JAMES SAFFERTY.

D. GREGG & I. TAYLOR have this day formed a Co-partnership under the name of GREGG & TAYLOR to transact a wholesale Dry Goods and Variety Business at the old stand, where we are prepared to offer goods on the most favorable terms, either for cash, city acceptance or approved reference. Our stock will be always well assorted, and as we intend to buy for cash we will hold out inducements we think superior to any house west of the mountains. Buyers visiting the city, we respectfully request to examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere, as we will make it an object worthy their attention. jy16 GREGG & TAYLOR.

THE LORETTO SPRINGS,

CAMBRIA COUNTY, PA.

NOW OPEN.

THIS NEW AND DELIGHTFUL RESORT for those seeking either health or pleasure, is situated one mile from the village of Loretto, and four miles from Cresson station, on the Pennsylvania Central Railroad—from which to Loretto, there is a well constructed Plank-Road.

The Springs are about 2,600 feet above tide-water, and the air is always bracing and invigorating, the thermometer seldom ranging above 75° in Summer. The head waters of the Susquehana and Clearfield abound in trout, and the mountain ranges are filled with game, affording fine sport to those who are fond of such amusements.

The buildings are admirably constructed with respect to room and ventilation, and the whole fitted up with every appliance that can contribute to the comfort of the guests. The rooms are supplied with running spring water, in marble basins, and hot and cold Baths on each floor. Bath Houses for ladies and gentlemen, with water supplied from the lake, having Swimming-Cataract and Shower-Baths, Bowling-Alley, Billiard-Tables, &c., &c.

The table will be supplied with all the delicacies and luxuries that the market affords. The Bar will be locked with the best Wines. Guests may rely upon getting the purest Wines and Liquors that can be obtained.

The Proprietor hopes to give entire satisfaction to his guests, and no pains or expense will be spared to meet their wishes and comforts.

The waters of these Springs have been analyzed by several eminent Chemists, and found to contain in large proportions, all those valued Mineral properties for which the Springs on this spur of the Alleghany have long been celebrated.

Excursion Tickets to Loretto Springs for visitors, will be issued by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and also Baltimore, in connection with the Northern Central Railroad via Harrisburg.

For further information apply to Mr. J. McDONALD CROSSAN, Monongahela House, Pittsburgh, Pa.

SATURDAY MORNING.....AUG. 10.

Senator Douglas and the Missouri Republican.

Some of the Republican newspapers and letter writers seem to enjoy the opportunity of throwing out liberal insinuations and even false statements prejudicial to the memory of the late Senator Douglas. The Missouri Republican sets one of these cowards at rest in the following style: first copying the statement of a Chicago correspondent of the New York Tribune:

"Mr. Douglas was extremely liberal, and spent money with a lavish hand. At the time of his last great canvas for the Senate, he paid more money to the Missouri Republican alone, than all which was expended on behalf of Mr. Lincoln during the campaign."

Such is a statement contained in a letter from Chicago, dated the 4th inst., to the New York Tribune, and reproduced in the Democrat of this city. It is due to the memory of the dead as well as ourselves, that we should notice an assertion intended to reflect injuriously upon his reputation, and possibly to prevent proper efforts being made to relieve his estate from embarrassment. We supported, as is well known, the re-election of Judge Douglas to the Senate of the United States, but whoever says that we received from him one cent, either directly or indirectly, covertly or in any other way, before or after his election was secured, tells an unpardonable falsehood. We intend this denial to be so broad and general as to admit of no escape. We advocate the cause of Mr. Douglas for no other reason than that we believe him to be the ablest of that day in the Union. While we knew him to be an ambitious man, we were satisfied that his ambition was of so lofty and generous a character that he never would do harm to the American Union. We believed him to be a national man, and our hope at that day was that his success in being returned to the Senate would be the means of placing him in the Presidency. The country is realizing now the misfortune which shut him out of that high office, and no one can yet foresee the calamities which are in reserve for us in consequence of this fatal mistake.

St. Louis to be Captured.

It is now stated that JACKSON, as the director of the Confederate army, in its operations in this State, means to strike directly at St. Louis, while making a feint at Cairo and Bird's Point. It is contended that St. Louis once in the possession of JACKSON, with the Arsenal and Barracks taken, will afford a key, not only to the early occupation of the Capital, but to the speedy subjugation of the entire State. It will, also, it is held, open the Mississippi to the mouth of the Ohio, and facilitate communication with the Southern Confederacy, even though the Federal troops be not dislodged from their positions around Cairo. But the great object in the capture of St. Louis, would be to "dictate terms to the United States Government," or divert such a force from the operations in Virginia as would allow JEFF. DAVIS comparative ease at Richmond. This is a grand scheme, and, if carried out, would probably exhibit much strategy. It is, however, one thing to plan and another to execute. There is a great deal of hard fighting before Jackson and his crew ere they reach the suburbs of this city, and then the war would be only just begun. Our word for it, Jackson is not going to try to take St. Louis without an army a vast deal larger than any he at present seems likely to get. The fact is, he is only aiding the Confederates to remove the seat of war as far as possible from their own borders, and has no idea of ever getting back into the Governor's chair. This is based on the hypothesis that he is not stark raving crazy.—[St. Louis Republican.

Looking on this Picture, then on That.

Prince Napoleon is a man of close observation, and he has the credit of arriving at correct conclusions. His visit to this continent is not one merely of pleasure. He leaves his royal consort at the nearest hotel after landing. Making a rapid but diligent examination of the public characteristics of New York city, he moves, without official display, direct through Philadelphia, to the seat of Government.—Thence, after a critical inquiry into the vital elements of our organization, a close inspection of our army, navy-yard, &c., he proceeds West, with a determination to make himself acquainted with our strength and resources. It was his duty, during the war in Italy, to move among the people, and learn the public sentiment. It is his mission now, personally, to see and know America, and judge of its future from conclusions drawn after the exercise of his own observations. He moves incog., but, undoubtedly, as the astute observer of events, and the authorized agent of the Emperor in a quiet way.—This is right. It may be hailed as a providential movement. The motives by which our Government is moved in this extensive war will bear investigation by the nations. Remove the veil of apparent mystery, and our cause will appear firmly founded on the rock of eternal truth. Disrobe the motives of the advocates of Secession, and deception, falsehood, and corruption present themselves in all their ghastly repulsiveness. But the Prince proposes not to take our words, nor the word of any one else, as evidence of these things. He proposes to examine and decide for himself. We court the investigation. May his peers come and do likewise.

The Inefficiency of the Blockade.

The English and French Ministers are constantly in receipt of intelligence from their agents at several of the blockaded ports, to the effect that ships of various kinds are permitted to pass in and out of the blockaded ports without any apparent opposition, and, therefore, it is asserted that the blockade is not effective. Unless the government is more active, and displays more vigor and determination in this matter, these two governments, who are watching matters along the coast, will give our government considerable trouble. I learn from an officer who has just returned from a blockading post, where he has been stationed, that quite a number of vessels from foreign ports had escaped the vigilance of our fleet, and had run the blockade.

These facts have all been laid before the government. Thus far, it is conceded on all sides that the Navy Department is entirely inefficient. The vessels that are now being hired and purchased are mostly unfit for the service required, and yet large sums are paid for them. The lobby who are engaged in palming off these vessels are, however, doing a fine business. The attention of the President has been directed to this matter, and also to this department, where enormous abuses are being practised.
