Some people say newspapers don't represent the views and expressions of the people. The people who say so belong to that class of people who say ugly spiteful things behind the backs of the people they may fancy they do not like. Decent people would not tolerate a newspaper in their house that would give expression to the remarks and views that are expressed on every hand, every day by some men in their association with each other.

The great World's Fair in Chicago closes with this month. People from all the countries in the World visited the Fair, and thousands of people in Chicago were not inside the enclosure being to poor to pay their way into the grounds one time. Such is the way of the world. Who can explain why it is that one man can ride in a palace car with all the luxuries that man can invent and another has to tramp a foot, begging bread from door to door? Who can explain the inequalities of nature? why one man is large, another small? why one is brainy and energetic and another dull and slow? why one family have many children and another have none? Who can explain the inequalities of nature?

Must Be a Graduate.

Years ago it was not necessary for a druggist to be a graduate to enable him to fill prescriptions in a drug store, but the Legislature of this State passed a law with penalties against anyone filling perscriptions in a drug store outside of the provisions of the law. Under that law, Charles Adams of this county, who recently purchased the Damarce drug store in Newport Perry county, has been placed under bonds to appear at court to answer the charge of filling perscriptions without being a graduate of pharmacy. We wish Charles a safe deliverance from the penalties of the prosecution that has been brought against him.

A Thieving Tramp.

A tramp in search of work was taken at his word some time ago when he applied for work at the residence of Mr. Jacob Hower in Fermanagh township. The stranger was well treated and given work on and about the farm. On the morning of October 2nd, Mr. and Mrs. Hower came to town. The tramp then true to his instinct played the part of a liar and thief, went to the house and told the children to get him a gun that there is game out in the woods and fields that might be shot. The children gave him H. C. Hower's $50 double-barreled breech-loading gun with which to shoot the game, and that is the last that has been seen of the thief and gun.
