

Local Notes

-Rainsy November is nearly at an end. -Christmas comes on Wednesday this year. -Bank up your cellars and get ready for winter. -Get your corn poppet ready for the long winter evenings. -An adjourned term of court will be held on December 9th. -A sheet of paper and an envelope for a penny, at this office. -Sunday was a delightful day. Just cool enough to make walking delightful. -Muddy roads make those having tanning to do wish for a run of sleighing. -That seasoned wood we spoke of last week has not put in an appearance. -Potatoes sell at from 85 to 90 cents a bushel. They will be higher next spring. -There is a bad piece of sidewalk in front of the Pat Malone property on Main street. -"Be good natured" is a good motto, but another good one is "never put up with spilling." -Spilling bees are expected to rage with more or less violence during the coming winter. Let them rage. -The Advocate contains more reading matter than any paper in Elk county. Subscribe now, and you will never have cause to regret it. -Venison ought to be plenty in this market. This we are led to say from the number of men we see carrying guns and following by gamey looking dogs. -The weather prophets are at a loss to understand this weather, as it persists in turning out in many cases exactly opposite to the way they predicted. -Note heads, letter heads and bill heads put up with Mead's celebrated blotter table, at this office. Call and get 500 note heads, which we almost give away. -Ridgway was not made a borough at the recent term of court because it would add two delegates to Democratic conventions in the future. At least so we are informed. -There is talk of erecting a number of new buildings in this place the coming season. We are glad to hear it, and hope that it will not be many years ere our little village is entirely built up. -The thing we most delight in is to have a person put us on the back, who has never paid us a dime, and say how glad he is to see us get along. Talk is cheap, but the kind we talk of is disgusting. -The attendance at the Methodist church last Sunday evening was very large. Anyhow, it was a very large evening. Next Sunday Rev. Talbot is going to tell more about hell and who furnishes the brimstone, etc. -That cow which was once loose in the court yard is loose now no more forever; which fact we are only too happy to announce. We have lost a prolific source of local intelligence, and the cow has lost her pasture field. Unhappy editor, disconsolate bovine. -Company H will meet for drill every night this week. The new recruits are getting along finely, and the whole company will be in good shape to attend the annual inspection at Meadville next Tuesday. The company will muster about forty men and two officers. -Elk county will be out of debt by January 1st, unless something extraordinary transpires. Then we will have a new court house; and need nothing there for it. The old shed was good enough in its day, but it will not do for the present time. Its days of usefulness are past. Let it give way to a respectable structure. What say you, Messrs. Commissioners? -The oil excitement in this vicinity seems to have died entirely out, not even a live coal remaining to remind us that we once had such an excitement. The day will likely come, however, when Ridgway will be an oil town, but until the price of the crude article advances from its present low state the development of new territory will not be carried on to any great extent. -The depot at Kane was broken into on Friday last, at noon. The thieves entered through the men's sitting room into the ticket office and took eighteen dollars in money. The robbery occurred while O. B. Lay, the ticket agent, was at dinner, and the audacity of the thieves in committing the crime in broad daylight shows them to be old hands at this business. No arrests have been made. -The question is often asked, what will we do when the lumber and bark are gone from our once dense forests? Raise stock, we answer. And it seems that cattle and sheep could be raised on these hills, and be a better and more lasting source of wealth than have been the forests which nature so abundantly provided this country. We expect to see the day when Elk county will be noted for her stock raising and dairy interests. -Wm. McCollum, the blind musician, will give one of his select entertainments at the Court House next Saturday evening. There will be an entire change of programme from any concert he has before given in this place, and those that have heard him can testify that the performance will be well worth attending. The admission is placed at the low price of twenty-five cents. Don't fail to hear him.

