

-Tomorrow is good Friday.

-Onion sets at Powell & Kime's.

-Next Sunday is Easter Sunday.

-All grades of sugar at Morgester's.

-Fresh Butter—Chapin's best at Powell & Kime's.

-The list of Jurors for the May term appears in this issue.

-Prime Erie county butter always in stock at Morgester's.

-The Swarthmore note paper for sale at THE ADVOCATE OFFICE.

-The post office at Dageshahonda, this county, has been discontinued.

-Call and see our new beveled gilt-edged visiting cards. The noblest thing out.

-Eggs have advanced to 18 cents a dozen under pressure of the demand just before Easter.

-Lost—A gold cuff pin with coral set. Anyone finding same will please leave it at this office.

-The Ross Brothers have commenced the erection of Miss Annie Hays' house near the depot.

-St. Mary's has long been desirous of having the court house at that point, yet not a St. Mary's site offered a bid at the sale on Tuesday. How is this Mr. Brandon?

-Get yourself a new suit of clothes, and be sure and have them made to fit, for nothing is more becoming than an ill fitting suit of clothes. Call at McAfee's over Powell & Kime's store.

-P. S.—We stop the press to announce that R. V. Kime, of Powell & Kime, is now in New York city, selecting a fine stock of Ladies' Dress Goods, as well as fashionable goods of all descriptions. Ladies—please postpone your purchases till next week. It will pay you.

-The brick clay at Osterhout's tannery was not sufficient for the Ross Brothers. They have leased land on James Gardner's place about 24 miles from this village, where excellent brick clay is found in abundance. They propose manufacturing 1,000,000 brick this season.

-The old court house was sold to Hugh McGeehin, on Tuesday last for $135.00 he being the highest bidder. The building is to be removed in two weeks from day of sale, and the money to be paid in thirty days. Workmen commenced tearing down the chimney on Wednesday morning. Mr. McGeehin proposed moving the building to his lot on Main Street next west of the post office. It is not every man that can own a court house.

-Friday morning last smoke was seen issuing from the roof of the addition of Judge Messenger's residence. The alarm was at once given, calling together a large crowd of people. A hole was cut in the roof but no fire was discovered, nothing but smoke. The soot in the chimney had taken fire, creating considerable smoke which escaped into the attic through a hole in the chimney. No particular damage done, although the chimney was very hot.

-The evidence taken in the contested election case of Curtin vs. Yeomann, was closed at the office of Hall & McCauley at midnight last Tuesday, in a blaze of glory, with Geo. D. Messenger on the stand. In Elk county Mr. Curtin's counsel have utterly failed by their evidence in chief to establish the claim of their client, and relied on cross examination and the rebuttal to make out a case. In this they have also failed, and we consider Mr. Yeomann's chances for retaining his seat, as amounting to a certainty. Reports from the other counties in the district are favorable to Mr. Yeomann.

-Horse Thief Captured.

Quite a commotion was created in Ridgway last Tuesday afternoon by the return of a horse thief in company with his captors. Sunday night a white mare was stolen from the stable of Solomon Stahlman, near Greenville, Clarion county. A man had applied for work the day before, and suspicion at once fastened on him as the probable thief. Mr. Stahlman offered a reward of $25 for his arrest. A party of men from near Greenville, consisting of Samuel Bard, Robt. Allison and John Smith, struck the trail of the thief, following it into Millstone township, Elk county. The trail was followed with varied success all day Monday, Mr. Thief trying to take off across the country in the direction of Marionville, Forest county, but was prevented by the snow, and finally took the main road direct through Ridgway, passing this place early Tuesday morning, and going to St. Mary's via the state road, where he was arrested about a mile east of the latter place near Kaul's mill, Mr. R. M. Painter, of Millstone township, who joined the party at this place being the first man to lay hands on the thief; Robt. Allison, John Smith, and Daniel Canavan, of this place, and the constable of St. Mary's borough, assisting to surround the man. The thief gave the name of Miller, and is the same coon who sold a horse to the Ross Brothers a few weeks ago, and at the time jumped a board bill of $20 at the Thayer house. He spent Tuesday night in jail, being taken down the creek Wednesday morning on his journey to the Clarion Co. jail. His pocket book contained about three dollars in money, which he would have raised to a respectable amount had he succeeded in selling the gray mare which was a beautiful looking beast, speaking well for his judgment of horse-flesh.

Personal Notes.

-Jerry Sheehan is building a new barn.

-Mrs. J. M. Schram and little son are here from Philadelphia.

-Mrs. Jno. G. Hall and daughters have returned from Harrisburg.

-J. P. Arnold, of Lock Haven, is now tailoring for James McAfee.

-Mr. S. S. Ross has moved into the Harry Wilson house on Zion's hill.

-Chas. Cody is building a neat picket fence in front of Ene. Barrett's house.

