The Philadelphia Phillies may need to call on Len Matuzek to fill the shoes of first baseman Pete Rose if Rose's back spasms continue throughout the regular season.

Phils a contender despite changes

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies have new owners, a new manager, a new image in the clubhouse and some key changes in playing personnel.

What does it all mean to a team that has been in the playoffs five of the last six years? Are the Phillies on an upward or downward trend? Is there a look of status quo?

President Bill Giles, head of a group which paid almost $31.5 million to buy the club from the Carpenter family, is trying to build a champion. But the limitless financial resources of the Carpenters and the paternalistic attitude of former club president Ruly Carpenter are gone.

Giles has to operate within a strict budget and answer to the stockholders who put up the money to buy the team. He and General Manager Paul Owens are paying their top players big dollars, but Giles is insistent on maintaining what he describes as "sanity" in the overall financial structure.

The Phillies aren't about to go out and sign $1 million-a-year free agents or trade for them.

Giles joked one day in spring training that he'd be glad to take outfielder Dave Parker off Pittsburgh's hands if he could pay the $1 million-a-year player $300,000.

Not that the Phillies are reluctant to part with money where they feel it's necessary. Third baseman Mike Schmidt, named Most Valuable Player in the National League the last two seasons, reportedly got a contract worth more than $11 million over six years.

"Schmidt is the best player in baseball, and within the financial structure of the game is worth what he got," Giles said.

In the clubhouse, Giles, involved in promotion and public relations during his career as a baseball executive, has told his players he wants them to cooperate with the media.

His message seems to have reached everyone except pitcher Steve Carlton, who maintains his stony silence with the press.

This spring, the players were the picture of cooperation, going out of their way to make themselves available to interviewers and photographers. That includes Ron Reed, who hadn't conversed with reporters for several years.

It's a big plus for Giles, who seems to have changed the personality of a team with a reputation for being very difficult to deal with on a one-on-one basis.

Attempting the make the team a factor in the National League race, Giles signed two big deals with the Chicago Cubs and prompted references to "Philadelphia Cubs."

The Chicago connection began last fall when Philadelphia manager Dallas Green resigned to become vice president and general manager of the Cubs. He was succeeded by Pat Corrales, a former Texas Rangers manager who, with the exception of Bobby Wine, brought in a new coaching staff. Corrales' ability to adjust to the National League has to be considered a factor.

The first deal with Chicago sent promising catcher Keith Moreland and two journeymen pitchers to the Cubs for starting pitcher Mike Krukow. The second involved swapping shortstops, Larry Bowa from the Phillies for the Cubs' Ivan DeJesus.

Giles also signed free agent pitcher Ed Farmer, formerly of the Chicago White Sox, and traded outfielder Bake McBride to Cleveland for reliever Sid Monge. In a three-way deal with Cleveland and St. Louis, he disposed of popular young outfielder Lonnie Smith for catcher Bo Diaz. Veteran catcher Bob Boone was sold to the California Angels.

Does all this wheeling and dealing leave the Phillies in contention against the defending NL champion Montreal Expos and the strong St. Louis Cardinals?

There are some question marks, making analysis difficult.

Reliever Tug McGraw is coming off an elbow operation and will start the season on the disabled list. Reed, Farmer, Monge, Sparky Lyle and Warren Brusstar appear to be the bullpen corps.

Then, there is Pete Rose, the 41-year-old wonder who is convinced he'll top Ty Cobb's all-time major league hit record of 4,191. Rose has 3,697, and needs 75 to pass runnerup Henry Aaron (3,771). But Rose strained a back muscle a week before spring training, and didn't play a game until March 27 — just 10 days before the season opener.

Will Rose's back muscle spasms go away? A back ailment is a tricky thing, and if Rose's contribution is limited, the Phillies must go with 27-year-old rookie Len Matuszek.

Matuszek is a good hitter, plays adequate defense, but he's not a Pete Rose, yet.

The rest of the infield — second baseman Manny Trillo, shortstop DeJesus and third baseman Schmidt — appear solid. But DeJesus will have to prove he can defend as well as Bowa, who holds the best lifetime percentage of any shortstop in the history of the game.

Diaz is supposed to have a cannon for an arm, and the Phillies got him because their staff last year threw out only 18 percent of the base stealers.

"We can't win with that kind of catching," said both Giles and Owens, prompting the departure of Boone and Moreland.

The backups are Dave Roberts, acquired in a late spring trade, and Ozzie Virgil, with a fine minor league hitting background but suspect catching tools.

Then, there is the most important aspect of a winning team — the starting pitchers.

Steve Carlton is still throwing hard at 37. Dick Ruthven could be on the threshold of his finest season. Krukow is counted upon to produce at least 15 victories. Larry Christenson, plagued by various injuries, hasn't demonstrated he's a winner since 1978. The potential fifth starter is rookie Mark Davis, but he may open the season in Oklahoma City.

