Proclamation From the President of the United States.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The following proclamation was issued from the Department of State to-day:

By the President of the United States—A proclamation: It has long been the pious custom of our people, with the closing of the year, to look upon the blessings brought to them in the changing course of the seasons and to return solemn thanks to the All Giving Source from whom they flow. And although at this period, when the falling leaf admonishes us that the time of our sacred duty is at hand, our Nation still lies in the shadow of a great bereavement, and the mourning which has filled our hearts still finds its sorrowful expression toward the God before whom we but lately bowed in grief and supplication. Yet the countless benefits which have been showered upon us during the past twelve months call for our fervent gratitude, and make it fitting that we should rejoice with thankfulness that the Lord in his infinite mercy has most signally favored our country and our people. Peace without and prosperity within have been vouchsafed to us. No pestilence has visited our shores. The abundant privileges of freedom, which our fathers left us in their wisdom, are still our increasing heritage. And if, in parts of our vast domain, some affliction has visited our brethren in their forest homes, yet even this calamity has been tempered and in a manner sanctified by the generous compassion for the sufferers which has been called forth throughout our land. For all these things it is meet that the voice of the Nation should go up to God in devout homage.

Wherefore I, Chester A. Arthur, President of the United States, do recommend that all the people observe Thursday, the 24th day of November, instant, as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, by ceasing, so far as may be, from their secular labors and meeting in their several places of worship, there to join in ascribing honor and praise to Almighty God, whose goodness has been so manifold in our history and in our lives, and offering earnest prayers that his bounties may continue to us and to our children.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this fourth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and sixth.

(Signed) CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

By the President:

JAMES G. BLAINE,
Secretary of State.

THE general belief among well-read people is that the days of piracy ended long ago. They will be astonished to read such an item as the following: "A fierce encounter between the crew of a Chinese gunboat and a gang of freebooters, under the famous pirate of the Pacific, Kwang-king-man, took place near Ningpo on September 15. The action was wholly with small boats. The pirates sought refuge in shallow water and the gunboat captain was obliged to send out his junks. The men of the latter were armed with repeating rifles and the marauders with muskets. The fighting was terrible. More than two hundred of the pirates were slain, and nine were captured alive, and seventy, including the chief, escaped. Kwang-king-man's stronghold at Tong-tsow-shan is said to be impregnable. It is approached only by a narrow pass in the mountain and is defended with artillery. The Chinese Government has a standing offer of $5,000 for his head."

THE Chinese are greatly alarmed over the appearance of a large comet. They believe that it is the forerunner of the assassination of the Emperor.

LIQUOR DEALERS are forming a State Association to obtain or secure the present license law.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR will designate Thursday, November 24, as Thanksgiving day.

CROPS have failed to such a degree in Northern Russia that famine is feared.

THE Chicago Inter Ocean thus forcibly and aptly illustrates the difference between the free trade, protection, and "a tariff for revenue only." It says:

"The farmer who protects himself—that is, the farmer who keeps up good fences, pastures only his own cattle, and keeps his crops from cattle and hogs which run at large, so that they cannot break in—will be likely to have not only enough for home consumption, but something for market. And if takes care to sell more than he buys, he will in time grow rich. If, by such economy and thrift, his annual income is greater than his expenses, it is impossible he should fall into bankruptcy; it is impossible he should not increase in wealth. He has then a substantial capital on which to trade; and if he follows up the same principles of management in all his business, he will be able to gradually do more and more business, and will become better and better off. As he accumulates, his wants are augmented. He will buy more, because he is able to buy, partly for taste, partly for comfort, and partly to expand the value of what he has already. It was the tariff of duties, so to speak, which he imposed on himself and his neighbors—with no wrong to them, and certainly with great benefit to himself—it was this tariff, we say, with which he started in life, that has made him a rich and prosperous man, and able to trade largely with others; and it is the same tariff, continued, which fortifies his position, increases his wealth, and still further extends his business. Such a man can never fail. It is impossible. But let him lay aside these habits of self-protection and economy; let him throw away this tariff; let him begin to buy more than he sells, and keep at it; let his fences go down, and all cattle running at large feed in his pastures and on his crops—does it require a prophet to tell what will become of his wealth and his prosperity? Now, tariff protection to home industry is simply the same principle, applied to the whole nation by Congress, as the thrifty farmer, in our example, applied to his industrial case; and "a tariff for revenue only" is, typically, a three-rail fence around the farm, keeping out neither cattle nor hogs."

DISPATCHES.

BRADFORD, Pa., November 3.—At a dance last night at Big Shanty, a small town near here, Mrs. Gertie Oliver, aged 35, wife of W. D. Oliver, after dancing quite heartily two or three times, complained of feeling unwell, and was removed to an ante-room, where she died in fifteen minutes. The cause is supposed to have been the rupture of an artery. The deceased weighed about 200 pounds.

TIFFIN, Ohio, Nov. 4.—Charles Madden, a divinity student, at Heidelberg college, shot and killed Miss Phœbe Bernard late last night on the street. It is said he was madly in love with her and she did not reciprocate. He asked her to marry him and upon her refusal he shot her dead. He hid in a lumber yard during the night but surrendered himself to-day. Madden's home is in Stark county, and his friends claim that he is insane.

TROY, Nov. 4.—A delicate and novel operation was performed at the hospital yesterday morning on John Farrell. Eleven years ago Farrell, who came to Troy from Omaha, swallowed two false teeth and the rubber plate attached. A number of attempts have since been made to force the plate into the abdomen. These operations were unsuccessful, but served to lodge the substance in the lower part of the gullet. Aside from the suffering Farrell has for a long time been unable to partake of other than liquid food. Yesterday's operation for the removal of the plate consisted in making an incision in the neck behind the ear, dissecting the windpipe by an opening of about three inches, and another incision in the gullet. The patient received a narcotic before the painful operation. The operation was entirely successful. The plate was removed with the teeth intact.

SHIRMAKSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 4.—The most extensive robbery that has ever occurred in the town took place last night. The miscreants first broke open the tool house of section 2, Cumberland Valley railroad, and supplied themselves with the proper tools. Their first attempt was at the ticket office. This they entered through the door leading into the waiting room and thence to the ticket office. After examining every department where money might possibly be kept, and finding none they left, taking with them a lamp and at once set off for the large grain warehouse of J. R. Miller directly opposite. There was no particular trouble to enter here. Mr. Miller has in his office a large fire proof safe. This they blew open, and its contents, consisting of about $100 in cash and checks together with valuable papers, were taken. The safe is a perfect wreck. Still not being satisfied with their night's work they proceeded to the dry goods and clothing house of Bowman & Miller. Here they gained an entrance through the rear door. The safe used by this firm is of a more ancient design than the first one assailed, although quite a good one. Three holes were drilled in the door of the safe and the work of demoralization perfectly completed. From this this they obtained $300 in cash and checks—mostly in cash. Nothing was left at either place to give any clue to the perpetrators. The affair has caused quite an excitement.

AN EXCITING RIDE.

A Railroad Train Passes Through a Herd of Buffaloes.

From the Bismarck Times.

The passengers on last evening's train from the Yellowstone had an experience exceedingly rare. When about two miles from Sentinel Butte, the dividing line between Montana and Dakota, a herd of sixteen buffalo were seen a short distance ahead, within easy rifle range. There were several soldiers on board with army rifles, and numerous small revolvers were also pointed toward the excited bison. A perfect volley of lead was poured into the herd, but to no effect. They bounded away over the divide, and were soon out of sight. The passengers had no sooner begun a discussion of what they had seen in years gone by, than a danger signal from the locomotive brought every one to the lookout. A herd of twenty or thirty buffalo were making directly for the train; and, fearing the engine would strike them and be thrown from the track, the air brakes were set, and the train nearly brought to a standstill, while the buffalo crossed the track a few feet ahead. Every gun was again levelled. Such excitement cannot be described. Bullets flew in every direction, some striking the ground as near as ten feet from the train, others raising the dust a mile distant. The train moved on slowly, and the volleys of lead continued to pour from the guns of the excited passengers. Finally the smoke cleared away, and the buffalo could be seen about half a mile away, trotting along as unconcerned as though they had never seen a railroad train. The disgusted passengers drew in their weapons, and spent the rest of the day arguing as to the probable amount of lead that a buffalo will carry before he will weaken. Pictures of railroad trains passing through herds of buffalo are numerous, but the actual experience is one of which the passengers may feel proud. They were probably but straggling bands from the main herd, which is forty or fifty miles north of the track. From Sentinel Butte east to Pleasant Valley (Dickinson) at least five hundred antelope were seen, which is but a daily occurrence. Verily, the North Pacific is the sportsman's paradise.

Mayor Latrobe, of Baltimore, has signed an ordinance absolutely prohibiting the sale of toy pistols in that city. The large number of deaths from lockjaw last summer was the cause of the passage of the act.

An Ohio man lugged away from the U. S. Treasury yesterday $17,000 in twenty-dollar gold pieces, which he had received in redemption of bonds. Gold he wanted, and gold he got—75 pounds of it—after the officials tried to convince him of the folly of his demand. He evidently wanted to get square with the Government; and he did.

The Rev. Abijah Green, an aged Presbyterian clergyman, who went from Highland Falls, N. Y., to attend the Presbyterian Synod in New York city, was found dead in bed last Thursday morning. The gas had not been turned off in his room, and it is likely that in a forgetful moment, being accustomed to the use of lamps, he blew out the flame.

William Sanders, the driver, was instantly killed, and of the three passengers a Mr. Brown was fatally and G. C. Harris and A. C. Threadgill were severely hurt.

What may not happen in 1881 it is hard to say. Among the most unlikely happenings, viewed from the outlook of a year ago, was the present importation of cabbages from Germany and potatoes from Ireland. The drought and consequent high prices for vegetables are responsible for the fact that real Irish potatoes, genuine Champions and Skerries, are in the market. They come from a land to whose starving peasants America last year sent shiploads of supplies.—New York Sun.

A lynching party met at Socorro, New Mexico, a few days ago to hang a robber. A WESTERN exchange writes: Missouri is now the scene of a singular and frightful disease, which prevails most virulently in Platte county, but is spreading steadily to neighboring regions. At first it was supposed to be a form of small-pox more loathsome than any which has ever been seen on this continent, but it is regarded by scientific men as a type of the black plague, which prevailed in parts of Southern Europe several centuries ago, and then devastated Italy, Spain, Portugal and Hungary. The disease, as it rages in Missouri, kills a person attacked in a few hours, rotting his body and converting the corpse into a black pulp so offensive as to render it impossible for the living to endure the odor.

IT is the height of folly to wait until you are in bed with disease that may last months, when you can be cured by a timely use of Parker's Ginger Tonic. We have known sickly families made the healthiest by it. —Observer.

A RARE CHANCE

To Buy a Large Tract of Good Land at a Moderate Price:

To a man who desires to make farming and stock-raising his business, this is the greatest bargain in Juniata county.

Three Hundred Acres and more, having thereon a large Brick Dwelling House in good condition, Barn and other outbuildings; a running stream of water near the door, also, good well water in yard; an Orchard of 8 acres, as good as any in the county; a grove of 50 maple trees, which, if attention were directed to, could be turned into a source of income, as such groves are in Somerset county, this State, and as such groves are in New England.
