The Hollidaysburg Register says: "One night last week two young men and two girls started to drive from Altoona to Williamsburg. When they reached the Three Mile dam it was very dark and just as they came to the highest point of the stone wall the horses shied and jumped into the river with the carriage. The occupants saved themselves a bath by springing out into the road as the carriage fell. The horses floundered around in the water for several hours before they broke loose and gained the bank. The carriage was left standing in fifteen feet of water and it was there yesterday. The liveryman offers ten dollars to anyone who will get the carriage out."

From the Lewistown Gazette: One of our citizens, who has been prospecting for some time in the mountains near Granville, reports good indications of coal. We hope he won't be disappointed. * * A good many squirrels have been shot near Painter. * * The constable in McVeytown locked up several persons for being drunk and disorderly. * * Charley and Bross Stratton of Ryde, put some apple pummice along the river shore to bait musk rats with. They set their steel traps and caught two coons instead of rats. * * Thomas Frankenberry, Mr. Miller and Mr. Hammon built a bear trap on Black Log mountain the first of last week. Last Saturday morning while Miller and Hammon were making railroad ties in Licking Creek Valley, they heard a terrible noise on the mountain, where their pen was. They went up and found a young bear in the pen and two old and one young bear around the pen making a terrible noise. They had no gun fit to shoot the old ones with, so they left for other parts. The one in the pen dressed thirty-five to forty pounds.

Johnson, Treasurer; Calvin Bell of Petersburg, Joseph Duff and Harry Lightner, of West township, and Samuel Myton, Wm. Walker, and C. C. Kooker, of Barree township, Directors. $3,000, the required amount, has been subscribed to begin operations in sinking a well. * * George Anker whose praises as a brave defender of his home will be sounded for years to come in Huntingdon county, was in town last week, with his wife and little boy. This was Mr. Anker's first trip since the day he was shot at Hawn's a few month ago. He is able to walk about slowly with the aid of a cane and is mending as rapidly as can be expected. * * There are 691 pensioners in Huntingdon county and their quarterly pay amounts to $17,494.24. * * Prof. W M. L. Smith, of this place, has been selected as the teacher of sciences in the West Jersey Academy, at Bridgeton. * * 470 marriage licenses have been issued to date in this county.

From the Bloomfield Times. The increase in the value of land around Lincoln, Nebraska, has made Prof. A. L. Guss quite wealthy. The Prof. put his money in Western land several years ago, when principal of the Cassville soldiers' orphans' school. He is now reaping the benefit of his fortunate investment. * * Last Wednesday evening, Mr. Lewis Boyer of Baskinsville, went to his well, barefooted to get a drink before going to bed, when a large copperhead snake struck him on the top of his foot. He called for help, and his daughter came at once and tied a ligature around his ankel to stop the spread of poison while his son-in-law despatched the venomous reptile. Dr. Shearer was called in and treated him with whiskey, and Thursday morning he was on a fair road for recovery. Another copperhead supposed to be this one's mate was killed in Mr. Boyer's yard last week. * * Fishermen complain bitterly of the foul condition Susquehanna, caused by the sulphur water pumped from the coal mines. Then it destructive to the fish and as it now covers over one fourth of the river at Duncannon, the fish are dying by the thousands.

From the Lewistown Sentinel.—E. M. Frankhouser planted seven bushels of potatoes last spring. Last week he raised them and realized seven bushels. Try it again. * * All our efforts thus far to ascertain the nominees of the Prohibition county convention at Reedsville on Monday have been unavailing. We even interviewed the secretary, but he declined to furnish them, because most of the candidates were not present and it was not known if they would accept. * * Hunters who frequent our mountain regions are requested to call at this office and get some peach seeds for planting in out of the way places, old coaling beds being the best. These seeds are of a choice kind, and where not destroyed will grow up, bear heavily as several do now, and pay somebody. * * As Wm. Horning was driving home via the tow path on Monday evening, his horse took a fit and jumped into the canal. Mr. H. succeeded in getting the animal on to the road again and had driven a short distance when she fell and rolled down an embankment into a hedge fence. The buggy was turned upside down, from which Mr. H. escaped by jumping. In cutting away the hedge to extricate the mare she was accidentally cut with the ax above the knee, making a frightful looking wound.

From the Bloomfield Advocate: "Silver ore that assays $4 a ton, has been found in a mountain in Perry county," is an old chestnut. * * Shoot partridges between October 15 and December 15, if you find them. * * Johny Stambaugh took his departure Monday morning for Ohio, to break up the soil for the spring crop. He took with him for help, Martin Fry, Emmett Anderson and four horses. * * Our old friend, Mr. James Witmer, of Pfoutz's Valley, has, for a number of years, turned his attention to potato raising, and always has a ready market for them. This year he planted 32 acres in potatoes—9 acres in Pfoutz's Valley, 8 acres in Saville township and 15 acres on his farm in Juniata county, from all of which he expects to raise between 3,500 and 4,000 bushels. He has always been a successful potato raiser. * * It is also remarked, that to the average spectator the array of feminine beauty which adorned the fair grounds last week was surprising. Perry is just full of 'em, and their presence is one of the drawing cards of the exhibition. Gallants from neighboring counties were paralyzed by their magnetism. * * W. Frank Fink, of Elitsburg, has organized a singing class of 23 members. * * The members of the Reformed congregation of Ellotsburg, are making quite an improvement to their church edifice, by putting up stone steps in place of the old wooden ones in front of their church. The stones to be used for the steps were hauled from the Chestnut Flat.

AND ODDS & ENDS.

We want to get rid of our surplus stock. We want to get rid of odd lots. We want to get rid of broken sizes. We want to get rid of all the ends and remnants that have accumulated in our store during the past spring and summer season. Calculating the real cost of these goods we find them to be WORTH ABOUT $11,300.

But totally ignoring their true value, we have concluded to close them out for the ROUND SUM OF $8,000.

With this end in view the price of each garment, although marked down previously, will undergo an additional reduction. Surely no man should fail to embrace this best of all opportunities to make advantageous purchases. If you doubt our statement in the slightest, we ask you to come in and see the plain figures marked on the ticket of each article. This will likely convince you of the truth of this special sale of odds and ends.

ODDS AND ENDS IN MEN'S SUITS.

There are altogether about 500 suits, representing over 50 different styles and patterns, any size among them. We have divided these suits according to quality, into three different lots which we will offer at $5.00, $8,00 AND $11.25.

Our $5 lot, would cost not less than $8, while many suits would be considered bargains at $9.

Our $8 lot is one we recommend for dress suits and all others whose calling require a neat appearance, former prices ranged from $11 to $14.

Our $11.25 lot contains nothing but fine, imported dress suits, sacks and cutaways; stylish dressers should come in and see these goods; former prices $15 to $17.

ODDS AND ENDS IN BOY'S SUITS,

Gives every father and mother a chance to "rig him out" in a first-class suit for one-half the money it's worth. If your boys wear knee pants suits be sure and look at our broken sizes of these garments. The suits we will close out at $2 50 and $3, were marked originally $3.50 and $4.75. If your boys wear long pants suits it will pay you to secure and pick your choice of the rather limited assortment of $5 and $7 suits at $3.50 and $4.50, $8 and $10 suits at $5 and $6.25.
