

The Governor on the Field. Governor Hartranft made a careful examination of the situation throughout the State and country on Wednesday evening and yesterday morning, and the result was the decision to direct the most active efforts to concentrate the entire available military force of the State where it is likely to be needed, as promptly as possible, and employ all the moral and physical power of the government to restore the highways of the country to their proper public uses and protect the property of citizens and corporations from the control of all lawless men. After perfecting his plans, the Governor started out on the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad with Major General Hancock, to make the necessary preparations for the early movement and protection of freights. Before leaving his headquarters in this city, Governor Hartranft issued the following order to the State militia, and all who read it will understand what a soldier, like our Chief Magistrate, means by instructing the troops that when the military can maintain peace only by the bullet, "every soldier will be expected to fire with effect," and that "the firing will continue until the mob disappears." The following is the text of Governor Hartranft's order:

HEADQUARTERS OF NATIONAL GUARD OF PENNA., ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE. PHILADELPHIA, July 26, 1877. General Orders No. 2

First. During the existing emergency in all cases troops are to be moved in compact bodies, and under no circumstances is firing to be permitted except by order of the officer in immediate command.

Second. All other means of quelling riot and restoring order having first been exhausted, the officer commanding the troops shall notify the rioters that they will be fired upon unless they promptly disperse. The order to fire will then be deliberately given, and every soldier will be expected to fire with effect. The firing will continue until the mob disappears.

Third. Officers in command of troops will report to these headquarters the names of all citizens who have attempted or may attempt to dissuade members of the National Guard from the discharge of their duties. All such persons should be arrested if possible.

Fourth. Headquarters, after 2 o'clock P. M. to-day, will be in special car on Pennsylvania Railroad. All communications will be addressed accordingly.

Fifth. General officers will publish these orders, not only in their troop, but to the public generally. J. F. HARTRANFT, Commander-in-Chief N. G. Pa.

This is a bad year for life insurance companies. A suit for $4,600,000 has been begun in New York against the Universal life insurance company. This has given rise to the expectation that there are to be additional and more startling developments relative to the management of the Universal, and especially concerning the manner in which the Universal absorbed the Guardian Mutual. The suit is to recover from the Universal the assets of the Guardian Mutual, estimated, it is understood, at $4,600,000, the charges of the most serious character are made against the persons responsible for the absorption of the Guardian Mutual by the Universal. Concerning the Charter Oak, which is also involved in serious difficulty, it appears that the certificate of authority to issue new policies in Connecticut was revoked by Superintendent Smith on Tuesday. Many insurance men incline to the opinion, however, that the company will come out all right, and no one is advised to sacrifice his policy. Many persons in Williamsport and Lycoming county hold policies in the Charter Oak, and there is a feeling of uneasiness among them, but it is hoped that the company will be able to make good all its obligations. - Williamsport G & B.

The Indian department has received information concerning Sitting Bull and his bands of hostile Sioux, numbering about 1,500, fighting men, who have been in British territory ever since the unfortunate Custer campaign. They have apparently been behaving themselves, and are well equipped with horses and guns, but are short of ammunition, which the Canadian traders are not allowed to sell to Indians, except under such restrictions as will prevent their obtaining supplies for a campaign. The Canadian officer, from whom the information is derived said that the force of mounted police, only 300 men would be insufficient to drive them out of the country, in case the United States demanded them. It is believed that they intend returning south of the Yellowstone this summer.

The Philadelphia Press thus enumerates some of the people who are injured by the lawless interruption of the commerce of the country: "There is not a merchant, mechanic, manufacturer, or producer; there is not a farmer, nor a widow looking for her interest from her railroad stock; not an insurance company; not a building association; not a saving institution; not a shipper or a ship building company, that does not feel this baneful, blind, and utterly illogical terrorism; and there is nothing left but the law-law violated and trampled under foot-nothing, indeed, but a manly and indignant protest from the great mass of our American workmen. It is they who should speak. Let them repudiate the horrors enacted in their name by a comparatively few reckless disturbers of the public peace."

INTERESTING PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

The subject of this sketch now resides in Irving, N. Y. She formerly lived in Fredonia, and in the West. Her case is worth the attention of physicians, as well as the people, as it is probably the worst one ever cured by medicine. Here is her own simple and truthful statement:

Fredonia, N. Y., June 7, 1872. I certify that I had been sick about eight years with an affection my physicians, called scrofula. The ravages of the disease had been terrible. My whole throat was a raw masticating sore. My palate had been eaten out, my nose, face and forehead had discharging sores, and my left eyelid was partly eaten off; my body and limbs had deep eating ulcers extending nearly to the bone, that had existed for years. I was reduced in flesh to a mere skeleton, and my strength was well nigh exhausted.

I was in this dreadful condition—a mere wreck of my former self—in November, 1868, I had been treated by a number of doctors of great reputation, both in this country and in the West without apparent benefit. I had become discouraged and my case seemed hopeless as it was dreadful. At this time Dr. Fenner of Fredonia, commenced treating me, and I began taking his Blood and Liver Remedy and Nerve Tonic. Almost immediately I began to improve. My ulcers ceased to eat and pain me and began to heal; my nerves strengthened daily, and I soon began to gain in flesh. Within three months I became as I was a new being. I continued to take his remedy for about a year, although to all appearances I was nearly well in six months after beginning it. But I knew that a medicine had such healing powers, and had given me so much strength and flesh could not hurt me, and I continued so long to be sure that there was none of the disease left in my blood or system. Now three years have elapsed since I have taken any of the Remedy, but I remain entirely well of the disease, no trace except some scars remaining to tell how terrible its ravages had been. I feel as well and strong as I ever did before it.

Laws Relating to Newspaper Subscriptions and Arrearages.

- 1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered wishing to continue their subscription. 2. If subscribers order the discontinuation of their periodicals, the publishers may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid. 3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the office where they are directed, they are held responsible until they have notified their bills, and ordered them discontinued. 4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publishers, and the papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible. 5. The courts have decided that "refusing to take periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud." 6. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he has ordered it or not, is held in law to be a subscriber. 7. If subscribers pay in advance, they are bound to give notice to the publisher at the end of their time, if they do not wish to continue taking it otherwise the publishers are authorized to send it on; and the subscribers will be held responsible until an express notice with payment of all arrears, sent to the publisher.
