western Virginia. My regiment is now some seventy miles from here, and I understand is about to engage Rosecrans. I ought to be there, but all the doctors are sick or playing possum, I don't know which.

I am getting worn out. I would give a great deal for a little rest. The fact is I am barefooted and without any winter clothes. Some kind lady in Nashville, sent me a few pairs of socks without which I would now be sockless. I have written several times to Nashville, but can receive no answer. I have got no money, not having got any from the government since we were in the service, and even if I had, there is no place to buy clothes up here. This is a beautiful location, and the proprietor is kind and liberal—a character not often found in these parts. I heard of Dr. Seguin, of your city, being up in our army, but I think he was taken sick shortly after his arrival, and has left. If there are any kindly disposed doctors among you who may wish to test their faith in secession, let them come here; we can give them plenty of work, very little to eat and less to wear. I should like to hear of, and from my friends in South Carolina, but I don't know how to tell you to direct. Better send to Nashville to Dr. Bailey, or R. B. Snowden & Co.'s care, and they will forward. My love to Edward and all the family, and believe me your's affectionately,

J. R. BUIST.

From Kentucky—Late from Gen. McCook's Headquarters.

A correspondent, writing from Nolin, Ky., says that reports from Bowling Green and below continue conflicting. Parties recently escaped from the rebel lines, represent Buckner's force as somewhat smaller than has been latterly supposed in what are denominated "military circles," and confirm my often expressed suspicion, that the numbers of the rebels have as usual been exaggerated. Among recent refugee arrivals is a gentleman direct from New Orleans, who states that the rebels have concentrated from thirty to fifty thousand troops there (always take the smaller figure) to repel an expected attack from a naval expedition. He agrees with the other arrivals and with the late Southern papers in representing the rebels at Bowling Green as enjoying a sort of "Forward to Richmond" excitement. The general cry of the camp is "Forward to Louisville." Meanwhile suspicions begin to be entertained here that their Generals contemplate a different plan; that their forward movement will diverge more to the eastward (if it come at all) and that they desire to profit by the aid and comfort the "Blue Grass" offers them. The writer adds:

Meanwhile we have four distinct columns of national troops in Gen. Buell's department—those of Gen. Nelson, somewhere on the Big Sandy; Gen. Thomas, at Camp Dick Robinson and beyond; Gen. McCook, at Nolin; and Gen. Crittenden, in the lower Green River Valley. There may, of course, be little skirmishes almost anywhere through the State, where secessionists and Union men become warm enough to prove their faith by their works; but there is no possibility of any important collision in Kentucky excepting on the Bowling Green line. When that collision shall come would seem, thus far, to rest with our Generals to determine.

Such is the condition in which Gen. Buell finds matters in Kentucky. He has plenty of troops to sweep down the railroad to Nashville; of plenty to seize the Cumberland Gap, and break the connection on the East Tennessee and Lynchburg Railroad; or he may, perhaps, have plenty for simultaneous movements to attain both these desirable ends. Assuredly, he has not enough to keep one column opposite the Bowling Green force, another lying miscellaneously around the country towards Cumberland Gap, another on the Lower Green River Valley, or two or three more at points where the rebels may find it convenient to create diversions. In other words, the play is up in Kentucky, the game is all in our own hands.—Louisville Journal.

A Patriotic Father.

The Rev. Dr. Alexander Jones, rector of St. Peter's Church at Perth Amboy, N. J., is a native of Charleston, S. C., and was for many years the pastor of an Episcopal Church in Virginia. He has six sons born in the South, who are all serving in the rebel army of the Potomac. Dr. Jones himself, however, notwithstanding the treason of his children, is a most devoted and thorough going Union man. He read from his pulpit the recent circular of President Lincoln and Lieutenant General Scott asking the loyal women of the country to assert themselves in behalf of the army hospitals, and after commending the work to his congregation, said, with marked emphasis, that it was peculiarly incumbent on him who had so many sons fighting to destroy the best and noblest government that the earth ever saw, to do what he could to support that government, and to atone for the wrong done by his children. In conclusion, the reverend doctor, lifting up his hand and voice, exclaimed, with energy and feeling: "May the Star-Spangled-Banner float in triumph over every part of this land, even though"—he added in a lower tone—"it shall float over the field where my six sons are lying." In view of all the circumstances, we think it would be hard to find on record a higher expression of patriotism than this.—Newark Advertiser.