The bottom line appears to be a finish anywhere from first to third, considering the talent available and the competition the NL East has to offer.

Pirate homers down Reds, Phillies club Twins

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Steve Nicosia and Lee Lacy hit wind-blown home runs and Paul Moskau picked up on waivers from Baltimore this week, got the victory as the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Cincinnati Reds 5-4 in the team's final exhibition game yesterday.

Moskau, traded by the Reds in the off-season for third baseman Wayne Krenchicki, pitched four innings in relief of Pirate starter Eddie Solomon. He allowed no earned runs and three hits in his second appearance for Pittsburgh before being relieved by Kent Tekulve in the eighth.

The Reds knocked Tekulve from the box in the ninth when Paul Householder hit a leadoff double, Clint Hurdle singled, Alex Trevino walked and German Barranca grounded out to score Householder to pull Cincinnati within one run at 5-4.

Rod Scurry then entered the game and struck out Ron Oester and retired Dan Driessen on a grounder to earn the save.

Phillies 11, Twins 8

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Philadelphia pitcher Larry Christenson's seven-strikeout performance and a seven-run fourth inning boosted the Phillies to an 11-8 victory over the Minnesota Twins yesterday in the final exhibition baseball game of the season for both teams.

The victory gave Philadelphia a 12-13 record for the spring, while Minnesota finished 9-16. The game wrapped up a two-game series which inaugurated the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome in downtown Minneapolis. The Twins won Saturday 5-0.

Philadelphia took a 1-0 lead in the first but the Twins came back to tie it in the second.

Then in the fourth, the Phillies sent 11 batters to the plate and ended up with five hits and seven runs.

Pete Rose was the big hitter for Philadelphia, going three-for-five with a double and two singles. Mickey Hatcher hit a double and a triple for Minnesota. Christenson got the victory, while Brad Havens got the loss.

Baseball games postponed

Gusty winds, rain, and cold temperatures cancelled both baseball doubleheaders this weekend against Rutgers and Mansfield.

The Lions' game with Lafayette today has also been postponed and will be played at a later date.

The twinbill against Mansfield has been rescheduled for April 10, which means the baseball team will have to play six games in four days.

The Lions are scheduled to play Lock Haven on Thursday, Mansfield on Saturday, and Howard on Easter Sunday.

Pens romp in playoff preview

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steve Gatzos scored a pair of goals and assisted on another while goalie Michel Dion turned aside 26 shots yesterday as the Pittsburgh Penguins won 7-2 in their playoff preview with the two-time defending Stanley Cup champion New York Islanders.

Pat Price, Paul Baxter and Paul Gardner each blasted power-play goals past Islander goalie Billie Smith, who had been unbeaten in his last 19 games, as Pittsburgh increased its National Hockey League record for power-play goals to 58.

The loss snapped a nine-game unbeaten streak for the Islanders, who suffered only their third loss in 36 games. But New York still finished the season with the NHL's best record.

The Penguins jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first period. Gatzos scored at 9:16 after taking a feed from Greg Malone.

Price then scored on the power-play at 17:31 with an assist from Gardner and Dion. Price's goal, his seventh of the season, came with New York's Gordon Lane banished for fighting and a game misconduct.

Baxter's ninth goal of the season came at 10:48 of the second period after the Islanders had killed off 31 seconds of a two-man disadvantage and all but six seconds of a double minor to Bill Bourne.

Rick MacLeish and Bobby Simpson boosted Pittsburgh's lead to 5-0 with unassisted goals in a three-minute span opening the third period. But Islander Clark Gillies ruined Dion's shutout bid by scoring his 38th goal of the season at 6:50 of the final period.

Butch Goring also scored for New York before Gatzos and Gardner retaliated for Pittsburgh. Gardner's goal came with just three seconds remaining and was his 21st power-play goal of the season, an NHL high.

Umpires eye new contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiations continued yesterday between the Major League Umpires Association and the American and National leagues in an effort to reach agreement on a new contract.

"We're getting close, but we're not there yet," Richie Phillips said, counsel for the umpires, who staged a seven-week strike in 1979.

If no agreement is reached, it could result in an job action today when the season is scheduled to start in Baltimore and Cincinnati.

Phillips was to meet last night with American League President Lee MacPhail and Chub Feeney, president of the National League.

The umpires worked exhibition games during spring training, while negotiations continued between the two sides. In 1979, umpires sat out spring training and picketed ballparks on opening day.

The two leagues hired substitute umpires that year, promoting some from the minors and filling in with college and semipro umps, while the regulars remained on strike. The strike ended May 18 with a three-year contract that provided significant gains in salaries, expense allowances and provided for umpires to receive in-season vacations.

Celebrate good times

Lions Steve Hunkins (left) and Bruce VanHorn (right) react with a "high 10" after the shot that wrapped up the last game to secure the men's volleyball team's overwhelming 15-12, 15-9, 16-14 victory over Rutgers-Newark in Rec Hall.
