Lady harriers ready for weekend Classic

By MARK WOGENRICH
Collegian Sports Writer

While the runners of the women's cross country team are busy taking academic midterms, they are also gearing up for another kind of test as they head to Lehigh University for the Paul Short Classic.

Tomorrow's race is, as Head Coach Teri Jordan calls it, a preview of the NCAA Region II and East Coast Athletic Conference Championships to be run on the same track in November.

"It (the race) is like a midterm in that it shows us how we are performing up to this point and also gives us some indication of how much work we still have to do to get ready for Finals (the November NCAA Championships in Tucson, Ariz.)," she said.

The 21-team meet is a key point in the season for the Lady Lions because they will meet top ECAC competition — such as Yale, Villanova and Toronto — on the Region II track.

"This meet has always been important to us because it gives us a good idea of what kind of competition we will have at Regionals, and shows us what we will have to do in order to win (the Region II title)," Jordan said.

The race is also pivotal for the squad in that it is the first meeting of the year between Penn State and its ECAC archrival, Villanova.

"On paper they have a very good team," Jordan said of the team the Lady Lions have defeated 11 consecutive times for the ECAC title. "It will be interesting to see how we stack up against them right now."

At the present time, Jordan's team stacks up quite nicely against the Wildcats. In the National Coaches' Poll, the Lady Lions are ranked No. 15, while Villanova is one slot behind at 16th. Jordan, however, is wary of rankings this early.

"It's nice to be ranked that high," the coach said. "But it may be a little too early to get a real idea of who should be ranked where. The rankings should be a little clearer after the (Oct. 18) Burger King Classic (in Wisconsin)."

In preparing for Villanova and the rest of the competition, Jordan's squad is still working hard.

"We cut back a little bit to give the girls a chance to rest and study," said Jordan. "But basically we are still working as hard as we have been."

Even with all the work and studying, Jordan says the team is still pumped for the meet.

7 ways to housebreak a burglar.
Remember, the average burglar will break into a house only when the going looks easy. Here are 7 effective ways to discourage him:
1. Install deadbolt locks on all exterior doors.
2. Make certain all windows and patio and garage doors are securely locked.
3. Install a timer to turn on your lights and radio when you're out for an evening.
4. When you go on vacation, ask neighbors to keep an eye on things. Have deliveries stopped, mail picked up and keep your grass cut. The point is, make your house look occupied.
5. Keep your lawn tractor and bikes locked up when they're not in use.
6. There is no place you can think of to hide a key that a smart burglar hasn't thought of first.
7. Never leave notes to delivery men indicating that nobody is home.