-Thursday night last a sneak thief stole four gallons of oysters from J. W. Morgester, together with the tub in which was the crock that contained them. The crime was committed at about half-past nine or ten o'clock in the evening, the oysters being on the platform near the store of the grocery. The thieves might have had decency enough to return the tub and crock. -Sneak thieves entered the store of Robert I. Campbell, by the back window, on Friday night. Several boxes of cigars, one or two new hats, canned goods, and several other articles to the amount of $50 were taken. No insurance, but if the thieves attempt the trick again they will need to be insured. It is about time the sneak thief business was ended in this village. A dose of buckshot in the bodies of the miscreants would doubtless do much toward breaking up the nuisance. -Progress is the name of a new weekly just issued in Philadelphia, by that veteran journalist and able writer, John W. Forney, and the work bears in unmistakable lines the impress of that master mind. Progress is issued every week, at $5.00 a year, and its twenty broad pages are full of interesting and instructive reading matter for men and women. Nothing to equal this newspaper has ever been issued in this country, and we have no doubt the enterprise will be, as it richly merits, a paying one. Send for a specimen copy, it will only cost you 10 cents. Address John W. Forney, 7th and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia. -Santa Claus about these days looms up before the little ones as the father of all good things, and they count with many happy thoughts the long, long days that are to intervene before the great Christmas day arrives. What visions of sweetmeats, toys, sleds, dishes, drums, dolls, etc., etc. rise up before them, and yet we all know that their experience is the experience of mankind, that there is more joy in the anticipation than in the taste of the fruit. Christmas and Santa Claus are always young to the children, and it is well that it is so, for do not the remembrances of Christmas in time of youth make us forget harder strife in more mature years? -Thanksgiving day, and all the people should be thankful for the many good things they have received during the past year. This custom of getting together once a year to thank the giver of all good for his mercies during the past year is a very appropriate and pleasant one, and serves to make all people a little better in the year to come. After all, holidays are very beneficial to morals, and we have, perhaps, too few of them. A little relaxation from the cares and strifes of life help a man to forget his troubles or give him more strength to combat them. This morning, at 10 o'clock, there will be services at the Methodist church and a sermon by Rev. H. V. Talbot. Let all attend. -On Sunday night, just as the Methodist congregation were going home, a bright blaze was seen in the direction of the lower end of South street. Yeeditor thought at first that his house was on fire, and wondered how it would seem sleeping in the chicken coop. On getting nearer the fire our fears were dissolved, as we saw that the wood shed at Prof. Dixon's house was in flames. The shed was within a few feet of the house, and with seasoned wood piled between the two buildings. In a few minutes the bucket brigade succeeded in putting out the fire, the amount of damage being a demoralized shed, a few cords of wood and an ash barrel. The ash barrel will explain away all the mysteries that might be connected with the fire. A barrel of kerosene oil was in the shed, which was ablaze when M. S. Kline and B. I. Taylor rolled it out into the lot, thus saving the oil, and at the same time removing a dangerous substance from the flames. No telling what damage might have resulted had the oil barrel exploded, but the likelihood is that many of the people standing near would have been seriously injured. The fire was lively for a few minutes, and had there been any wind to speak of we would now have a first-class local. As it is, we warn all persons against having barrels for storing ashes anywhere near the house. -The never ceasing tread of the tramp is enlivened daily by the murders, stealing and other crimes the aforementioned individual is guilty of. Unfortunated women are his best hold, and when the man of the house is away he dictates to the ladies of the house, if they be timid ones, the kind of food and the quantity he will have set before him. What we shall do with this nuisance is a perplexing question, that even our wise lawmakers are unable to grant a satisfactory solution. To feed them seems to increase their race, as their instinct leads them in droves to the place where they have been well treated, until they become an alarming nuisance. Of course, we can't kill them as we would rats, mice, and other annoying animals, but we can at least refuse them food, until they have shown a willingness to allow a little moisture to gather on their brows while they engage in some task whereby they can earn their food. The idea of starving them will be a good one until they shall learn to respect those who are their benefactors. Not long since a tramp was supplied at a house in this village with a good lunch, but he remarked that he wanted to "d-d hand outs," and then threw it away. Several cases have occurred in our personal knowledge where these gentry have thrown away the food which they had begged. While we are loath to advise the withholding of food from a hungry man, if he be deserving, yet we think there is a line somewhere that people will be compelled to draw for self protection. We are not much in favor of tramps, anyway.

