SENTINEL & REPUBLICAN

MIFFLINTOWN.

Wednesday, January 7, 1885.

B. F. SCHWEIER,

EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

President Arthur began the New Year with a grand reception at the White House.

European nations will do all they can to prevent this government from building a canal across Nicaragua.

The State Treasurer reports that on the 31st day of December, 1884, there was a fund in the Treasury of $742,935.62c.

The British government proposes to protest against the government of the United States building a canal across Nicaragua.

The Senate and the House came to a dead lock on the question of Naval Appropriation, about the time of the opening of the holidays.

A great earthquake in Spain, on the 28th day of December, destroyed houses and took the life of over 3,000 people. The earthquake was felt in Great Britain.

A number of General Grant's friends propose to raise enough money to pay the claim that Vanderbilt has against Grant's property. Vanderbilt's claim is $160,000.

The Spanish Treaty is not popular. The question is asked, why should we have free trade with Cuba and Porto Rico, if it takes away millions of revenue and does not increase the trade of our people?

It is said that the senatorial character that the Philadelphia Press has hidden in the wood pile, to trot out for the United States Senate, if a ghost of a chance appears, is Mr. Wells the owner of the Press.

It is despatched from Chicago that there are 405,000 acres less wheat growing in Illinois than grew last year, and that the yield of wheat next summer, in that State, must be over two million bushels less than last year.

The country did not become panic stricken when the Lower House of Congress violated the Constitution, and went into a state of revolution by adjourning without the consent of the Senate, for a period of more than three days.

The French declare that they will build or put up an iron monument or shaft that will overtop the Washington monument. It is to be erected on the ground of the Paris Exposition of 1889. The base is to cover an acre and a quarter of ground and it is to be 984 feet high.

The peculiar cries that were heard to proceed from the mountain directly north of Womelsdorf, Berks county, during the past month, were not delivered by a panther, but by a strange woman, who was tracked in the snow a few days ago, to her habitation, which is in a small hut high up on the side of the mountain.

The Lower House of Congress put itself in a state of revolution by adjourning over the holidays for a period of more than three days without the consent of the Senate. The Constitution says, that, "neither house, during the session of Congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days."

The Senate and the Lower House of Congress could not agree on the Naval Appropriation, and the House took that as an excuse to go into a state of revolution by adjourning for more than three days, without the consent of the Senate, which is expressly forbidden by the Constitution. If the Democratic House will thus kick the constitution immediately after the election of a Democratic President, what will it do after Cleveland has been inaugurated?

Congressman Randall did the South during the holidays, and delivered a number of public speeches. He favors the removal of the internal revenue system of taxation, it was one of the necessaries of the war, and was established to meet the pressing financial needs of government. The causes that called the system into being, have passed away, and the law is no longer constitutional. Such are his views, and the people generally do approve of them.

If the Senate would pass a bill to redeem the trade dollar at its face value, the country would have more respect for it than it has. There is a strong feeling of contempt for the Congress of the United States for having two one dollar silver pieces in circulation, the least valuable piece of which is made a legal tender at one hundred cents, while the more valuable one is left without a legal tender protection to float about at bullion rates. The country looks with amazement at the action of Congress in its failure to establish a uniformity of value for the two pieces, or in its failure to redeem the trade dollar. The country is not settled in its opinion as to whether Congress lacks in capacity to deal with the question in a common sense way, or whether the hindering cause is a ring of coin and business gamblers.

They are having a time of it in Northville, L. I., over the fact that some days ago a pious deacon named Terry, slipped away with preacher Down's wife. For some reason the deacon and the preacher's wife did not get along as lovingly as was expected, and they both concluded to return. The deacon's wife received her wayward husband, but the preacher would not receive his wayward wife, but instead of loving forgiveness, he invokes the lashes of the law and has brought suit for a divorce, and suit against the deacon for seduction and abduction. The church in that town and everybody connected with it are feeling miserable over the conduct of the deacon and the preacher's wife.

Colonel McClure, of the Philadelphia Times, was to see Cleveland, and publishes a long account relative to the visit. The only real clear statement in the long and interesting article is that the President is a better looking man than his pictures indicate. The state policy of the new administration is not pointed out.

"Do You Catch On."

The following from the New York World explains itself.

We have received the following interesting missive from a very peculiar Pennsylvania Postmaster:

To The Editor of The World:

Your paper has been coming to me ever since the election. At first I looked upon it as a joke some friend was trying to get off on me, but it's coming too frequent to be a joke, and it has assumed the characteristics of a regular bona fide subscriber. Do you expect me to pay for it? This is asking a good deal. You have licked our candidate for President, by the means of which I will likely lose my position of postmaster; and now you ask me to subscribe for your paper. Well, I will make you a proposition. As long as I remain P. M., I will be a subscriber to your paper. Do you catch on? Now, if there is any virtue in your paper you will keep me here for the purpose of making a convert out of me.

