TO CORDELIA.

So may it then, now, well understand,
The long, long silence which has gone before,
Having at length avowal why and how
Courage or love—I know not which—
Had wanting voice of fit and worthy pitch
For uttering true and earnest words, whose force
Would sound like waters springing at a source!
I could not then do what were easy now—
Say to thee! O Cordelia! do thou
Be faithful in thy work;—let voice and hand
In their sweet harmony together plead—
Plead evermore—
For justice, mercy, truth!
Neither let Flattery, with perfumed breath,
Gloss thee with lies,—nor Passion's strain bewitch
Thy fresh susceptiveness and warmth of youth.
Above all else, keep pure thy early faith,
Nor let blind Worldliness thy way mislead,
Whose end is—wallowing in the common ditch,
Where foul, waste life flows stagnant down to death!

XIV.

But whether bringing peace or strife,
Seek, find, and keep the way of life!
Where Justice, Truth and Mercy stand,
Having on either hand
Stand thou!
Courage and Patience ever—ev'n as now;
And having Hope, above,
High as the heavens, yet such as thou dost found
Upon the rock of Faith—which is the ground
Thy life is built upon—and having Love
Breathing the soul of heaven into the air around.

XV.

By living thus—in all this fullness living—
Impulse to others thou will still be giving;
Thy living influence will be a life-renewer
To many dying souls—and even more
To some more dead—almost a life-bestower!
Which could'st not live a life of such a pitch,
And be a Dreamer only, not a Doer!
For, if the soul that makes us live is rich,
How should our life, and work in life be poor?
For, who that lives
Under God's heaven—
That feels his very life God-given—
Would need or make a moment's pause—
(Would say so much as 'Which?'
Or ev'n the shortest word that ever was?)—
Doubtful 'twixt such alternatives
As—whether to be a Dreamer or a Doer?

XVI.

Above all else, then, be an earnest liver!
In all thou hast be faithful to the Giver—
To whom thou shalt a full account deliver
Of all thy work at last!
—And, oh! I pray
That day to thee may be a joyful day!
And surely so it will be—if, in the less,
Thou wilt prepare for greater things—and bless
Thy future life by present faithfulness!

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

—The Independent says we understand that at the meeting of the Baptist Union, on Monday, a resolution was passed deprecating a merely demonstrational celebration of St. Bartholmew's Day, and it was resolved that a circular should be issued convening a conference of members of all denominations on the subject.

—A Methodist clergyman in Ware lately sued for the unpaid balance of his salary. The counsel for the defense took the ground that under the economy of Methodists nothing was legally due him; that the minister was sent to the appointment of labor by the proper authority, not called by the people of the circuit or station; that all payments under such circumstances were voluntary and not the result of a legal agreement binding both sides. The court decided that the grounds of the defense were correct, and that the clergyman could not recover.

—At the annual meeting of the Synod of the Scottish Episcopal United Diocese of St. Andrews, Dunkeld, and Dumblane, held at Dumblane, Scotland, the Bishop in his charge to the clergy argued that the Episcopal system of church government, apart from Scriptural considerations, was better adapted to the wants of a mixed society than Presbyterianism, which in Scotland had failed to attract the upper classes.

—It is very gratifying to record the fact that the few Protestant Slavi of Austria are very active in promoting the interests of evangelical Christianity in the great Slavic race. At Prague, the first Protestant Slavic journal has been established this year, and has already done good service in aiding the Protestant movement in Bohemia.

—Henry Ward Beecher has assumed the Editorial management of the Independent. The Salutatory of the new editor appears in the issue of the 19th inst., in which we are informed the Independent was founded to illustrate and to defend the truths and principles of the Christian Religion. For the future, studying a catholic sympathy with all who love our Lord Jesus Christ, and seeking to promote concord among all Christians of every name. The Independent will still continue explicitly and firmly to hold and to teach those great cardinal doctrines of religion that are substantially held in common by the Congregational Orthodox churches of New England, and by the Presbyterian churches of our whole land. But, as heretofore, this will be done for the promotion of vital godliness rather than for sectionalism.

—The Rev. N. S. Falsom, who turned from the Unitarian to the Orthodox Congregationalists in September last, has gone back to the Unitarians.

—In a pamphlet, says the Presbyterian, just published at Rome, by the Papal party, the Padre Passaglia is compared to "Cain," and cursed as a "Presbyterian rebel." The Emperor is not forgotten, but is coupled with the King Victor Emmanuel, and they are abused together as "two Judases," who are betraying their Pope.