-Ross Brothers have the contract for building C. V. Gilh's brick house at Kane.

-John Moran held the lucky number in the raffle for Mrs. Ella Patten's watch last Saturday evening.

-Joseph Holseybrook was buried last Friday morning, a driving snow storm prevailing at the time.

-J. W. Eyster was in town the other day. He is now Postal Clerk between Cleveland and Syracuse.

-Miss Grey of Jay township, and daughter of A. W. Gray, Esq., was visiting the Misses Gresh last week.

BIRTHS.

-On Saturday, April 5, 1879, to Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Daley, of this village, a son.

-On Monday, April 7, 1879, to Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Flynn, of this village, a son.

-Eggs—Whenever the hens lay at Powell & Kime's.

-Goods sold cheap and delivered promptly, at Powell & Kime.

-REVOLVER LOST—On Tuesday morning last, between Holes' jewelry store and the depot; a 5 shooter blue barrelled revolver, stamped "bull dog" on barrel. Finder will be liberally rewarded by leaving same at Charles Holes' jewelry store.

-Late, while a travelling menagerie was being exhibited at a village in Thuringia, the leopard tore the bars from his cage, and with a magnificent bound landed among the spectators. He killed a woman and a child, and the sight of blood excited him to such a degree that he would not relinquish his prey until beaten to death. Examination proved that the bars of the cage had been previously loosened, and an employee discharged for drunkenness has been arrested.

-There was outrageous fraud in a Philadelphia pie-eating match. The contestants were three in number, and one of the largest of the variety theatres was crowded with spectators. Three pies were placed on a table, on the stage, and the referee said, "Ready-go!" Each man grabbed a pie, and shut his mouth on about a quarter of its surface; but there was no swallowing, for the pie was filled with leather, straw, and nails.

-In the Chicago whiskey cases a final decision has been rendered by Judge Clifford against the right to grant immunity from prosecution.

-Royal Baking Powder at Morgester's.

-The new double postal card is in a similar shape to the present one cent card. It bears at both upper corners a one cent stamp, and lines are drawn from the centre sloping downward to each lower corner, to be written upon, the writer of the card uses the left hand side in writing his reply. The double letter envelop is stamped twice; and the sender uses the right and the receiver uses the left hand side in writing the address. At the back of this envelope is a double gummed flap, divided by a perforated line. The lower one is used for sealing by the sender and the receiver uses his knife along the perforated line and has a new gummed flap ready for use. The letter sheet envelope is designed to do away with the outer envelopes. Its patency claims great merit for it for the reason that it often occurs that the date at which a writing has been mailed cannot be ascertained because the envelope has been lost. Here the letter and the envelope are one. The new law does not direct the Postmaster General to issue these patented conveniences. It only gives him the discretion to do so. They should come into general use.

-Impudence Set Down Upon.

Some time since one of the brightest and wittiest of Cincinnati's girls went abroad, and when she returned home, about the first person to congratulate her on her safe return was B—, a young blood of the city, whose dollars exceeded his sense in the ratio of about a million to one.

"Aw, Miss X—," he said, "permit me to greet you. I know you have had a very pleasant trip abroad?"

"Yes," she answered, "very pleasant indeed. I was all over the continent and through England, Scotland and Ireland."

"Ah, in Ireland, and did you see the Blarney stone?"

"Yes I was there."

"Oh, I should delight to see it. It has always been a desire of mine to kiss that celebrated stone, but I have never had the opportunity."

"Indeed, then you should."

"I know, but I have not done so, but why shouldn't I kiss it by proxy? You have been there and kissed it, why should I not take the influence of the Blarney from your lips?"—and the smart Aleck stepped forward to proxy kiss the young lady. But she drew back and looking him in the face, said:

"I beg your pardon, my dear Mr. B—, but I sat upon the Blarney stone."

Like a man with great sorrow, B— sank down, and he hasn't said "Ireland" since, and the word "Blarney" makes him delirious.

Tragedy at State Line.

From the McKean Miner.