Personal Notes. -Will Nichols is home again from Kane. -Prof. Dixon shoots rats in his cellar window. -Horace Little will visit for a few weeks in this village. -Prof. Dixon will have no more ash barrels around his premises. -M. E. Lesser has moved into his new home across the creek. -Ida Luther has twenty-one scholars at the Laurel Mill school. -John Stout has been under the influence of a cold for several days. -Sam Clark has a tame cat, and a great mouser is that self same cat. -B. I. Taylor, of Kendall Creek, McKean county, is in town this week. -A great big fat sheet of paper and an envelope for a penny, at this office. -Orderly Horton is having a fearful time making ramrods and wiping sticks. -C. H. McCauley rendered us valuable assistance in copying the court proceedings. -The wife of Rev. H. V. Talbot has been absent from town on a visit for several days. -J. S. Powell has sold his stock of ladies' and children's shoes to J. S. and W. H. Hyde. -H. M. Powers will celebrate the ninth anniversary of his marriage on December 29th. -Horace Little has purchased of Henry Souther the hill above the Catholic church. -John VanOsdall has bought a hoe and a long handled shovel, his first purchase toward farming implements. -John Meenan and Joseph Bailey are again at home. They have been selling trees and shrubbery for Chase Bros. -J. N. Brown is still working on the Montgomery farm house. Will Curthbert was up helping him for a few days. -L. F. Powers is repairing Prof. Dixon's wood shed. Next time that ash barrel will be set out in the middle of the lot. -Running a newspaper for glory is a good deal like walking up hill to ride down again. Here goes for the glory all the same. -James McAfee and family went to Lock Haven to attend the funeral of Miss Keller, an account of whose death appears in another column. -J. S. Powell has been suffering with a severe cold for several days, part of the time being scarcely able to be out of the house. We hope he will soon feel better. -Judge Julius Jones dropped into this office last week for a pleasant chat. Hope he will call often. With his 62 years he is still erect and active as many a man at forty. -Brother Brandon was down to see us again this week, but that old arm is still getting no better fast. He says the St. Mary's mines are shipping a great quantity of coal this winter. -Capt. Schoening will commence his fourth term as prothonotary, etc., on January 1st. A twelve years lease of an important office shows what the people think of a man as an efficient officer. -Messrs. Annie M. Irwin and Tillie Clawges, who have been boarding at G. G. Messenger's and going to school for the past month, leave this week to take charge of schools in Spring Creek township. -Joe Bowers thought his bob-tailed cat was lost, but he left him alone and he came home with the stump of the tail behind her. It isn't a her cat, but we must make rhymes at the expense of truth sometimes. -G. W. Nichols has the job of putting up a barn for Mr. Meese, of the Centennial House, Kane. The frame work Mr. Nichols will do at B. F. Ely's mill, this place, the lumber to be shipped to Kane after it is framed. -Henry F. Darlington, editor and proprietor of the Bucks county Intelligencer, was stricken with paralysis Saturday morning. He remained unconscious during the day and night, and died Sunday morning at four o'clock. The funeral will take place to-day. -The Clearfield Republican nominates Hon. Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio, for President, and Hon. Wm. A. Wallace, of Pennsylvania, for Vice President. The Democratic party in 1880 might go a long way and nominate a much inferior ticket than the one which the Republican proposes. -James Penfield received a slight bruise on the left arm at the fire Sunday night. He was standing on the fence at the rear of the shed pulling off the roof boards when he fell off backwards, one of the boards following him and striking his arm. He also burned his hand taking hold of a burning board. -Miss Kate Keller, daughter of Peter Keller, of Lock Haven, died at New York City, N. Y., on November 20th. Miss Keller has been falling in health for many months, and spent several weeks this summer in Ridgway in the vain hope that the bracing atmosphere of this section would improve her health. She was but sixteen years of age. -It is no funeral of ours, of course, but it don't look right to see six beautiful young ladies marching home from church Sunday evening arm in arm, while six young gentlemen walk behind them, also arm in arm. If we were a boy again you can bet that there would be one young lady with a beau, even if another young fellow had to go it alone. We never was much of a Shaker anyway.

Notes. -Elected candidates in Jefferson county print cards of thanks in the county papers to those persons who supported them. Who ever heard of candidates thanking the voters after election? -The announcement that Wm. R. Humphrey, defaulting secretary of the New Rochelle, N. Y., savings bank, has been sentenced to ten years imprisonment is one we are most happy to hear. Let the great reformation proceed. -It is now claimed that the body of the dead millionaire, Stewart, is securely fastened under lock and key. Judge Hilton has offered a reward of $10,000 apiece for the arrest of the five persons supposed to have been engaged in the robbery. -The taste over Vanderbilt's will is still going on in the New York courts. The satisfaction of accumulating millions in order that people may abuse you after death is not a pleasant one, yet men will persist in piling up their millions by grinding the face of the poor. After all, it seems that great wealth is a great wrong. -Every now and then some chap writes to the newspaper for a recipe to prevent hair from coming out. If men would go home from the lodge before midnight, with their legs sober, their hair wouldn't come out so rapidly. We always go home early, and we have more hair now than the day we were born. -Renova Record. -The failure of the Bank of Glasgow together with other causes, have operated to make times terribly hard throughout England. Hundreds of men and women have been thrown out of employment, without a cent saved up for a rainy day and with a hard winter staring them in the face. Unless some relief is speedily offered great distress will ensue. -Kane is promising to be a place of considerable importance before long. The finding of oil within a few miles of that village awakening a new activity within the breasts of the residents. Some building has been going on there this fall, and the spring promises to show a great improvement in this line. A large number of new buildings are talked of as soon as spring opens. -"What," the young man asked the young woman who was waiting for him to ask for his hat, "what do I put you in mind of?" "A French clock," she said softly. And pretty soon he arose and went on his way. The next morning he called on an eminent horologist and asked him what was the distinguishing trait of a French clock. The horologist said, "Why, it never goes." And the young man was sorely cast down, and he grieved, and told no man of his hurt. -Hawkeye. -A man died in Philadelphia the other day worth a cool $10,000,000. He allowed himself no social enjoyment, was strict in his attention to business, worked more hours than any of his clerks, went to church occasionally, was known to but few outside his business relations, saved his money, and died worth the above sum. The game, it seems, is scarcely worth the candle, and yet we all hasten to be rich. Is it not better that we have some little enjoyment than that we amass a fortune to be quarreled about? -The Poultry World says: "The value of poultry flesh comparatively, is not so various in different breeds of fowls, as some of the books and certain partial writers on the subject aim to make it out. Well fed fowls of any breed, and such as have all need for their comfort and thrift, from chicken-hood upward, make excellent poultry for market, or for the private table. And there is no perceptible difference in the taste of the flesh of the domestic birds, so far as we could distinguish." The food on which fowls are fattened makes as much difference in the quality of the flesh as the breed.