—The Rev. Mr. Macfarland, rector of St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal Church in Baltimore, fell dead while officiating in his church Sunday before last. It is believed that his death resulted from a stroke of apoplexy.

—According to the Chicago Record, the Rev. Dr. Alexander Jones, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, at Perth Amboy, N. J., a native of Charleston, S. C., has six sons serving in the rebel army of the Potomac. Dr. Jones himself, however, notwithstanding the treason of his children, is a most devoted and thorough-going Union man. After reading the recent circular of President Lincoln and Lieut. General Scott, asking the loyal women to exert themselves in behalf of the army hospitals, he said: "May the Star-Spangled Banner float in triumph over every part of this land, even though—he added in a lower tone—it shall float over the field where my six sons are lying."

—The next session of the Pittsburgh M. E. Conference is to be held in Pittsburgh, commencing on the 19th of March, 1862. Bishop Ames is to preside.

—A correspondent of the Evangel, published in San Francisco states, there are only 2,000 Baptist communicants in California, among a population of 500,000, making one communicant for every two hundred and fifty persons.

—The number of missions of the American Board is 20; stations, 113; outstations, 171. The whole number of laborers, embracing ordained missionaries, physicians, male and female assistants, and native helpers, is 988. The number of churches is 161; Church members, 24,456.

—In India there are 3,170 missionaries and helpers; 75,000 scholars are taught in mission schools, including 15,000 Hindoo girls. There are now, it is supposed, living 125,000 converts.

—The Paris correspondent of the Evangelical Christendom furnishes the following interesting account of the consecration of a Russian church in Paris:

"An interesting spectacle has been lately witnessed by the inhabitants of Paris. I refer to the solemn consecration of a church, according to the Oriental or Russian type. The building cost one million two hundred thousand francs (48,000*L*.). It is constructed according to the rules of orthodox architecture—that is, to say in the Byzantine style. It consists of a double church; the one, the upper church, dedicated to the Trinity; the other, the subterranean, dedicated to St. Alexander Newski. The whole is surmounted by five gilded domes, having golden crosses.

"A Russian bishop, Mosigneur Leonce, coadjutor of the Metropolitan of St. Petersburg, came expressly to Paris to preside at the ceremony. He was assisted by an archimandrite, seven priests, several deacons, and a large number of choristers. The Russian Government had given orders that all possible magnificence should be displayed in this festival. It appears that Mosigneur Leonce is the first bishop who has consecrated an orthodox church in the West. The edifice was filled by a numerous and brilliant audience. The Russian Ambassador was there as the representative of his sovereign. Marshal Vaillant and the Prefect of Police of Paris, both in official costume, had been directed by Napoleon III. to take part in the ceremonial; it was a guarantee and expression of the religious liberty which reigns in France.

—A prayer meeting, held in a coal mine of the Mynydd Newydd colliery, Wales, at which about 100 men were present in their working dress, was an occasion of much interest. Profaneness and recklessness have been much checked among the boys and men since the meetings were held.

—Guizot, the great Protestant of France, it is said, has recently published a book in advocacy of the central power of Rome. Such views coming from a man like Guizot has taken the Protestant world by surprise.

—The Jamaica Standard says the ceremony of baptism was performed in the Bay of Old Harbor some time since, when fifty persons, male and female, were baptized, according to the forms of the Baptist Church. The sea along the coast was for some distance covered with canoes and other small craft, which were put in requisition on the occasion, and the concourse on those was so great as to be declared by every one to be unprecedented.

—Intelligence has been received that the Moravians are carrying on a good work in their usual unostentatious manner, in the German Provinces of Russia. Thirteen agents are employed who, it is said, make known the Gospel to upwards of 70,000 persons.

—It is supposed that, at present, the garrison at Vienna contains 1,000 Protestant soldiers. This comes of the new regulations for affording religious toleration in Austria.

—From the Banner we learn that the Presbytery of Sangamon, (Ill.,) at its late meeting, passed a series of resolutions, denying the right of any ecclesiastical body to take such action with regard to the state of the country as was taken by the General Assembly last Spring. This is the only Presbytery North of Mason and Dixon's line, that has made such a record.

Our steamboatmen are beginning to think about ice, and some of them already talk about going into winter quarters. Business continues tolerably brisk at the wharf, the receipts being heavy and considerably in excess of the shipments. The Lizzie Martin from Zanesville, Undine from Gallipolis, and Bay City and Iowa from Cincinnati, all with full cargoes, constitute the arrivals. The Ohio No. 2 for Cincinnati, and Hastings for Louisville, were the only transient departures. The latter boat had an excellent cargo, and a detachment of soldiers for the army in Kentucky.