On Friday morning last Henry Wagner and James Doyle, the former employed in measuring lumber at Bullis' Mill and the latter engaged at the same place in booming and assorting logs, got into a dispute which ended in the capsizing of one of the skiffs occupied by Wagner and the drowning of the latter. It appears that there were two small boats on the mill, but on Friday, the day of the casualty, the work of Doyle required the use of both and he was assured by one of the employees that he could have them. Wagner was not aware of the privilege granted Doyle and at the beginning of the day's labor the former took one of the boats and started up the river for some purpose. Doyle returned from the boom to the mill to get a pike-lever when he saw Wagner rowing up the stream. Doyle demanded the boat saying that he would need it for work on the booms, but Wagner paid no attention, doubtless supposing it was simply an attempt of Doyle to deprive him of its use to satisfy, if possible, the ill-feeling which he was conscious existed between them, for they had not been on agreeable terms for some time past. Wagner told Doyle in a sneering way that he could have the boat if he could get it. This aroused the anger of Doyle and he jumped into the boat he had in use and started in pursuit of Wagner. The latter, seeing the course of Doyle, immediately stopped rowing, and when Doyle came close enough to him with one of the oars he splashed water on Wagner, and Wagner in return unshipped one of his oars and dashed water on Doyle. The latter, when within a proper distance, jumped into the skiff occupied by Wagner. By this time high words were passing between the two men. They raised their oars and each threatened to strike the other. A short scuffle followed, during which they capsized the vessel, and Wagner either fell or was thrown into the river. Doyle swam to the left shore and Wagner struggled about the water for a short time endeavoring to reach the boat. He failed in the attempt, however, and disappeared and reappeared several times. Doyle, after reaching the river bank, took off his boots and plunged into the stream again and brought out one of the boats. By this time Doyle became alarmed, and, with several other persons who saw the struggle, went to the rescue of the drowning man. Doyle took a pike pole and attempted to help the man. Realizing that probably life was gone, in his excited state, Doyle exclaimed, "Oh, my God, what have I done?" Wagner's body was taken ashore and efforts made to resuscitate him, while a man hastened to Eldred and summoned Dr. Guthrie. However, Henry Wagner was beyond revival, and nothing of course could be done even when the physician did arrive.

The following day Coroner Blair was notified of the matter, and proceeded to State Line depot, where, after empanelling a jury, the testimony of James Doyle, and six other witnesses' testimony was taken. After hearing the evidence and some deliberation, the jury found a verdict to the effect that James Doyle was the cause of Henry Wagner's death. A warrant was subsequently issued, and on Sunday morning Doyle was arrested in the neighborhood of Eldred and taken to the county jail at Smithport.

-Cohoes, N. Y., April 6.—At three o'clock yesterday afternoon Catharine Dunsback, a maiden lady, fifty years of age, residing three miles west of Cohoes, was found with her throat cut from ear to ear. The motives of the outrage were murder and robbery, the sum of $4 being secured by the villain.

A tramp who called this morning ostensibly to procure work and subsequently was seen to approach the residence after the departure of Jacob Drunsback, father of the victim, and the only man on the farm, is suspected of being the perpetrator of the deed. Coroner Eccles has assumed charge of the case and is having the country scoured in search of the murderer. The floor during the night to gain relief, she was attracted to the window and fell out.

-This week is one of especial interest to several prominent denominations of Christians and also to the Jews. Maundy Thursday, or the day before Good Friday, commemorates the washing of the disciples' feet by Christ. Good Friday, called in the early days of the church, God's Friday is a day memorable for fasting and solemn services in remembrance of the Saviour's crucifixion. Holy Saturday follows and then comes Easter or Rising day, the greatest festival of the Christian year. Monday evening the Jewish Passover began; the feast which celebrates the passage of the Israelites as exhibited a door post sprinkled with the blood of a lamb. The Passover properly continues for seven days, but is only kept for that length of time by the strictest sect of the Jews.

Dr. Manouvier, a French physician, has published some novel observations on a disease peculiar to bank clerks. It has been repeatedly noticed for years that bankers' clerks, after having handled for some days in succession large quantities of silver five franc pieces, suffer from disorders of the respiratory and digestive organs. These have been ascribed to a dark-greenish metallic dust, which is mixed by taking the coins from the bags where they are generally kept, weighing them, and putting them back. This dust impregnates the atmosphere of the room, blackens the skin, and penetrates into the respiratory and digestive tracts together with the air and saliva. It the years 1872 and 1874, when the money which had been paid by France to Prussia as a tribute was returned to France through mercantile transactions, the clerks spent an unusually long time in handling the coins, which had not been taken out of their bags for some years, and the affection was more marked than ever. Owing to the peculiar circumstances under which this affection has been observed, there can be no doubt as to its being due partly to the copper (verdigris), and partly to the oxidized state of the silver; both metals are used in the coinage of the five-franc pieces in the proportion of nine-tenths of silver and one-tenth of copper.

-Davenport, Iowa, April 6.—Harry C. Watt occupied apartments over his cigar store on Third street, the family consisting of his wife, their little daughter Eda, his wife's sisters, Misses Louisa and Amelia Filtter and an errand boy. Last night visitors left the house at a quarter past eleven o'clock, and Mr. and Mrs. Watt soon retired. Miss Amelia had gone to bed and her sister was preparing to do so when she went to the bureau and drank the contents of a glass, immediately fainting. Mrs. Watt, aroused by screams, rushed into the room. Her husband followed shortly after. Miss Louisa was found in the agonies of death lying in a corner of the room. Watt ended his life really before Louisa did, but she lingered only a mere moment of time after him. It is unmistakably proved this evening that the tragedy was a premeditated suicide. It came out that a letter had been found in Watt's pocket addressed to his wife, and that in this letter he told the whole story of the deed and the cause for it. It was intended by the physicians to hold a post mortem, but this the wife forbid after reading the letter, as there could be no doubt of the nature of the deed. The fact is established that Harry C. Watt and Louisa Filtter had loved each other unwisely and illicitly, and they had determined to end their troubles mutually with their lives. Prussic acid was the agent used. Watt prepared the dose for Louisa and then for himself. A bottle containing the acid was found in the room.