Resp'ct., W. H. ROGERS, P. M.
Mifflintown, Pa., Dec., 22d.

Some kind friend of the Democratic persuasion has probably subscribed for the World for the Mifflintown Postmaster for the purpose of converting him. We shall continue sending the paper for the period that it is paid for. The proposition for us to use our influence to have Mr. Rodgers retained as Postmaster at Mifflintown in order to secure a subscriber is in the nature of a gross bribe. It is absolutely shocking in its coarseness. It shows conclusively that Mr. Rodgers is unfit for the position he holds, and as soon as the new Administration is installed we shall use our best endeavors to have him turned out. We trust that Mr. Cleveland's Secretary will make a note of this man's case now.—N. Y. World.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

Death of a Noted Horse Thief.

LANCASTER, Dec. 29.—Information has just reached this city that John Frankford, the notorious one-eyed horse thief and jail breaker, died at the residence of his half brother, Martin Kline, at Akron, Ohio, October 22, after an illness of nine weeks, from brain fever, induced by his wounded eye—a wound that was received in an attempt to escape from the Lancaster county prison through a ventilating flue. The flue led from the cellar to the roof, and just as Frankford's head appeared above the roof Captain J. P. Weise, the keeper of the prison, shot him in the eye. Frankford, though less than fifty years old, probably stole more horses than any other one man in the United States, having been engaged in it from early boyhood, during which time he was credited with having stolen hundreds, if not thousands of horses.

The Beauty of Youth.

No matter how handsome or stalwart a young man may be otherwise, nothing can make up for a partially bald head. Shining talents are attractive, but a shining poll is not. The cause may be sickness or anything else, yet Parker's Hair Balsam will stop the loss of the hair and start a new growth of glossy and soft hair so quickly as to surprise you—restoring the original color at the same time. Not a dye, not oily, delicately perfumed. Only standard 50c. dressing.

One of the latest projects is that of a pneumatic tube connecting New York and Chicago for the transmission of letters and small packages. At first one brass tube is to be tried, the direction of the exhaust being changed every hour, but ultimately two tubes in constant work will be set up. The letter or package is to be enclosed in a stiff leather ball. The details of the scheme are yet incomplete, but the theory is that the time of transmission will be less than one minute.

Crawford county farmers have a co-operative bank, the benefits being the distribution of profits, the customers, both depositors and borrowers, sharing pro rata in proportion to their business. The profits, instead of being paid out annually, are held by the bank and placed to the credit of customers, to be paid out at the option of the directors and stockholders. The profits do not go to stockholders unless they furnish the business.

A few nights since the house of a Polander living near Bell's Bridge, Monroe county, was entered by a man named William Smith. The Polander's wife, who was the only occupant of the house, fought Smith so desparately that he was glad to escape by leaping out of a window.

Claus Kleever, while seated by his fireside, in Audubon county, Iowa, was murdered by Peter Ryan, 21 years old, who came in and asked permission to warm himself. No cause for the murder is known.

Joseph Gough, a farmer of Waterbury, Conn., has lost 54 from a drove of over 100 hogs, from hog cholera. 17 more were ordered to be killed by the State authorities, and the rest will be quarrantined.

According to the Clearfield Citizen, the quantity of timber cut in that county this year will not reach more than half the usual out put.

Henry Spangler has been arrested at Johnstown for a burglary committed in Blair county in 1833.

"All freight trains over the Pennsylvania Railroad stop at this station, which give tramps a chance to lay off for something to eat and to obtain a night's lodging in jail. This movement of the tramps every winter put such a cost on the county that taxpayers began loudly to complain, and their complaints caused the county authorities to look into the method of the commitment of the nomad to prison. It was discovered that the tramps would voluntarily go to the office of a Justice and ask to be committed to jail for a night's lodging. They would be sent to jail on their own declaration as tramps. The next morning some one from the jail would take the tramps before the same Justice who had sent them to prison for a hearing, and on their own testimony that they were not making a practice of going about begging or subsisting upon alms for the purpose of living they would be discharged.

Such proceedings always give the committing Magistrate the chance to charge up costs Justice entry, commitment entry, mileage, hearing and discharge to jailer. The county authorities refused to pay several bills of costs that were incurred in that way. Suit was brought to recover the costs and the case was argued before Judge Barnett, of the Forty-first Judicial district, and two days ago the Judge read an elaborate opinion, and had the same filed in the Prothonotary's office, against such methods of obtaining costs. The opinion declares that tramps are vagrants and criminals and that the county is not liable in the case of tramps committed and then afterwards discharged on a hearing before a Justice; that it is not discharge according to law. The opinion will save the tax-payers quite a large sum of money." The Judge's opinion on the question of tramp costs will be published in these columns in full in the next issue.

