CORRESPONDENTS.

In reference to communications which may appear in this paper, we have one or two remarks to make.—We will insert none without the name of the author being first made known to us, and when inserted, must always be taken as expressive of the views of the writer, and not the editor of this paper, unless the views so expressed are editorially remarked upon and approved.

Clickener's Sugar-coated Vegetable Purgative Pills.—Experience having long since decided, that every disease originates from impurities of the blood, or derangement of the digestive organs, it is evident that the remedy employed must be of such a nature as is best calculated to remove those obstructions, or restore the blood to its natural state. The Clickener, Sugar-coated Purgative Pills, being compounded purely on scientific principles, and based on an intimate acquaintance with the origin of disease, and the actual structure of the human system are the only remedy which can be positively relied on. Being composed of a variety of ingredients entirely different from, and independent of each other in their mode of operation; they never fail to reach the seat of disease, in whatever shape it may appear. Thus, if the liver be affected, one ingredient will operate on that particular organ and by cleansing it of that excess of bile, it is constantly discharging into the stomach, restore it to its natural state. Another will operate on the blood, and remove those impurities which have already entered into its circulation; while a third will effectually expel from the system whatever impurities may have been discharged into the stomach, through the instrumentality of the other ingredients.

Sold by Wm Jackson, corner of Wood and Liberty streets, who is general Agent for Dr Clickener's Pills in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

☞Beware of an imitation article called "Improved Sugar-Coated Pills," purporting to be Patented as both the pills and pretended patent are forgeries, got up by a miserable quack, in New York, who, for the last four or five years, has made his living by counterfeiting popular medicines. feb 11.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.—This celebrated remedy is a compound balsamic preparation of the Wild Cherry and Moss of Iceland, combined by a new chemical progress with the Extract of Pine. So salutary have been its effects in all cases when administred for Coughs, Asthma, Consumption, or any disease of the lungs, that many of the most distinguished physicians have approved and recommended it, and openly acknowledged it to be the most valuable medicine ever discovered. It is truly a valuable medicine, and is effecting an immense amount of good in the relief of suffering humanity.

TWENTY-NINTH CONGRESS.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7

The hour for the meeting of the House (ten o'clock, A M,) having arrived, and the honorable Speaker not appearing, the baker's dozen of members present became as excited as a disturbed anthill, and ere the minute hand of the clock had advanced three minutes beyond the XII, the clerk was emphatically asked to call the House to order. He almost implored for a few minutes delay, assuring the members present that the Speaker would appear, but it was no go—the "selvoge" of a House present insisted, and the clerk, thus pressed, gave the premonitory raps for attending prayers. Rev Mr Tuston addressed the throne of grace, in his usual solemn and impressive manner. Mr Charles J Ingersoll then moved that Gen M'Kay, of North Carolina, take the chair until the Speaker should arrive. The question was put by the clerk and carried, and Gen M'Kay took the Speakers chair. Then followed the usual routine of business—a call of the House—a motion to adjourn—a motion to go into committee, and various other propositions incident to the uneasy and excitable House of Representatives, for, although the members, individually, are the most peaceable, orderly, lamb-like gentlemen in the world, collectively they are like a stirred up beehive, humming here and buzzing there, as if legislation and buzz were inseperable companions.

A call was ordered and commenced, and suspended. At this point, the noble form of the Speaker appeared at the front door; he walked down the centre aisle, and Gen M'Kay at once abdicated in his favor, and "calm as a summer's morning," he proceeded with the business of the House. The journal was read, and the House immediately went into committee—whether there was or was not a quorum was no put to the question, and as a man is presumed to be innocent until he is proved guilty, so is the House always presumed to have a quorum in attendance, until, upon a count, the contrary appears.

And now, at this present writing, a very gentlemanly, unassuming member from Ohio, (Mr Friese) is making a speech and his honorable colleague, Gen M'Dowell, is listening to him. He may deem himself honored by obtaining even a single auditor. The subject has become a drug, and members will not attend to speeches any more.

But why does the chairman's hammer fall? Sure the hour is not expired. I see the reason: the President's Secretary appears at the bar—the Speaker takes the chair, and a message, in writing is delivered by Col J K Walker, the private Secretary; the reading is called for; all is hushed and still, as though the very breathing of the house had stopped—the Babel is silent—the hum of the beehive has stopped, and now the voice of the clerk is heard reading, with great distinctness, the important message relative to Oregon, from which appears that no arbitration can take place, let what else may.

From the reading, we gather that in December Mr Pakenham proposed arbitration, as far as regards the division of Oregon. Mr Buchanan replied that no arbitration as to division could take place, as the U S claimed the whole. Mr Pakenham again addressed Mr Buchanan, stating a case hypothetically—that is, if Great Britain would arbitrate as to the title, and leave the arbitrators to divide that country between the U States and Great Britain as they might find, upon due consideration, the rights of the two nations to be.

To this Mr Buchanan replied, that under no circumstances would the U States submit the matter of Oregon to arbitration but expressed the hope that the two countries might settle all the difficulties relative to it without arbitration.

Accompanying the message was a correspondence between Mr Buchanan and Mr M'Lane as to the tendency of the war preparations now in progress by Great Britain. Mr M'Lane is very diplomatic in his reply, but from what we could gather, Lord Aberdeen avows that the preparations have not been made with any view to a rupture with this country, and are no more than would have been made had no troubles existed.

Mr M'Lane, however, without commenting Lord Aberdeen's position, expresses the opinion that whatever may have been the motive of Great Britain in preparing for war, if war should take place, she will be as well prepared to pounce upon us as if she had made all her preparations with that view.

The clerk has concluded, and the hum again commences.

The debate was then resumed and was continued till twelve o'clock, P M. The committee then rose and the House adjourned. The vote will be taken on Monday.

In the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County.

IN the matter of the voluntary assignment of Samuel Fahnestock: No. 169, October, 1845.

And now, Jan. 28, 1846, William Simpson, assignee, having filed his supplementary and final account, the same is confirmed nisi, and it is ordered by the Court, that unless exceptions to the same are filed on or before the first Monday of March next, the same be confirmed absolutely, and that upon such confirmation the said assignee have leave to deposite the balance of moneys in his hands in Court, and be further discharged from the execution of his trust, and the Court order that notice of the filing of said account with the above order be published in the "Daily Commercial Journal," and "Daily Morning Post," weekly for four successive weeks, the first publication to be made thirty days before the time appointed for the confirmation of the above account.