The Four Per Cent. Loan Closed.

Washington, April 4.—The subscriptions to-day to the four per cent. bonds amount to $59,562,750. The Secretary of the Treasury will issue a call for the balance of the 5-20s of 1867 to-day, and to-morrow a call will be issued for the whole of the 5-20s of 1868. This will close the whole of the series of 5-20 bonds. The two calls amount to the sum of $59,562,750. The aggregate calls, including these, since Jan. 1 amount to $349,565,700, making an annual saving of interest of $6,991,314. No further subscriptions will be received for the four per cent. bonds, except for the $10 certificates, until further notice.

The following was issued at a late hour this evening:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT. OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY. Washington, D. C., April 4, '79.

Subscriptions to the four per cent. consols having been received to the full amount of the five-twenty bonds outstanding, the circular of this department of Jan. 1, 1879, inviting such subscriptions, is rescinded.

The $10 refunding certificates will be sold, as heretofore, under the circulars of the dates of March 12 and 25.

The four per cent. consols will hereafter be sold for the redemption of ten-year bonds of the act of March 3, 1867, upon terms to be hereafter prescribed.

JOHN SHERMAN, Secretary.

The Bank of Commerce yesterday subscribed by telegraph for $40,000,000 of the four per cent. Government loan. It was at first rumored that the subscription was made for a syndicate, comprising Drexel, Morgan & Co., Winslow, Lanier & Co., Seligman & Co., Morton, Bliss & Co., and the Bank of Commerce, but subsequently it was ascertained that the proposal had been made on the responsibility of the Bank of Commerce alone. The terms are the same as laid down in Mr. Sherman's circular of January last, viz: the bank is to receive one-quarter of one per cent. with an additional one-tenth of one per cent. in case the bid exceed $10,000,000. This will give the Bank of Commerce a profit of more than $100,000. It is said that the firms above named are interested to a greater or less extent in the proposal of the bank, but there are no means of ascertaining whether they are or not. This subscription will wipe out the remainder of the '67 and '68's, and enable the Treasury, at a later date, to begin to fund the 10-40's.

The telegraphic proposal of the Bank of Commerce was made early in the day, but later a number of influential capitalists met at the Continental Bank, and just after 3 P. M. agreed to propose for $30,000,000 of the fours. Their offer was telegraphed at once, but the answer from the department was that no further subscriptions would be received at present. Mr. John Sherman, announced, in an interview a few days ago, that he would make a stop in the issue of fours as soon as he had succeeded in wiping out the '67's and '68's, and wait for better terms before he commenced the elimination of the 10-40's. Besides the $40,000,000 of the Bank of Commerce, proposals for about $7,000,000 were accepted at the Treasury.

-Dr. William Parker sums up his views on the temperance question in five conclusions: First—There is a wide distinction, which ought to be recognized by temperance reformers, between fermented and distilled liquors. In fermented liquor alcohol is found in its natural chemical combination; in distilled liquor it is found pure and simple. In the one case it may be employed in diet and for nourishment; in the other case it is to be regarded only as a medicine, and as a dangerous one, to be used only with caution. Fermented liquors include ale, beer, cider, and the various wines. Second—If men would use pure fermented liquors in moderate quantities, as a condiment, and only in connection with their meals, the use need not be harmful, and at least in case of those past the middle life might be beneficial. Therefore the State ought to license only real inns, and for the sale of fermented liquors alone. Third—Total abstinence is a good thing for everybody, because the use of even fermented liquors is dangerous, in that in some individuals, especially in those who inherit a tendency to inebriety, it creates or awakens an appetite for drink, and healthy persons do not need them. Fourth—Distilled liquors are deadly. Their use is productive of more disease, physical, mental, and moral, than that of any other known agent, and produces an immeasurably greater number of untimely deaths. Fifth—Distilled liquor is an indispensable medicine, but its sale should be confined to drug stores, and on the prescription of a physician.

-The novel sight was presented in the Texas Legislature, a week or two ago of a member of that body speaking in Spanish in advocacy of a bill making the payment of poll tax a prerequisite to voting. His argument, which most of the body understood although uttered in a foreign tongue, was that at the last election over one thousand Mexicans had crossed over and voted in Texas. The Spanish must have been persuasive, as the bill passed the lower house.