Petition of citizens of Ridgway for the incorporation of said village. Petition not recommended. GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT. The grand inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, inquiring for the county of Elk in all matters relating to the same, do respectfully report: That they have acted upon all bills of indictment, of which three were found true bills, three were found not true bills, and one petition not granted. We beg leave further to report: That we have visited and inspected the county buildings, and find them in good order, except the drain pipes in the jail privies. We respectfully recommend that the aforesaid drain pipes be properly fixed at once. We respectfully tender our thanks to the honorable Judges and District Attorney for their courtesy and assistance rendered us during our deliberations. CHARLES LUHR, Foreman. State Notes. -The Thomson House, Kane, being closed, mail west now stops twenty minutes for dinner at Emporium, and for supper at Corry. -The bite of a poisonous black spider came near causing the death of a Miss Johnson, in Bradford. The bite was on the lip, and was done while she was asleep. -The Bradford field is provided with one hundred and forty nine iron tanks, with a capacity of about 2,500,000 barrels, while the wooden tankage supplies eleven hundred thousand more. -On Friday morning, at the Union depot in Corry, while a funeral party was taking the train for Erie, the platform gave way, precipitating twenty-five people into the sewer below. The casket containing the remains was buried in the rubbish. Several persons were injured; none fatally. -On Monday, T. N. Hackett, while filling a circular in his mill met with an accident, which probably made his hair stand on ends. He was standing over the saw when a boy, employed in the mill, pulled the bell cord and the engineer started the saw. He escaped, however, with a severe cut on one of his hands. It was indeed a narrow escape. -Cameron Press. -At noon on Saturday, near Upper Lehigh, when Charles Wenner, a brakeman, attempted to step from one car to another of a freight train on the Nescopeck railroad, the coupling broke, and he fell beneath the wheels and had both legs cut off. While endeavoring to extricate himself an arm became entangled and was taken off. He was then dragged a considerable distance and fell from a bridge thirty feet high. He was taken to the Wilkes-barre hospital, where he died. -Since the discovery of an overissue of Pennsylvania State bonds of 1853, on August 7 between fifteen and twenty of these bonds of $1,000 have been presented at the Treasury Department for redemption, but payment was refused, for the reason that the full amount of the loan had been redeemed. On November 7 one was received from Philadelphia and payment was refused. Yesterday the same bond was sent on by the Central National Bank of Philadelphia, presented, and again refused. The bank then notified the Treasury Department that if payment was refused the same course would be pursued as in the case of a protested note, and the bond was accordingly protested. The State Treasurer will make a report of the matter to the Legislature, and will publish in full the correspondence with bankers and financiers upon the subject. Pennsylvania's Congressmen. The following is a list of the Representatives elected to the next Congress from this State: First district—H. H. Bingham, Rep. Second—Charles O'Neil, Rep. Third—Samuel S. Randall, Dem. Fourth—W. D. Osmer, Rep. -Company E, Seventeenth regiment, is the name of the new organization in Warren. Gen. Huidekoper has ordered all companies of the Sixteenth and Seventeenth regiments to be present at Meadville, next Tuesday, December 3, for inspection and review by Governor Hartranft. Accordingly Captain Parmlee intends to get company E in as good marching shape as possible this week, and drill meetings will be held every evening at the armory. The uniforms will not arrive in time for this review, but there will be three other companies present without uniforms. The Sixteenth regiment comprises all companies around Oil City. The Seventeenth embraces all in the northern tier of counties, as follows: Company A, Corry, Captain Brown; company B, Erie, Captain Kurtis; company C, vacant, and will probably be filled from Bradford; company D, Erie, Captain Dodge; company E, Warren, Captain Parmlee; company G, Erie, Captain Wilson; company H, Ridgway, Captain Schoening; company I, North East, Captain Guy. -Warren Mail.
