PURDON'S DIGEST,

A NEW edition of this long established work, brought down to the close of the last session of the Legislature, is this day published and ready for delivery.

This edition has been prepared by George M. Stroud Esq. the editor of the two last editions, who has bestowed great care upon it. The general plan of the original work has been closely adhered to, from the conviction that being familiar to those who are most likely to consult it, it possesses intrinsically advantages over any other. A large number of additional references to the decisions of the Courts have been inserted, and the body of notes considerable enlarged.

The value of these notes are much enhanced in the present edition by appropriate notations indicating the precise portion of the text which they explain.

Besides the preliminary Index to each particular title, a copious general index is given.

GENERAL ORDERS—No. 7.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, Jan. 8, 1847.

1. The following act of Congress changing the term of enlistment, and providing a bounty to recruits, is published for the information and guidance of the officers of the army.

"AN ACT to encourage enlistments in the regular army.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America assembled, That, during the continuance of the war with Mexico, the term of enlistment of the men to be recruited for the regiments of dragoons, artillery, infantry, and riflemen of the present military establishment, shall be "during the war," or five years, at the option of the recruit, unless sooner discharged.

"Sec. 2. And be it further enacted That there shall be allowed and paid to every able-bodied man who shall be duly enlisted to serve in the artillery or infantry, for the term of five years or during the war, a bounty of twelve dollars; but the payment of six dollars of the said bounty shall be deferred until the recruit shall have joined for duty the regiment in which he has to serve."

2 The general superintendents of the recruiting service will give prompt and all necessary instructions to the recruiting officers, who will immediately publish this general order, with the table of established rates of pay agreeable to existing laws annexed, three times in two newspapers in the vicinity of their respective rendezvous.

3 The term of service will hereafter be, "during the war" with Mexico, or for five years, as the recruit may prefer. The blanks now in use, will answer for five years' men, by writing on the back of the enlistment, in due form; the required receipt for the advanced bounty; and they will also suffice for the new term until new blanks can be printed substituting the words "during the war," in the handwriting of the recruiting officer, for the words "five years," as printed in the prescribed oath of allegiance.

4 Company commanders will add two columns to the muster rolls, and muster and pay rolls now in use, to show the payments on account of bounty. In the first column will be charged the advanced bounty paid to the soldier at the time of his enlistment; in the second, the retained bounty due, or paid (as the case may be) after joining for duty the regiment in which he is to serve. Recruiting officers will add similar columns to the blank muster rolls, muster and pay rolls and muster and descriptive rolls, &c, respectively, furnished for the recruiting service.

5. The term of service having been changed from five years, to during the war with Mexico, and a bounty of twelve dollars allowed, it is expected that the rank and file of the army will be filled in a short time, with due exertion and activity on the part of the recruiting officers, who will explain fully to the recruit before he enlists, the conditions upon which he enters the service.

6 Whenever recruiting stations prove unsuccessful, they must be abandoned and new ones established; and if any officer fail to get recruits at more than one station, he shall be relieved and ordered by the superintendent to join his regiment.

7. More than ordinary attention must be paid to the tactical instruction of recruits by all officers and commanders from the moment of enlistment at the rendezvous, until sent to join their regiments. To this point the attention of commanders of depots and posts, is specially directed. (See No 738, A R.)

8. The garrison of Fort Columbus having been withdrawn for service in the field, that post has been turned over exclusively for the recruiting service, as a depot of instruction. Colonel Crane, of the first regiment of artillery, and the general superintendent, will give special attention to this subject, and see that the recruits will be comfortably quartered & well instructed during the short time they may be retained on Governor's Island.

By order:

R. JONES, Adjutant General.

UNITED STATES ARMY.

Recruiting Service.

WANTED for the United States Army, able-bodied men, between the age of 18 and 35 years; being 5 feet 3 inches high, of good character, and of respectable standing among their fellow-citizens. None need apply to enlist the service, but those who are determined to serve the period of their enlistment, honestly and faithfully, "during the war" with Mexico, or for the term of five years.

Table of established rates of pay agreably to existing laws.

Grade.	Pay of Artillery and infantry soldiers, and of dragoons when serving on foot.	Pay of Dragoon soldiers when mounted.
	Pay per mo	per mo
To the sergeant major, quarter master sergeant, chief musician, and bugler each	$17	$17
To the first sergeant of a company	16	16
