DAILY MORNING POST.

FEBRUARY 2, 1843.

☞ Yesterday was about the coldest day we have had this winter.

☞ The City Solicitor question appears to have died away.

Dullness.

Every thing is now at a dead calm.—There is no excitement about any thing either foreign, domestic, or local. The Somers affairs is all over for the present; nothing doing in Congress or in any of the state Legislatures worthy of notice; and here, at home, since the result of the South Ward election has been officially announced, and the excitement attending it has, in a measure died away, there is not as much news as would keep a fellow awake on a sleepy morning. We have no elopements, no startling disclosures, no bold robberies, no murders; and the Whig Committee, we believe, have wisely concluded to pay for the Tippecanoe dinner.

APPLE SELLING.—This business is now undergoing a change. But a short time ago it was exclusively in the hands of women and boys; but now we observe hale, hearty men at it. Hard times have driven them to this mode of making their living, but it is to be regretted that they do not endeavor to get into some other more becoming occupation. It is true that almost every branch of mechanical business is blocked up, but there are still openings in the country where industrious men may earn a better living than it is possible for them to do by retailing apples in market. This latter business should be left to those who cannot labor, and there are many such in the city who might support themselves tolerably well by this means were it not for the competition of strong men.

Obeying Orders.—An odd joke is told in Charles O'Malley, of a British officer and an Irish sergeant. The officer was a pompous and pedantic man, fond of using 'topsoftical' language, and astonishing his inferiors in rank with large words. One day a private appeared on parade with a very dirty face, and, turning to the Irish sergeant, the grandiloquent military man said, "Sergeant, remove the individual with the besmutted countenance and lave him in the aqueous current of the river."

The sergeant went away, and soon returned alone. "Where is the soldier?" inquired the officer. "Your honor ordered me to lave him in the river, and I left him there!"

Algerine Liberality.—The following notice is posted up in their works by the proprietors of a manufacturing establishment in Rhode Island:

"We wish all voters to know that if they vote against the existing constitution next spring, we shall dismiss them from employment. We do not ask them to vote against it; but we could be pleased to find that their views coincide with ours on this subject."

La! what makes your teeth so unusually white?
Quoth Jes—dulcinia to him t'other night,
To make courtsick so, with a grin, replied Josh,
I've brought you a bottle of Thorns' Tooth Wash.
☞ 'Tis the best now in use, so the gentlefaks say,
☞ And since they have tried this, cast all others away.
☞ But to prove the best, to make the teeth shine,
Look again, my dear Sal, at the lustre of mine.
Then try it it is great tooth wash,
The Teaberry tooth wash,
And see if this Tooth Wash of Thorn's is not fine.

Having tried Dr. "Thorn's Tea Berry Tooth Wash," and become acquainted with the ingredients of its compound, I cheerfully say, I consider it one of the safest, as it is one of the most pleasant Tooth Wash es now in use.

Pittsburgh Sep. 15, 1842 DAVID HUNT, Dentist.

I take pleasure in stating, having made use of "Thorn's Tea Berry Tooth Wash," that it is one of the best dentrifices in use. Being in a liquid form, it combines neatness with convenience. While it cleanses the enamel and removes the tartar from the teeth, its perfume yields a fragrance peculiarly desirable. J. P. THIBETTS, M. D.

The undersigned have used "Thorn's Compound Tea Berry Tooth Wash," and have found it to be an extremely pleasant dentifrice, exercising a most salutary influence over the Teeth and Gums; preserving those indispensable members from premature decay, preventing the accumulation of Tartar, and purifying the Breath. Having thoroughly tested its virtues, we take pleasure in recommending it to the public, believing it to be the best article of the kind now in use.