A. J. Patterson was appointed Commissioner to take testimony in the case of the application of Lewis D. Manning for a divorce from his wife Sarah Manning.

In the matter of the transcribing of the indices of the judgements of the Prothonotary's office in accordance with the former order of Court. The Court upon inspection of the new indices approved of the same and ordered that the index of Judgements be hereafter entered in the new indices. And it was further ordered that the bill for the service of the Prothonotary in transcribing into the new indices be submitted to a committee of the bar, of whom the counsel to the Commissioners shall be one, the Prothonotary shall chose one and the two thus named and chosen shall chose a third, and the committee thus constituted shall report to the court at its next regular term in February the bill of the Prothonotary for compensation for the work of the transcribing of the judgements.

S. H. Beach was appointed to take testimony in matters pertaining to the Swarner estate.

John Bergy was appointed guardian of the heirs of Sarah Bergy as to the estate divised to them by A. B. Haldeman deceased to give bond in the sum of four hundred dollars.

An order of sale was granted to Jacob Beidler, Esq., administrator of Silas Beidler, deceased, to sell real estate of said decedent.

Robbed of $1,800.

The Democrat and Sentinel, of Lewistown of December 25 1884, publishes the following: Elias Dickson, a well known resident of the vicinity of Three-locks, about ten miles up the river, was robbed of about eighteen hundred dollars a couple of months ago. Information of the robbery reached us several weeks ago, but owing to the fact that it was being kept as quiet as possible in the hope of getting a clue to the perpetrator of the crime, we made no mention of it. Now, however, gossips have so spread the intelligence that no harm or delay of justice can come from its publication. During the ice gorge in February last, Mr. Dickson's house and barn were surrounded by the water and ice, a number of sheep and hogs being drowned. At that time he had several thousand dollars in cash in his house, and hired a neighbor to work his way through the flood into the house and secure the money. As the money was in coin it made considerable of a burden. Probably this circumstance caused some one with an itching palm to believe this, in the language of thieves, a good crib to crack. At any rate the house was entered on a recent Sunday and the amount above stated taken from a bureau drawer. The money was in the lower drawer of the bureau which was locked, but it was only necessary to take out the drawer above it and easy access was gained to the treasure. There is no clue to the thief.

The New Port News of the 3rd inst., relates the following: Several days since Levi M. Petersheim, brothers, of Lancaster county, drove through Newport enroute to Mifflin county, on a visit to friends in Big Valley. Their horse was a most beautiful animal, for which the frugal Dunkards had been offered $800. They refused to accept that amount, in as much as they valued him as highly as anybody else could and did not desire to dispose of him. Whenever the horse was seen great admiration was enlisted for him, but none were prouder of the high-mettled, intelligent steed than the brothers Petersheim. They arrived in safety at their destination, in Mifflin county, where they remained several days. Before starting on their home-ward journey they were notified by some means which we by some means which we have not learned, that a thief was on their track, whose object was to steal their horse. That had the effect of making them vigilant. On Sunday of last week they started home, accompanied by Christian M. Cook, a friend and resident of Mifflin county. That night the party turried with friends in Juniata county and took turns in keeping watch on the stable in which their horse was kept. About two o'clock on the following Monday morning, while Mr. Cook was sitting in his bedroom, looking out of the window, in the direction of the barn, he saw the stable door open and a stranger emerge from the building with the Petersheim horse. He wakened his friends and then hurried to the stable, arriving in the barnyard just as the thief was in the act of leaping on the horse and riding away. He demanded to know what right the stranger had with the horse, when the thief knocked Mr. Cook down with his fist. The brief encounter delayed the thief and gave the Messrs. Petersheim time to arrive upon the scene before he could get possession of the horse. Upon their approach the thief took to his heels and escaped. Mr. Cook was slightly stunned by the rascal's blow, but was not seriously hurt. The party resumed their journey on Monday.

The Philadelphia Record Almanac for 1885 is on our table, it is handsomely illustrated and is a mine of valuable information. An interesting chapter is the one devoted to the Record and its Home, a perfect description of a great daily which the Record is. Weather signs and proverbs is a chapter that will be read by everyone, but to thoroughly appreciate the almanac it will be necessary to obtain one and peruse it.

The session of the Presbyterian church in this place has reappointed A. J. Patterson superintendent of the Sabbath School for the year 1885.

MARRIED AND SINGLE
How Lost, How Restored!
Just published, a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence, or sexual extravagance, &c.
The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
