Professing to be an honest man, the candidate of an honest organization I favor honest money.

The volume of the currency should be regulated by legitimate demand, and not by the requirements of bankrupts and wild speculators.

The currency should be redeemable as early as the exigencies of the Government will permit, in the currency recognized by all civilized nations.

The contracts of the Government should be held as sacred as the contracts of individuals, and the bonds, the evidence of its indebtedness, should be paid according to the understanding between the Government and the lender.-[Speech at Butler, Sept. 2,

Republican by 15,000 majority at the election on Tuesday last.

Gives 35,000 Republican majority.

-There was quite a singular inci-United States Commissioner, was in progress. Two men, it is represented, suddenly entered the office, seized the books of the New York Iron Mine Company, which were being used in testimony, and while one hurried down stairs to a carriage in waiting the other stood guard at the door, preventing the egress of any one until his accomplice had secured a good start. Just previous to the entrance of the men Hon. Thos. Hartland, of New York, attorney for Mr. Tilden, had been using the books and had placed them in a pile on a table near the door. As soon as what had been done Mr. W. L. Witmore, one of the witnesses under examination, who claimed the books as his private property, rushed out after the men, but they had passed on out of sight. Warrants were issued as quickly as possible, and officers started in pursuit. They overtook the carriage some miles out of the city, but found neither men nor property. The supposition is that the books have been carried out of the State. This proceeding demonstrates that Mr. Tilden either has some very malignant enemies or some very injudicious friends. In either event, it will no doubt become incumbent upon him to explain this extraordinary transaction.

Mrs. Jacob Kunz, of Woodbridge, Connecticut, met a most horrible and extraordinary death on the 5th inst. While she was making a fire in a cooking stove the flames burst through an opening in the stove and ignited her dress. She was paralyzed by her peril, and before she had recovered presence of mind all her clothes were ablaze. Shricking she ran to the barn and began to roll in the hay, and issuing thence she jumped down into a deep well and was drowned. Her little daughter was a horrified spectator of the scene, and after she saw her mother leap down the well gave the alarm to the neighbors, but too late to save the barn and outhouse, which were consumed with the contents. When Jacob Kunz, who had been away to work, returned he was almost deprived of reason at his affliction and loss. Mrs. Kunz, when taken from the well, was found to have been litterally roasted alive, and her flesh was black from head to feet. She was thirty-four years old.

-Lewis Lampert, John Boemkey, Eliza Boemkey and a man who gave the name of John Smith, tramps, assaulted and beat nearly to death George Henn, aged seventy years, on the road from Friedensville to Coopersburg on Monday afternoon. The tramps were arrested.

John Sherman's Crime.

The honorable Secretary of the Treasury is persistently charged with bringing distress upon the country by "forcing resumption." If a merchant, manufacturer, or a person in any other line of business fails, he has been "Shermanized," according to the vocabulary of the Democratic press. When the "flat" money State or county convention adopts its platform the main plank charges the Secretary of the Treasury with "forcing resumption," and thereby "prolonging the sufferings of the unemployed." It is the old story retold-history repeating itself. Individuals, corporations and communities in prosperous times rush into inprudent speculations and extravagance, contract debts, secured by a loan on their property, and pile up obligations which they have no reasonable prospect of ever being able to discharge Finally, the limit of speculative folly is reached, by the sudden crash of some prominent speculative enterprise, and the nation is astounded. Confidence vanishes, fear seizes the public mind, each individual feels his own critical position and loses confidence in his neighbor; work is suspended, men are thrown out of employment, and want and suffering ensue.

the administration see their opportunity and improve it. The announcement is made through the press, on the stump and in the halls of Congress that our troubles are the direct result of pecuniary legislation, the remedy for which can only be reached through the ballot box. Appeals are made, not to the understanding, but to the stomach, and converts are secured to the new doctrine. Opposition to the Government spreads, and the administration is denounced.

Under a pressure of precisely this nature John Sherman has become, as a prominent official of the Government, one of the best-abused individuals in the country. And why? Simply because, as a sworn official, he is endeavoring to discharge his duty as defined by acts of Congress. It is known to every citizen that when capitalists at home and abroad bought our bonds and paid for them in coin the promise of the Government was that they should be redeemed in coin. The Secretary, in paying for bonds in coin, in simply complying with law and fullfilling the Government pledges, Again, Congress passed an act providing for the resumption of specie payment on the 1st of January, 1879. For this the Secretary is now preparing; but he is governed strictly by the provisions of the acts of Congress in the premises.

The great need of the country to-day is the solid business basis which specie resumption will provide. For years past the business communities have been looking and yearning for this consummation as the only ground on which to hope for a revival of business on permanent footing. The country wants it now; the Treasury is prepared for its commencement without longer delay. The Secretary is withdent in Marquette, Michigan, on Mon-held from opening his treasure vaults day evening, while the examination of in response to the wants of business One Hundred Peerless Principal Perwitnesses in the case of the United States vs. Samuel J. Tilden, before the so. He cannot even pay out standard dollars for paper currency, because a Democratic act forbids him doing so. If, then, the opposition feels itself bound to deal in censure, let it go to the fountain-head-to Congress-to its own representatives, and heap its abuse upon its own acts, passed there by its own leaders and their supporters. The Secretary of the Treasury is governed by law in all his acts and transactions. and his faithful devotion to the duties assigned him, and his success in bringing the financial system of the nation to a specie basis within the time specthe occupants of the room realized lifted by law, without disturbing the world's exchanges in the slightest degree, will give him high rank in history as a financier and statesman.

> -A new association is forming at Washington known as the Enlisted Labor Association. They propose to urge upon Congress the passage of a law by which one hundred thousand volunteers may be enlisted for five years for military and agricultural purposes on a reservation of the government. Twelve skilled mechanics or artisans are to be in each company, and one regiment of each corps to be engineers exclusively. As soon as ten thousand men shall be enlisted they shall be sent to a reservation, and upon their arrival shall survey and lay out a city, and commence the erection of suitable quarters for a permanent ettl ement, preparing the ground for agricultural purposes, and developing the mineral resources of the country. Each corps to be furnished by the Government with seeds, stock, farming implements and tools. The volunteers are to receive the same pay as the soldiers of the regular army, and every person so enlisting shall upon honorable discharge from the service be entitled to and receive a patent for one hundred and sixty acres of land, as now provided for by the homestead act, and in lieu thereof to one lot within the limits of said city as he may elect, every alternate lot to be re-