Rebel Commissioners.

Colonel Forney writes from Washington to the Philadelphia Press:

"The consternation which has overtaken the southern rebellious sympathizers on account of the arrest of Mason and Slidell fully equals the feeling which this event will create in those now awaiting them in Paris and London. Mum, Yancey and Rost were boasting that when these plenipotentiaries reached foreign shores the question of recognising the Southern Confederacy would be speedily settled. Slidell has so many foreign connections, by means of his financial relations in this country, that he could have produced a considerable diversion against us. If his confidential agent, Frank P. Corbin, has been enabled to escape from Canada, where he has been held for some months past to avoid capture by our detectives, he will undoubtedly have prepared a rare feast for these traitors. What woful disappointment their seizure on the high seas will be to Corbin and his associates."

ESCAPE OF A MEMBER OF CONGRESS.—The Wheeling (Va.) Press, of November 19th, says:

On Sunday, our friend Whaley reached his home at Cerredo, having escaped from Jenkin's men, by whom he was reported to have been killed last week. Mr. Whaley was taken by his captors from Guyandotte, back one hundred miles to their encampment, in Logan county, and placed under a guard of two men. In the night his guards fell asleep and Whaley escaped. He swam the Big Sandy, and, though hotly pursued, succeeded in eluding the infernal rascals, who several times passed him in the chase. By skulking in the woods, and making good time in the by-paths when the coast seemed clear, he managed to make his way to Catlettsburg, Ky., where he was warmly greeted. Thence he went directly to Cerredo, and by his personal presence refuted the rumors of his assassination.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL ANY.—NEWSPAPER SHERMAN, while on a visit to this city in June last, was called upon at the Burnet House, by a citizen of Cincinnati—a practical artillerist—who desired to tender his services to the Government. In response to a statement made by this gentleman, to the effect that a cannon had been invented that would do good execution at three miles, the lately superseded "regular" said: "Sir, it's no such thing—there ain't a cannon in the world that will carry two miles. It's all a newspaper lie, sir."

CURL YOUR HAIR!

BEAUTIFY YOURSELF,

BY USING

CHAPPELL'S HYPERION,

FOR CURLING THE HAIR.

The Ladies and Gentlemen throughout the world will be pleased to learn that I have recently discovered an article that will Curl the Hair.

By using CHAPPELL'S HYPERION, Ladies and Gentlemen can beautify themselves a thousand fold.

CHAPPELL'S HYPERION

Is the only article in the WORLD that will Curl straight Hair. The only article that will Curl the Hair

IN BEAUTIFUL CURLS
IN GLOSSY CURLS
IN SILKEN CURLS
IN FLAXEN CURLS
IN FLOWING CURLS
IN WAVING CURLS
IN LUXURIANT CURLS

It makes the Hair soft and glossy. It invigorates the Hair. It beautifies the Hair. It cleanses the Hair. It has a most delightful perfume.

IT PREVENTS THE HAIR FROM FALLING OFF, IN PARTICULAR TO THE SCALP. It is the only article ever yet discovered that will curl straight Hair in beautiful curls, without injury to the Hair or scalp.

The HYPERION does not in any manner interfere with the NATURAL SOFTNESS OF THE HAIR.

It neither scorches nor dries it. The HYPERION can be supplied as to cause the Hair to curl for one day, or for one week, or for one month, or any longer period desired.

The HYPERION is the only article in the world that can be comparlented or imitated by unprincipled persons. To prevent this, we do not offer it for sale at any Druggist's in the United States.

Therefore, any Lady or Gentleman who desires to beautify themselves by using the HYPERION, must inclose the PRICE, ONE DOLLAR, in a letter, and address

W. CHAPPELL & CO.,
Box 54,
Parkman, Geauga County, Ohio,

And it will be carefully sent by return mail.
