-There is much cause for encouragement in the crop outlook. While the leading crops of the United States are reported by the department of agriculture to be in very good condition, the English crops have recently suffered so severely that even the large estimates heretofore made of the food importations of Great Britain during the coming year will probably be exeeeded. A short time ago it was supposed that about $120,000 bushels of wheat would be required by England, but now one of her highest agricultural authorities estimates that she will be obliged to import at least 128, 000,000, and, possibly, 136,000,000 bushels. The demands of France will not fall very far below that of England, and the probable deficiency in other European countries will nearly equal the supplies Southern Russia and the from present appearances, the United States will export the main portion of the wheat and flour required by France and Great Rritain. Our ability to meet such demands is indicated by the estimate that the wheat erop of this country in 1879 will exceed the erop of 1876 by about the quantity required by Great Britain, so that the increase of production has kept pace with the increase in demand, and our farmers have been enlarging their Colorado. Last year the amount yield of the cereals as rapidly as Eu ropean crops have been deelining. Our Colorado Letter. our Washington Correspondent.]

Denver, September 2, 1879. Coming from Leadville here, by way of Georgetown, we cross the main range of mountains twice, and have the benefit of some views of snowy peaks and rock-bound slopes. But the journey is a hard one. The roads are very bad, and this slow, tedious climbing, varied only by least. Middle Park. through which we came, is anything but a real park. It is simply a sandy plain of several hundred acres extent, lying between the ranges, and covered with a deadlooking grass, called "buffalo grass." But it is fine for grazing purposes, and out here they call it a park. The equally difficult decending, becomes exceedingly monotonous, to say the word park, however, conveys the idea of something more fertile and inviting than I have seen anywhere in this barren region. Not the least interestwe have just taken, is witnessed in traveling in the sunsnine along the is $635. The regular rates of the pabase of a mountain, with a violent snow-squall rages at the top, seemingly but a short distance away. But even such scenes as that grow monotonous after a time. Colorado is indeed a wonderful country. The grandness of its mountain scenery and canyons can only be appreciated by those who have been here. This is my third trip-the first having been made in 1873, and the second last year-and I shall not take back any of the extravagant things I have said of the scenery-the lofty mountains and snow-capped peaks; the wonderful formations and marvelous evidences of a terrible angry upheaval of nature some time in the dis tant past, thousands and thousands of years ago, the contemplation of which fills one with awe and amazement. It is, though disappointing to some, to my mind well worth coming to see. The disappointed tourists are those who expect to find a land flowing with milk and honey-trees covered with extraordinary escape of a young Ni- gold and silver foliage, and alive with hilist girl named Gobieslawska from birds of gorgeous plumage.
