Money for Government Creditors--New Tent Invented

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Since the negotiation of the new loan, on Friday last, Secretary Chase has placed to the credit of the disbursing officers in Boston, New York and Philadelphia, the sum of 5,504,874 dollars, to be paid to contractors and other Government creditors.

The tent invented by Gen. Morgan, of Ohio, has been brought to the attention of the Government. Its chief sanitary excellencies are the arrangement for ventilation and elevating the beds from contact with the ground. Nothing more complete or desirable in the way of sheltering an army in the field has yet been presented.

The San Jacinto--Arrival of Captured Rebels.

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—The United States steam frigate San Jacinto, with Messrs. Mason and Slidell, has put into Newport, R. I., in consequence of stormy weather and a heavy sea.

Twenty five rebels, captured on Santa Rosa Island, during the night attack on Col. Wilson's camp, have arrived at Fort Monroe.

Eighteen Hundred Rebels Lay Down Their Arms.

BALTIMORE, November 21.—Intelligence has just been received that the rebels of Northampton, Virginia, have laid down their arms to the number of 1,800, and that the federal troops have full possession of that county as well as Accomac.

The Transport Baltic.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The U. S. steam transport Baltic is coming up, having a gun boat in tow. She is from Port Royal, and will probably bring later intelligence from that quarter.

From Europe.

NEW YORK, November 21.—The steamship City of Manchester is below, and will reach her wharf about noon. Her advices from Europe were received via Cape Race.

The Slaver Augusta.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The slaver Augusta has been towed here from Greenport, Long Island, where she was taken into custody.

The French Frigate Bellone.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The French frigate Bellone has arrived.

Brave and Strong Words in Canada for the Union.

The Hon. Thomas D'Arcy McGee, member for Montreal in the Provincial Parliament, has been recently delivering to crowded audiences a lecture on "Canada's Interest in the Civil War." We find a long report of it in the Toronto Globe of October 18. An eloquent lecture thus eloquently closed;

Whatever direct advantage Canada or the empire might derive from the war, the people of Canada can never be indifferent to the dangers to the system of free intercourse and common arbiter which is to stand or fall in this encounter. It is not by feeding our minds as have been sometimes appealed to, that we, the possessors of the seventh part of North America, are to shame our republican neighbors out of their suspicions of ourselves. Our littleness is not to rebuke their littleness; we are not to answer railing with railing; nor to heap up wrath against the day of wrath. We can afford to speak of the American system, in this hour of its agony, in the glowing language of their finest poet:

"Thou hoary pilot, who thy course dost steer
Past icy capes and through the storm and drift,
Haunting the breakers—as we hear thee hail,
Amid the roar of waters, the loud wind,
Thy voice of command! Oh! we have marked the
Thy calm, firm, patient, and unerring course,
Thy hand on the helm, and thy eye on the star,
Through the thick darkness guiding thine onward
Humanity, with all its fears,
With all the hopes of future years,
Is hanging breathless on thy fate!
We know what Master laid thy keel,
What Workmen wrought thy ribs of steel,
Who made each mast, and sail, and rope,
What anvil rang, what hammers beat,
In what a forge and what a heat
Were shaped the anchors of thy hope!"

We do not—to continue the poet's image—while the destined ship is driving on the rocks, her signal gun pealing for aid above the din of the tempest, we do not lurk along the shore, gloating over her danger, in hope of enriching ourselves by the wreck. No, God forbid! Such is not the feeling of the people of Canada. On the contrary, so far as their public opinion can be heard throughout the British Empire, or the United States, their wish would be that the Republic, as it was twelve months ago, might live to celebrate in concord, in 1876, the centennary of its independence. We prefer our own institutions to theirs, but our preference is rational, not rancorous; we may think, and we do think, it would have been well for them to have retained more than they did retain of the long tried wisdom of their ancestors; we may think, and we do think, that their overthrow of ancient precedents and venerable safeguards was too sweeping in 1776; but as between continental peace and chronic civil war; as between natural right and oligarchial oppression; as between constitutional majority and the lawless minority; as between free intercourse and armed frontiers; as between negro emancipation and a revival of the slave trade; as between the golden rule and the cotton crop of 1861; as between the revealed unity of the race and the heartless heresy of African bestiality; as between the North and South in this deplorable contest, I rest firmly in the belief that all that is most liberal, most intelligent and most magnanimous in Canada and the Empire, are for continental peace, for constitutional arbitrament, for universal, if gradual emancipation, for free intercourse, for justice, mercy, civilization and the North.

During the delivery of the lecture, the gifted gentleman was frequently greeted with cordial approbation, and on taking his seat the delight of the audience was signified by rounds of applause.
